THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIFIC COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco, HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the afflicted suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Look Haven, and spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in this celebrated institution, and then give a few years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST ranked in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and speedy treatment and moderate charges to all."

We shall commence publishing our extra editon for circulation in Sacramento City, and to serve as the exclusive programme for the Lotta season next week at the Metropolitan Theatre, in that city, to-morrow night. FIGARO will have a more thorough circulation in Sacramento during the coming week than any paper ever had before. It will be distributed every day everywhere throughout the city, in all stores, saloons, offices, and in the better class of private residences. A few advertisements will be received for this edition.

Nice Man.

A lady stepped on Ex-Senator Doolittle's foot, while getting into a Chicago stage the other day. She blushingly begged the gentleman's pardon, whereupon he said: "Miss, for a bright, sunny smile like that, I am perfectly willing you should dance the Boston dip on my favorite corns." This reminds us of the treatment of Boaz by Ruth recorded in Holy Writ. She trod on his corn and pulled his ears, but he liked her all the better for it.

Speculation in Stocks.

We do not waste over-much sympathy with those whose regular occupation is speculating in stocks who have recently experienced severe losses by the fall in the market, but there is another and a large class whom we cannot help but pity. We refer to those who had by years of honest industry accumulated a little money, which they had safely invested in real estate, in savings banks or in other ways, and received from it a small income. These in many cases rashly ventured their all with a hope of doubling their principal. They only intended to make one venture, and if they succeeded would withdraw their money from stocks and reinvest it in mere tangible securities. They thought they could do this, but they over-calculated their strength of mind. The mad spirit of gambling took possession of them, and they could not withdraw. Did their stock fall in value they were sure it would rise again in a day or two; did it go up, then they would hold on just a little longer until it reached a certain figure. The crash came and they lost all. Those who make money by speculating in stocks, buying low and selling at an advance, devote every hour of their time to studying the business and watching the chances. Outsiders must eventually come to grief. It is on their money that the professionals grow rich. If a man has a few hundred dollars that he can spare, he may invest it in mining property, and perhaps in course of years, if he has patience with it, will grow into a fortune. Speculation in stocks is a business which no man who has any other business to attend to should meddle with. The mining market in San Francisco is no safer for an inexperienced man to enter than a "hogging" game. Many of the so-called "brokers" are but "cappers" and "ringers in," and they have no scruples in making money out of the losses of their friends who invest. If remonstrated with for their perfidy they would say "it is business." When a mining sharp offers to let some "friend" into a good thing, it generally turns out a "good thing" only for him, and his profits come out of his friend's pocket. "Speculating" in stocks is gambling. Let all men who feel tempted to enter into it remember this. Moreover the game is not fair. There is more than a fair percentage taken by the dealers; cards are put up and those on the inside who have the management depend in a great measure for their profits on the inexperienced ones who stake their money blindly and invest in what they "fancy" must turn out a lucky mine. Skill will beat luck always. Hundreds have found this to be the case during the late excitement in stocks.

Oyster Palace Restaurant,

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remains for Messers Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where luxurious and succulent oysters, the best of meats and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. Novel Movement in the Sewing-Machine Business—Regular Auction Trade Sale.

A new feature in the sewing-machine trade, of great importance to purchasers, both wholesale and retail, was inaugurated yesterday and is continued to-day, by the Wilcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine Company. The balance of exchange machines, taken in part payment for their own machines by that company and left on their hands from the business of the last two or three months, is to be closed out at auction, without reserve. It was formerly practicable to dispose of all the exchange machines at private sale; but their number has lately been accumulating so rapidly on the Wilcox & Gibbs Company's hands as to lead to the present and future clearing-out sales. As upwards of 1,200 machines are offered—mostly of the best two thread varieties, such as Howe, Singer, Wheeler & Wilson, Grover & Baker, &c.—and the sale is peremtory, the prices realized yesterday were such as must have been far from satisfactory to the sellers and proportionately charming to the buyers. Very fair lots, as above described, were going all day at from $5 to $10, though all the machines were sold as good and in good order, and the attendance of buyers from the trade in this and other cities large. From the moderate proportion of ladies and other private purchasers present, it would seem not to have been generally understood that single machines would have been sold to those not in the trade. Such, however, is the case, it being the desire of the Wilcox & Gibbs' Company to make the sale a popular one, for their own advantage. Every lot is first put up with the privilege to the successful bidder of choosing one or more machines from it, after which the balance of the lot is put up again and sold without reserve. Thus it will be seen that there is no reason why any one desiring a lock stich or two-thread machine of any make whatever, should not now obtain one nearly as good as new, at perhaps one-tenth or one-seventh of the manufacturer's price. Many persons yesterday secured valuable machines in fee simple, for less than the amount of a first instalment on a regular purchase. The more general knowledge of this fact will probably render the bidding more animated to-day than yesterday, and prices higher.

With regard to the future sales, we do not learn whether the natural policy of seeking to obtain better returns by offering these exchange machines in smaller masses at more frequent intervals will prevail, or whether the policy will be to make a great occasion for the trade all over the country by a heavy quarterly clearing-out sale. It would seem as if the interest of all parties would be better promoted on the whole by having sales one-third as large as the present once a month. It is certainly to be a great boon to the laboring classes to have these valuable working machines thus brought within the means of all, and they will of course lay their plans with reference to the regular sales whenever the periods of them shall have been announced. Of course it will be understood that no Wilcox & Gibbs' machines can be obtained at such sales, as they are hardly ever given up in exchange for machines of any other make, and are therefore always scarce in the second-hand market.—New York Standard, April 18. AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—The friends of Miss Alice Zavistowski rallied last night to attend her benefit. The very attractive burlesque of "Pygmalion" was presented, Alice playing the sculptor, Emeline looking very pretty as the statue, Henrietta Grainger once more appearing as a brunette Venus (a novelty), and Christine playing Cupid. W. C. Crosbie was very amusing as Cambyses, and Miss Maggie Moore made great fun in the character of Mopsa. At the matinee to-day "Ixion" will be played, and this evening "Pygmalion" will be performed. The thrilling drama of "Jack Sheppard" will be presented to-morrow evening. Next week will be the last of the Zavistowskis.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—Those in search of a new sensation should witness Miss Carlotta Leclercq's really wonderful impersonation of Pauline in "The Lady of Lyons." Until they have have done so they cannot have a conception of what that character is capable in the hands of a great artist. "The Lady of Lyons" will be played at the matinee to-day and again this evening.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—Two such acts as "Bad Whiskey" and "Pompey's Patients" are seldom played on one night, and it is no wonder they draw crowded houses. The Emerson Minstrels in addition to being original and talented, are hard working and spare no effort to amuse their patrons. Sheridan and Mack, Billy Emerson, Fayette Welch, Add Ryman and all the others will appear at the matinee to-day, and again this evening.

BELLA UNION.—A great bill has been prepared for this evening. It comprises many capital performances. Johnny Tuers in "Bad Dickey;" Matt. Kelly as the Live Indian in "The Tobacconists;" Carrie Armstrong, Carrie Chapman, Susie Robinson, and Marie Zoel in their various specialties: J. H. Larkin in his Dutch acts and a melange of songs, dances and specialties by other members of the company, concluding with "The Persecuted Dutchman," in which J. H. Larkin, Harry Sinclair, Fanny Garretson, Tommy Bree, Marie Zoel and others appear.

NEW AMERICAN THEATRE.—A great Saturday night bill has been prepared at this lively place of amusement. Chris Mathews, Harry Devoe, Jimmy Murphy, Rose Durand, Harry Howard and a host of others will appear.

PACIFIC HALL.—ANNA MEHLIG'S MATINEE. This afternoon Miss Anna Mehlig will give a pianoforte recital, commencing at 2 o'clock. The gifted pianiste will on this occasion play selections from the works of Weber, Bach, Haydn, Schubert Mendelssohn, Beethoven, Schumann, Chopin and Liszt. The box-sheet is filling so rapidly that a large and fashionable attendance is certain. We are glad that Miss Mehlig has no cause to complain of a lack of appreciation of her talent in this city, each concert she has given having crowded the hall.

SAN FRANCISCO CIRCUS AND HIPPODROME.—On Monday evening, the season of 1872 will be inaugurated by the San Francisco Circus and Hippodrome, which will open on Jackson street lot. This company comprises the great Mathews Family, consisting of ten brilliant stars of the arena, a corps of talented equestrians, acrobats, gymnasts and clowns, and a great stud of trained horses and ponies. The pavilion will be arranged in such a manner that the comfort of all visitors will be secured. The dress circle will be provided with chairs, and will accommodate 1000 persons; the other portion of the ring will seat nearly 2000. There will be an immense rush to the Circus on Monday evening.

CITY GARDENS.—To-morrow will be a great festival for our Irish citizens. The Fenian Brotherhood will hold their picnic and festival at the City Gardens. There will be a grand open air concert by the California Guard band, exhibitions of skating in the Pavilion by Callie Curtis and Cyrus True, and a variety of contests for prizes which will be found enumerated on our first page. In the evening the gardens will be illuminated and there will be dancing in the pavilion both in the day and evening. Fifty cents covers admission and railroad fare by the North Beach and Mission and Omnibus Railroad Companies.

CITY GARDENS—THE RED MEN'S PICNIC.—The sixtieth anniversary of the Improved Order of Red Men, will be celebrated to-morrow at the City Gardens. There will be races, all sorts of games and interesting ceremonies. Every child entering the gardens will receive a check, entitling it to a share in the distribution of several hundred gifts, among which is a valuable watch. Admission to the gardens and ceremonies will be only 50 cents.

"BAGSHOT ABROAD."—The California correspondent of the London Era, one of the best, if not the best theatrical papers published, notices very favorably J. C. Ford's and Paul J. Roberts play of "Bagshot Abroad," produced some two months since at the Metropolitan Theatre, and gives a full synopsis of the plot. California plays are attracting attention even on the other side of the Atlantic.

A SENSATION AHEAD.—Three of the most talented and enterprising of the members of the Bella Union Theatre company, Johnny Tuers, J. H. Larkin and Miss Carrie Armstrong, advertise in another column that they have in preparation, and will produce on Saturday next, an act entitled "Zykalliwriggles," in which they will attempt to surpass the wonderful Majiltons if they have to risk their necks to do it.

CHARLES WHEATLEIGH.—On Monday week Mr. Charles Wheatleigh will commence his farewell engagement at the Metropolitan Theatre, with the production in splendid style of Lester Wallack's new drama, "The Veteran," Mr. Wheatleigh personating Lester Wallack's part of Leon, a character peculiarly fitted to this professional qualities. The piece will be produced with a strong cast.

CAPT. BADGER'S CENTRAL PARK, OAKLAND.—The Turners of Alameda County will hold their annual picnic on these beautiful grounds on Sunday. The railroad fare with return tickets on Sundays is but 25 cents. Admission to the grounds 25 cents; children half price.

PLACER REUNION.—A picnic will be held to-day at Fassking's Garden, Alameda, by former residents of Placer county. These gatherings recall recollections of the early days of California, and are very pleasant.

I. O. G. T. PICNIC.—The Good Templars of San Francisco will hold a social picnic in Schuetzen Park, Alameda, to-day. There will be

THE BERGER FAMILY.—This celebrated company of musical artistes, who are to make their first appearance in San Francisco at Platt's Hall on Monday, May 20th, are spoken of in the following complimentary manner by one of our Eastern exchanges:

The Berger Family are a remarkable manifestation of the lavishness of nature's gifts when in a generous mood, and cultivation has added all that could be needed for their development. Observ., elegant, tasteful, sentimental, pathetic and comic, this accomplished company present an intellectual treat, which cannot fail to meet the expectations of the most fastidious taste. Not one of the troupe but excels in some special accomplishment, and as a whole they are inimitable. Sol Smith Russell, the comedian, has no peer in his line, he's a whole show in himself. He is by the way, as we are informed, a nephew of "Old Sol Smith"—the father of the provincial drama in the South and West.

We learn on the best of authority that the Berger Family have, within the past few weeks, received offers of engagements from Manager Saville, of the National Theatre, Washington, D. C.; from John Ford of the Grand Opera House, Baltimore; from two different managers in Philadelphia; from the management of a popular Broadway theatre in New York; from Manager Lake of the St. James Theatre, Boston, and from the managers of two different theatres in Chicago; all of which they have been compelled to decline until after the expiration of their engagements in California.

LAWRENCE P. BARRETT.—Lawrence Barrett leaves New York on May 20th to prepare for his engagement at the California Theatre June 9th. He was tendered a benefit at his own theatre in New Orleans, and gave "Romeo" to a crowded house. His Cassius was received with much favor, and created as great a furore as in New York. We shall have him here in June "Divorce" and "Man o' Airlie" will be looked forward to with interest, as they both had long and successful runs in New York. The New Orleans papers speak most highly of his success as a manager as well as actor. The season has been an exceedingly prosperous one under his guidance.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—To-day and Sunday Herr Schlam, the Magician, gives an exhibition in somatic experiments and scientific magic. Don't fail to see him. Go see the baby bears.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—"The Palace of Truth" with all the effects as produced in San Francisco, M'lle Venturoli and the Mojiltons, has drawn good houses at the Metropolitan Theatre during the week. On Monday Lotta and Manager Bert's Metropolitan Theatre company from this city will take possession of the house opening in "The Little Detective" and playing for one week. The theatre will of course be thronged every night and FIGARO will be the regular house programme and also will be distributed broadcast through the city.

OAKLAND.—The Hibernicon drew crowded houses at Market Hall, commencing on Monday and closing on Thursday evening.

MOKELUMNE HILL.—Morrell's Comedy Troupe performed in Seger's Hall last week. The Calaveras Chronicle says: The performance was a very good one—in fact, the best we have seen here for some time. Dickinson and Parks were especially happy in their songs and dances, and Morrell has vastly improved as a banjoist since his former appearance here. The entertainment concluded with the inevitable dance.

JACKSON.—Jackson was quite lively in the way of amusements last week. The Forestelle Troupe, the Pioneer Blind Troupe and the Morell Minstrels all gave performances, and besides this there was a concert by Mr. and Mrs. Richardson and a lecture with chemical experiments by W. J. Collier. Under these circumstances more shows should go to Jackson.

REDWOOD CITY.—Miss Laura A. Stevenson, formerly of the American Combination, gave an entertainment entitled "Ireland's Poets and Ireland's Songs," at Gymnasium Hall on last Monday and by general request repeated it on Wednesday.

VIRGINIA CITY, NEV.—The Milburn Combination appeared at Piper's Opera House on Monday and played through the week. The press speak in the highest terms of the entertainment. They close to-night.

SAN JOSE.—Lotta and the fine company from the Metropolitan Theatre played at Brohaska's Opera House on Monday and Tuesday, presenting "The Little Detective" and "Heartsease." The house was thronged on both occasions. The San Jose Mercury says:

The house was filled to overflowing, thus demonstrating the oft repeated fact that talent will draw in San Jose. Manager Bert has done the genteel thing by us, and he has had no occasion to complain of any want of appreciation on the part of our citizens of his efforts to please and amuse. We hope he will come again with Lotta and the rest of the excellent troupe, he could fill the house for at least a week. The Hibernicon will show at the Opera House on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

GRASS VALLEY.—The American Combination gave concerts at theatre on Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

MARYSVILLE.—Lotta supported by Robert Craig and the Metropolitan Theatre Company appeared at the theatre last night in "The Little Detective," and it will be played at the matinee to-day, and to-night "Heartsease" will be performed. The Appeal says:

A number of the friends of Miss Mary E. Wadsworth, and admirers of her rare musical capacities have solicited her to appear for two night in this city in Italian Opera. It is proposed to give "Crispino e la Comare" and "Il Barbiere." A sufficient amount is subscribed to meet expenses. The operas will be given on Friday and Saturday of next week.

STOCKTON.—Lotta and the Metropolitan Theatre Company opened in the "Little Detective" on Wednesday evening at the theatre to a good house On Thursday evening "Heartsease" was given. E. J. Crowell, a member of the company, was severely injured on the 8th by falling from a locomotive tender.

MONTICELLO, NAPA CO.—The Amateur Company performed "Time Tries All" on the 1st to a crowded house. Milton Ash is the leading man.

Supper Parties.

A man eats breakfast because he is hungry; too often he hurries over his dinner, but supper he enjoys. All enjoy a supper at the BIVALVE, 640 Market street, three doors below Kearny. There they find the coolest little private rooms up-stairs, the finest oysters and the best of everything. W. Spreen started the BIVALVE seven years ago, and it is to-day the most popular oyster house in San Francisco.

Over 600,000 now in use; 100,000 more of "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other machine making the lock-stich. W. M. Stoddard, Agent, 427 Montgomery street, San Francisco. F

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

In New York the dead season of the year is commencing, and there is little doing in theatricals. Niblo's is burned down. Tony Pastor's, Bryant's and the San Francisco Minstrels have started out on their Summer tours. The Grand Opera House and Union Square Theatres are advertised to be rented. "Ixion" is being played at Wood's Museum; "Humpty Dumpty" at the Olympic. The Fifth Avenue will close in June. "No. 47" will run till then. There are no novelties to chronicle at the other theatres.

Mme. Parepa and Carl Rosa, also M'lle Nilsson, sailed for Europe on May 1st.

Augustus Bishop, a son of Mme. Anna Bishop, the well-known vocalist, died suddenly on Sunday evening, April 21st, at the age of thirty-five years. He was unmarried, and at the time of his demise was employed in a gold beater's establishment in Hudson street.

Max Maretzek was to sail for Europe May 1st.

The Hyers Sisters were in Providence 28th and 29th April. These black swans have not met with very much success.

An heiress was born to Frank Mayo April 13th. Mayo has leased the Rochester Opera House for three years from May 1st.

Edwin Adams is to appear at Booth's Theatre May 20th, in "Enoch Arden."

Aiken's Theatre, Chicago, will be opened on or about July 22d. It is now fast being completed, and stands on the corner of Walnut avenue and Congress street, in the heart of the resuscitating city. The style of architecture Renaissance. The size of the ground is 80x150 feet, and the front elevation to the cornice will be sixty feet. Above the cornice rises a highly ornamented French roof adorned by three handsome pavilion towers, the central tower rising nineteen feet over the cornice and those at the corners twelve feet. The front is to be of gray stone to the second story, and above that line of red pressed brick, elaborately ornamented with stone. The main entrance will be 16 feet wide by 27 in hight. The plan at first contemplated of having stores in front has been abandoned, as taking too much valuable space. In addition to the general ornamentation of the front, there is to be on each side of the central pavilion of the French roof two figures larger than life, the one representing Tragedy, the other Comedy. The vestibule, through which the auditorium will be reached, is to be 18 feet in length by 25 feet in width, and will be finished in colors The auditorium will have three tiers of seats, the first two reached from the main entrance on Wabash avenue. The stage is to be forty-three feet by the full width of the theatre. The scenery will be of the conventional style, the character of the ground which underlies Chicago precluding the use of the latest novelties in scenic machinery

At the Griswold Opera House, Troy, "Saratoga" was produced April 22d with stock, to fair business. Geo. W. Middleton and Josie Booth, lately of the company, were giving readings in neighboring towns. They were said to have been married before starting.

"Partners for Life" is described as "one of the pleasantest pieces of the season" by the Boston Times. The same journal says that "it is not too much to expect of Mr. Byron, when he can allow himself time for the work, a comedy that shall place his name in the rank with that of Sheridan."

M'lle Vestvali has engaged the Sisters Hildegard, pianistes, and Gabriele Soingier, for a tour through the United States for 100 concertes, season of 1872-3.

Mr. Josh Hart will be sole lessee of the Theatre Comique after the 1st of May.

M'lle Aimee and company commenced an engagement at the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, May 6th.

It is rumored that Mr. Edwin Forrest purposes building a theatre in New York.

Leffingwell is at the New American Varieties, Philadelphia.

Maggie Mitchell commenced an engagement at the Boston Theatre on the 28th.

Mr. Charles Mathews is about to sail for London and from there he goes to the Continent for a few months' recreation. He will appear on the London stage in October.

Duprez and Benedict's Minstrels, St. Louis one week. While the troupe were at Lawrence, Kansas, a negro insisted on mounting the stage from parquette, while Ernest Linden was singing a song in female guise. He was confident that Linden was his long lost sister Marie, whom he had not seen for many years, and wished to embrace him. He was prevented from reaching the stage, and would not believe that Linden was not his sister.

At Quincy, Ill., lately, Duprez was arrested for calling an usher a thief and a liar, but compromised by paying $75 and signing a retraction of his charge.

Mr. Frank Murdoch has written a drama called "Bohemia; or, the Lottery of Art," which was recently produced at Lawrence Barrett's Theatre in New Orleans, for the author's benefit. The scene is laid in New York, among actors artists, and journalists, and the comedy was exceedingly well received.

"Something Nice."

"Haven't got much appetite, but could eat something nice?" Then you should go at 12 o'clock to the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, established in 1849. Henry Bocken is the most experienced of caterers, and his lunches and dinners cannot be beat. Our best fed lawyers, our most popular physicians, and all epicures patronize the Pioneer Restaurant. R

The Palace of Truth.

Why is an oyster like an inmate of the Palace of Truth?—Because it cannot tell a lie. Another: Why do so many of the audience after visiting the California Theatre, flock after the performance to the Pacific Oyster House, 329 Bush street, just below Montgomery?—Because Charley Haake has the finest, fattest, richest Eastern oysters, and gets up the best suppers imaginable.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the same treatment of those OBSTINATE DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment: but the constant applications from suffering everywhere, to come to their relief finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, London, and spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment of the celebrated institution, and then give a few years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST was unbounded in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

OUR LOTTA EDITION.

We shall publish the first of our extra editons for circulation in Sacramento City, and to serve as the exclusive programme for the Lotta season next week at the Metropolitan Theatre, in that city, to-night. FIGARO will have a more thorough circulation in Sacramento during the coming week than any paper ever had before. It will be distributed every day everywhere throughout the city, in all stores, saloons offices, and in the better class of private residences. A few advertisements will be received for this edition.

NEW INVENTION.—J. Spaulding & Co's new sweeping machine, for sweeping carpets after being beaten by the beating machine, is a new California invention. It gives the carpets a brilliancy that has not ever before been obtained in the annals of carpet beating, nor can it be obtained by any other process. It takes all lint and fine dust from the face of the carpet, leaving it as clean and brilliant as new, without any injury to the fabric. It can be seen in operation at 353 Tehama street bet Fourth and Fifth street's any day. Call and see it and satisfy yourself before sending your carpets elsewhere to be cleaned.

SAN FRANCISCO STALL.—Nos. ,60 and 61 California Market, sell fine meats at cash less than any other place in the city. U

The Latest Styles, The latest "Tiles."

There is quite a rush just at present to "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street, (the second hat store below Kearny), where have been received an immense number of the new Summer style of hats, which are being sold at remarkably low prices. A fashionable "tile" finishes off a well-dressed man admirably. It can be obtained at "THE" HAT STORE. •

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

Letter from Portland.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

PORTLAND, Oregon, May 3d, 1872.

DEAR FIGARO:—Apropos of theatricals, the doors of the Oro Fino Theatre closed on Saturday last, the 27th inst.; after an unusually successful season of four months. During the last week of the season, Messrs. G. B. Waldron W. Barry, Robert Fulford, Mrs. G. B. Waldron, Miss Minnie Pixley, were the recipients of highly remunerative benefits. Those of the three former were literally crushers. The company will leave to-day for Victoria, Vancouver Island, where they remain two weeks, after which the important places on the Sound will be visited, then it is the intention of Manager Waldron to return to this city with a view to superintending the construction of the stage of the new theatre in this place, and of which prespective establishment he has become the lessee. Robert Fulford, the juvenile with Mr. Waldron's company united his fortunes in the tenderest of ties with Miss Minnie Pixley on Tuesday last. The lady has been a member of the Oro Fino Theatre company since the second week of Mr. Waldron's opening of the theatre. In the opinion of your correspondent, the match is a good one. As I intend taking what might be called a run to Victoria, next week I will drop you a few lines from there. CORNUCOPIA.

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Mr. W. S. Gilbert is writing another mythological comedy.

A new burlesque, founded on Lord Lytton's novel, "The last of the Barons," is in rehearsal at the London Strand.

The English Provinces are generously supporting a theatrical enormity in the shape of a boy of the age of nine years, who is playing Shylock!

A London theatre, the Gaiety, has given up the use of placards and posters and confines its advertisements solely to the newspapers.

Miss Madge Robertson lately appeared at the Haymarket, London, on the occasion of her benefit in a comedy-drama by Mr. A'Beckett, called "Faded Flowers."

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remains for Messers Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where luxurious and succulent oysters, the best of meats and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experiences, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Theatrical Costumes.

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

Novel Movement in the Sewing-Machine Business—Regular Auction Trade Sale.

A new feature in the sewing-machine trade, of great importance to purchasers, both wholesale and retail, was inaugurated yesterday and is continued to-day, by the Wilcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine Company. The balance of exchange machines, taken in part payment for their own machines by that company and left on their hands from the business of the last two or three months, is to be closed out at auction, without reserve. It was formerly practicable to dispose of all the exchange machines at private sale; but their number has lately been accumulating so rapidly on the Wilcox & Gibbs Company's hands as to lead to the present and future clearing-out sales. As upwards of 1,200 machines are offered—mostly of the best two thread varieties, such as Howe, Singer, Wheeler & Wilson, Grover & Baker, &c—and the sale is peremptory, the prices realized yesterday were such as must have been far from satisfactory to the sellers and proportionately charming to the buyers. Very fair lots, as above described, were going all day at from $5 to $10, though all the machines were sold as good and in good order, and the attendance of buyers from the trade in this and other cities large. From the moderate proportion of ladies and other private purchasers present, it would seem not to have been generally understood that single machines would have been sold to those not in the trade. Such, however, is the case, it being the desire of the Wilcox & Gibbs' Company to make the sale a popular one, for their own advantage. Every lot is first put up with the privilege to the successful bidder of choosing one or more machines from it, after which the balance of the lot is put up again and sold without reserve. Thus it will be seen that there is no reason why any one desiring a look stich or two-thread machine of any make whatever, should not now obtain one nearly as good as new, at perhaps one-tenth or one-seventh of the manufacturer's price. Many persons yesterday secured valuable machines in fee simple, for less than the amount of a first instalment on a regular purchase. The more general knowledge of this fact will probably render the bidding more animated to-day than yesterday, and prices higher.

With regard to the future sales, we do not learn whether the natural policy of seeking to obtain better returns by offering these exchange machines in smaller masses at more frequent intervals will prevail, or whether the policy will be to make a great occasion for the trade all over the country by a heavy quarterly clearing-out sale. It would seem as if the interest of all parties would be better promoted on the whole by having sales one-third as large as the present once a month. It is certainly to be a great boon to the laboring classes to have these valuable working machines thus brought within the means of all, and they will of course lay their plans with reference to the regular sales whenever the periods of them shall have been announced. Of course it will be understood that no Wilcox & Gibbs' machines can be obtained at such sales, as they are hardly ever given up in exchange for machines of any other make, and are therefore always scarce in the second-hand market.—New York Standard, April 18. Pacific Coast Agency of Wilcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine Company, 113 Post street, San Francisco. E

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

The Alhambra.

The public are determined to make the most of the short time during which the great Emerson Minstrels will remain at this house. The new bill is a capital one. Among the many amusing features are the inimitable songs and dances of Billy Emerson; Sheridan and Mack in "My Old Wife," "Pat McCann" and other acts; Fayette Welch, Add Ryman, Sam Rickey, M. Ainsley Scott and J. Robinson in "High Jack the Heeler," and Add Ryman's burlesque "Court Scene," in which the ways of the shyster are shown up in the most amusing style.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The very amusing burlesque of "Pygmalion," in which the Zavistowski Sisters, Emelie, Alice, and Christine, shine in the respective characters of Pygmalion, the Statue, and Cupid, was repeated last night. Miss Alice gained much applause for her songs and dances; Miss Henrietta Grainger looked charming as Venus, and W. G Crosbie was very amusing as Cambyses. To-night the popular burlesque of 'Pygmalion" will be repeated.

California Theatre.

"Masks and Faces" drew a large audience last night, and was excellent well performed. Miss Carlotta Leclercq's impersonation of Peg Woffington was a most artistic work; it has never been equalled on the California stage; the lights and shades of the character were brought out in the most clever manner, and Peg Woffington herself seemed to stand before the audience. Miss Minnie Walton played the character of Mabel Vane in a charmingly natural manner. Triplet is one of John McCullough's favorite parts, and he gained much applause in it last night. John Wilson was a little heavy in the character of the spooney Ernest Vane, but did very well. Owen Marlowe was excellent as Sir Charles Pomander; J. C. Williamson's make-up and acting in the character of Colly Cibber were both good, and W. A. Mestayer, Miss M. Chambers, Edmund Leathes and others played their respective parts well. "Masks and Faces" will be played again to-night. On Thursday evening the beautiful comedy of "As You Like It" will be performed for the last time, and on Friday Miss Carlotta Leclercq will take her benefit.

Bella Union.

J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong have made quite a hit in their Dutch version of 'The Days When I Was Young;" the farce of "The Tobacconist's Daughter" is received with great applause nightly; Marie Zoel always gains an encore for her fancy dance; Tommy Barton's song of the girl on the slack wire has made a hit; Johnny Tuers is great in the act of "Sublime and Ridiculous," and the farce of "The Persecuted Dutchman" winds up the evening's fun.

American Theatre.

New songs, new acts, and above all new faces, is the motto of this wide-awake establishment. The latest addition to the strong company is the popular character vocalist, Miss Clara Starr, who was received last night with shouts of applause.

Maguire's Opera House.

This theatre presented a brilliant appearance last night, crowded as it was with the beauty and fashion of the city. The occasion was a French performance by amateurs for the benefit of the French Ransom Fund. The entertainment was a charming one and the and the audience were liberal in their applause.

San Francisco Circus and Hippodrome.

The circus season was opened most brilliantly last night by the San Francisco Circus in the great pavilion erected on the lot on Jackson street. Somewhere in the neighborhood of 3,000 people were present, every seat being occupied and many standing. The performance gave the greatest satisfaction. There were no tedious waits, but act followed act in rapid succession. The Mathews Family are, as we prophesied they would prove, stars of the first magnitude. Master Willie Mathews as clown surpasses many an old hand in the business, is a most accomplished gymnast, and in addition to this a clever character actor and vocalist. His Dutch acts with Miss Polani drew immense applause. The whole family in their brilliant drawing-room entertainment, were applauded to the echo. This talented family are not however the only stars in this well selected combination of talent. Of the graceful and daring Omar Kingsley there is no need to speak, he is well known as one of the stars of the profession. Ducrow is great in somersault acts; but there is something so original, so unlike anything ever seen before, in the performance of Warland that he shines out with unexampled lustre in spite of his brilliant surroundings. This performer throws somersaults and while in mid-air executes the most extraordinary whirling gyrations imaginable, all of which are rewarded with thunders of applause. Master Johnny Cooke is one of the most graceful and neatest of juvenile performers, and executed a hurdle act in the most artistic style. James Leroy's hurdle act was one of the finest things ever seen in the arena. The clowns, George Sharp, Horatio Nelson and the talented little Willie Matthews, did their fooling admirably, and the very amusing finale of the performing elephant Bolivar sent the vast assemblage home in the best of humor. The company company composing the San Francisco Circus is so thoroughly good, and their repertoire of acts is so extensive, that the season should be a very long and prosperous one. The pavilion also has been fitted up in a very superior manner, in which the convenience and comfort of the public has been studied, and the whole arrangements under the supervision of the veteran manager John Wilson, are models in the way of an arenic entertainment. The first Circus matinee will be given to-morrow at 2½ o'clock.

Miss Anna Mehlig's Concerts.

To-night Miss Anna Mehlig, the great pianiste, will give her third concert. It will no doubt be as well attended as the previous one. The public of San Francisco have realized the fact that a really great artiste is with us at present and are improving the opportunity offered them of hearing good music. Miss Mehlig will play selections from Meyerbeer, Chopin, Liszt, Schubert, Mendelssohn, and Weber. Miss Helen C. Dingeon will assist and sing the page's song from "Les Huguenots," in the first part, and two songs in the second. Geo. T. Evans will be musical director.

Boorishness.

Under the above heading the Vallejo Chronicle has the following, which is, we are sorry to say, not without an application in San Francisco:

A correspondent who signs himself "Rustic," wants to know whether the common habit of an audience at a theatre getting up and retiring before the play is over, as they did at Farragut Hall on Thursday night, is for the want of better manners. We should think it was, but we do not know whether the habit is purely American or not. But this we do know, whether it is a custom confined to Americans or not, it is a custom that would be "more honored in the breach than in the observance. It cannot fail to be hot only embarrassing and humiliating to the actors, but also annoying and provoking to that portion of the audience who wish ty hear the performance completed. It is an exhibition of boorishness and a want of good manners peculiarly annoying to the sensibilities of those who appreciate the proprieties of life and the laws of decorum.

True Enough.

Many a man is rich without money. Thousands of men with nothing in their pockets, thousands without even a pocket, are rich. A man born with a sound constitution, a good stomach, a good heart, good limbs and a pretty good headpiece, is rich. Good bones are better than gold, good muscles than silver, and nerves that flash fire and carry energy to every function are better than houses and land. It is better than an estate to have the right kind of a father and mother. Good breeds and bad breeds exist among men as really as among herds and horses.

Don't Give In.

Struggle on to victory. Never give up when you are right. A frown is only a muscular contraction and can't last long. A laugh of derision is but the modified bark of a cur. If you can be laughed out of good, you are weaker in intellect than the fool, whose argument is a guffaw, and whose logic is a sneer.

How Did She Know?

A young lady in Western New York asserts that when young gentlemen eat warm maple sugar it gets in their moustaches and makes them scratchy. Her father says it is true, but as he never eats maple sugar, he doesn't see how she found it out.

Mr. Hartz,

The Magician, is still at his quarters, 140 Montgomery street, where he has for sale large quantities of all kinds of conjuring tricks. Prices varying from 75 cents and upwards. No house is completely furnished without a set of magical illusions, provided by Hartz. All the tricks are readily performed, and purchasers receive ample instruction, printed and verbal, so that there is not the least difficulty in performing them. Mr, Hartz only remains a few weeks longer in this city; so those wishing to procure those entertaining novelties had better see and get them at once. Send for a catalogue. D

Supper Parties.

A man eats breakfast because he is hungry; too often he hurries over his dinner, but supper he enjoys. All enjoy a supper at the BIVALVE, 640 Market street, three doors below Kearny. There they find the coolest little private rooms up-stairs, the finest oysters and the best of everything. W. Spreen started the BIVALVE seven years ogo, and it is to-day the most popular oyster house in San Francisco.

The Palace of Truth.

Why is an oyster like an inmate of the Palace of Truth?—Because it cannot tell a lie. Another: Why do so many of the audience after visiting the California Theatre, flock after the performance to the Pacific Oyster House, 329 Bush street, just below Montgomery?—Because Charley Haake has the finest, fattest, richest Eastern oysters, and gets up the best suppers imaginable.

Sam Moore,

Formerly of Russ House Carriages, can be found in front of Coleman Bros. clothing establishment, southwest corner Bush and Montgomery sts., or Dexter Stables. Carriage orders left at either place promptly attended to day or night, at reduced rates. BO

The Cosy Resort.

Mr. F. F. Jones (formerly assistant treasurer of the California Theatre) and Mr. O. A. Schroder, "dispensers of good things," at 340 Bush street, below Kearny, solicit a call from their friends and the public generally. None but the finest brands of liquors and cigars served. Private club and social rooms annexed. Y

The Latest Styles, The latest "Tiles."

There is quite a rush just at present to "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street, (the second hat store below Kearny), where have been received an immense number of the new Summer style of hats, which are being sold at remarkably low prices. A fashionable "tile" finishes off a well-dressed man admirably. It can be obtained at "THE" HAT STORE.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

Appreciative.

The Portage Lake Gazette records the following society conversation:

Young Gentleman—"The assembly here this evening, Miss ——, far exceeds Mr. Van Anden's expectations."

Young Lady—"Hay, what yer say?"

Young Gentleman—(voice a key higher) "The assembly here this evening far exceeds Mr. Van Anden's anticipations."

Young Lady—"What yer say?"

Young Gentleman—(slightly ruffled)—"There is a d——d big crowd here to-night, Miss ——."

Young Lady—(brightening up) Yas sir-ee bob, there is."

Tother Chap.

An Irishman who had lain sick a long time, was one day met by the parish priest, when the following conversation took place; "Well, Patrick, I am glad you have recovered. But were you not afraid to meet your God?" "Och, no, your riverence! It was meetin' of t'other chap I was afeard uv!" replied Pat.

Rather a Sell.

A Knoxville (Ind.) youth went sparking his gal one night lately, and, as he sat with his arm around her waist, the music of her voice lulled him to repose. He felt rather sheepish the next morning when the "old man" awoke him and he found himself vigorously embracing a stick of fire-wood.

Severe.

Speaking of a certain friend's choice of a wife, a candid clergyman remarked: "I should as soon think of marrying the daughter of Beelzebub, and going home to live with the old folks."

New Music.

M. Gray, the music publisher of San Francisco, has just brought out another of Milburn's popular songs. It is entitled "Artful Joe." The title page is adorned with a photograph of J. H. Milburn in the character.

A New Hampshire clergyman believes that sermons to young men notoriously crowd the churches with young women, who go to see how the boys stand it.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and ten years in San Francisco, HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and spend the remainder of his days to quiet retirement; but the constant application of suffering everywhere, to come to the rescue, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs. Looking forward to spend a year within its wards, and instruct himself of all the new methods of treatment in the celebrated institution, and these give him years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where his previous his practice as a SPECIALIST in the cure of all cases brought and kept secret. Society and Personal Items.

The Commercial Bulletin hits off the Society and Personal items published by Sunday papers thus:—

Mr. William Sykes of New York is visiting the city. He is stopping for the present with Sheriff Clark on Cambridge street.

Another pleasant reunion occurred at the Hotel Riley on East street last evening, the occasion being the wake of Mr. Dennis Mulrooney, eighth cousin to Mr. Riley. It was generally remarked that M. Mulrooney never looked so well in his life. The company only broke up when there was not a head left to break in the house. Mr. Riley and his family will spend the summer at Deer Island.

Our friend Lumper, the popular handcart man, has purchased a new hickory shirt. He will move into it to-morrow morning.

Mr. John Smith, proprietor of the Sailor's Lunch, on Commercial street, is absent this afternoon on business in East Boston.

Mr. Mark Manley, of whose private party we gave a public account last week, wears No. 10 boots with heavy double soles, and particularly sharp and penetrating toes. Nothing has produced so marked an impression upon us for some time as Mr. Manley's boots. We could not sit down to write for a week without being reminded of them.

Miss Stick, the charming utility lady of the Hingham Academy of Music, is paying a short visit to her friend Samuel Saphead, of this city.

The elegant solitaires worn by Miss Gunnybags of Blister Square were purchased at the St. Joachim.

Dr. Jawbone, the popular dentist, has purchased a new door plate.

Spiritualistic.

The Cincinnati Times records the following conversation through a medium, as a touching triumph of spiritualism:

"James," said the weeping Gould, "where are you?" "In hell," said Jim. "How are you getting along?" said Jay. "Bully, old pard," replied Prince Erie. "You see I've put the fire out, and now I've got a 'corner' on brimstone."

Good Advice, Free of Charge.

Do you want a good and well-fitting shirt, a good flannel and merino underwear? For everything in the line of gents' furnishing goods, go to the PIONEER SHIRT MANUFACTORY, 327 KEARNY STREET, BETWEEN PINE AND BUSH. Shirts ready-made in every style, and made to order. H

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remains for Messers Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where luxurious and succulent oysters, the best of meats and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage Stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Explained.

The Grass Valley National thus comments on our advice to the News-Letter to discharge its gang of silly amateur writers and engage professionals:

The advice is good enough, but where in San Francisco will the News-Letter find the professional who is better than the amateur? Our reading of all the papers there only makes echo answer "where."

There are some clever professional writers in San Francisco, not many it is true, but there are a few. The reason why their brilliancy does not appear in the columns of the San Francisco papers is, that the proprietors keep them chained in too tightly. The News-Letter has developed the talent of writers by adopting a different policy. The proprietor has not thought whether a sharp paragraph would offend any of his readers; he has not tried to please everyone and offend none. The Town Crier, who has gone East, was allowed to wield a free lance, to attack anything and anyone: under these circumstances it is no wonder he was brilliant. The other papers will not publish this paragraph because it may offend one class of subscribers or advertisers, that equib because it will hurt the feelings of some society from which it expects advertising patronage. The consequence is that all the papers are dead, dull and vapid.

Harmless Dissipation.

The amusements of childhood are, alas! not all innocent. Some, however, are. We are led to this reflection by reading a thrilling novelette called "The Specked Apple" in a paper entitled "The Children's Guest," published in New York. A little girl on being asked if she did not feel lonely when her mother was away, answered as follows:

"Sometimes, but not very often, for I like to knit fast, so that I can sell many stockings; then if I begin to be lonely, I sing canticles, or repeat collects or Bible verses."

There are children in California who would not be satisfied with the recreation afforded by singing canticles or repeating collects and Bible verses. They might try it a little while, but they'd weary of it and throw down their knitting and go out to tie an oyster can to a dog's tail or throw stones at a Chinaman. You wouldn't get one of our undeveloped hoodlums to see that there was any amusement in singing canticles. We are glad to hear that there is such a little girl in New York as the one we have described, and we are quite sure that she deserved the specked apple that was too much decayed to put in the pie. There's no harm in these children's papers, and we like to exchange with them.

A Miscegenation Play.

Junius Brutus Booth appeared as Iago in Richmond, Va., the other night, and in the audience was a somewhat unsophisticated individual, who inquired of a gentleman sitting near him, "Is this the play in which a nigger marries a white woman, and then chokes her to death?" An appropriate reply was given. The questioner then arose to leave, remarking, "Well, then, darned if I want to see it. 'Twont do for old Virginia."

Novel Movement in the Sewing-Machine Business—Regular Auction Trade Sale.

A new feature in the sewing-machine trade, of great importance to purchasers, both wholesale and retail, was inaugurated yesterday and is continued to-day, by the Wilcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine Company. The balance of exchange machines, taken in part payment for their own machines by that company and left on their hands from the business of the last two or three months, is to be closed out at auction, without reserve. It was formerly practicable to dispose of all the exchange machines at private sale; but their number has lately been accumulating so rapidly on the Wilcox & Gibbs Company's hands as to lead to the present and future clearing-out sales. As upwards of 1,200 machines are offered—mostly of the best two thread varieties, such as Howe, Singer, Wheeler & Wilson, Grover & Baker, &c.—and the sale is peremptory, the prices realized yesterday were such as must have been far from satisfactory to the sellers and proportionately charming to the buyers. Very fair lots, as above described, were going all day at from $5 to $10, though all the machines were sold as good and in good order, and the attendance of buyers from the trade in this and other cities large. From the moderate proportion of ladies and other private purchasers present, it would seem not to have been generally understood that single machines would have been sold to those not in the trade. Such, however, is the case, it being the desire of the Wilcox & Gibbs' Company to make the sale a popular one, for their own advantage. Every lot is first put up with the privilege to the successful bidder of choosing one or more machines from it, after which the balance of the lot is put up again and sold without reserve. Thus it will be seen that there is no reason why any one desiring a lock stich or two-thread machine of any make whatever, should not now obtain one nearly as good as new, at perhaps one-tenth or one-seventh of the manufacturer's price. Many persons yesterday secured valuable machines in fee simple, for less than the amount of a first instalment on a regular purchase. The more general knowledge of this fact will probably render the bidding more animated to-day than yesterday, and prices higher.

With regard to the future sales, we do not learn whether the natural policy of seeking to obtain better returns by offering these exchange machines in smaller masses at more frequent intervals will prevail, or whether the policy will be to make a great occasion for the trade all over the country by a heavy quarterly clearing-out sale. It would seem as if the interest of all parties would be better promoted on the whole by having sales one-third as large as the present once a month. It is certainly to be a great boon to the laboring classes to have these valuable working machines thus brought within the means of all, and they will of course lay their plans with reference to the regular sales whenever the periods of them shall have been announced. Of course it will be understood that no Wilcox & Gibbs' machines can be obtained at such sales, as they are hardly ever given up in exchange for machines of any other make, and are therefore always scarce in the second-hand market.—New York Standard, April 18. Pacific Coast Agency of Wilcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine Company, 118 Post street, San Francisco. H

THE PLACE TO BUY.—If any one in city or country contemplates buying furniture and bedding, they can find no better place than at J. A. Shaber's, 707 Market street, near Third San Francisco. They buy and sell only for cash, and their prices are always very low. Y

THE LATEST INVENTION

THE GREAT

Lightning Ink Eraser!

Patented by J. W. Talmadge, January 16, 1872.

For the use of lawyers, merchants, bookkeepers, clerks, and the writing community in general; to be used instead of a knife or scraper for erasing ink from paper and parchment, in order to instantly correct a mistake or clean off a blot, without any injury whatever to the printed ink upon any printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bill head or rulings upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, clearing the paper or parchment clean and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the aid of this valuable and useful article you rectify a mistake or blot without taking the pen older from your hand; it is done in an instant, and the paper is ready to write upon again. The old way of scratching the ink not only takes out the ruling, but roughs the surface of the paper, and the ink will spread and blot when written over again; and, in case of blot upon any printed form you cannot scrat h it off without spoiling your form, if it is done with a knife or scraper. It also removes stains made by ink, fruit, iron-rust, etc., from cotton, linen, and the finest laces, without the least injury to any goods that water will not injure; therefore it is invaluable to all, from a school to a bank, for erasing ink from paper and parchment; and to every house-wife for clearing stains from linens and laces. IT IS ENDORSED BY EVERY ONE who uses it.

WEDNESDAY.....MAY 15, 1872

Metropolitan Theatre.

The very amusing burlesque of "Pygmalion" was presented last night and caused great fun. To-night "Ernani," which has been for some time past in preparation, will be presented with all the adjuncts of good scenery, fine music, and local adaptations. The jovial trio, Emeline, Alice, and Christine Zavistowski, will appear in characters well suited to display their talents and will be ably supported by Miss Henrietta Grainger, Miss Maggie Moore, W. C. Crosbie, and the Metropolitan Theatre Company. On Friday evening Miss Emeline will take her farewell benefit, when the ever-popular Vivian will appear in new songs and sketches; a very excellent bill will be presented including "Pocahontas" and other attractions. The season of burlesque will be but a short one as on Monday Charles Wheatleigh will reappear and produce "The Veteran," which recently proved such a great success in New York.

California Theatre.

Miss Carlo ta Leclercq last night delighted another large audience with her splendid impersonation of Peg Woffington in "Masks and Faces." Miss Leclercq possesses so much of that high art which enables her to conceal art, and really appear to be the person whom she represents, that her performance is an intellectual treat the public of to-day has not too often an opportunity of enjoying. To-morrow, "As You Like It" will be revived for one night only, and will doubtless attract a crowded house.

The Alhambra.

Add Ryman's long promised burlesque entitled "A Court Scene" has proved a hit and is received with roars of laughter. Sam Rickey as Judge Raker is an ornament to the bench; Add Ryman is very amusing as that model shyster, Black, and is ably supported by M. Ainsley Scott, another of the same kind; A. Norman and Emil Bourquin as the lovely females in distress cause much fun, and J. H. Mack, J. Robinson and S. Holdsworth play their parts to perfection. The piece is preceded by a capital first part and an interlude, in which Billy Emerson appears in some of his best acts, and Sheridan and Mack appear in their lightning changes.

Bella Union.

"Dutch Courtship," by J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong; "The Tobacconist's Daughter," by Mat Kelly, R. G. Marsh, J. H. Larkin, Tommy Bree, and Marie Zoel; comic vocalisms by Tommy Barton; ballads by Miss Susie Robinson, Ida Fisk, Fanny Garretson, and Minnie Fillmore, fancy dances by Marie Zoel, and the roaring afterpiece of "The Persecuted Dutchman," are only a few of the features of the bill for to-night.

American Theatre.

There is a good deal of brilliancy in the company at this house. Clara Starr is a decided favorite, Harry Devoe keeps the audience constantly amused Claude and Maggie are very good in their double business, and all of the numerous performers do their best to please.

San Francisco Circus and Hippodrome.

Another large and quite fashionable assemblage enjoyed the dashing and graceful feats of Omar Kingsley, admired the intelligence of the trained horse Napoleon I., and laughed at the fun of the three clowns, George Sharp, Horatio Nelson and Master Willie Matthews. The company is decidedly a strong one, and the Matthews Family are such thorough artists in their line, that none can fail to admire them. The performing elephant Bolivar, who is made to perform such strange feats by the clowns, is the most graceful and lightest "animile" of the kind ever seen. After going through his performances he seems a little "blown," and has to be carried off amidst roars of laughter. To-day there will be a matinee for ladies and children, when the performance will commence at half-past two.

Pacific Hall.

To-night, Miss Annie McKenzie, the young California prima donna, who made such a success in opera during the last two seasons, will be the recipient of a complimentary testimonial at Pacific Hall, where she will give a concert assisted by the following artists: Signora Bianchi, Eunice Barstow, Miss G. Di Sposetti, Signor F. Bianchi, Signor L. Contini, Robert E. Rogers, Signor M. Y. Ferrer, Signor Roncovieri, Theodore Planel, Chas. W. Dungan, J. W. McKenzie, and the San Francisco Harmonic Society. Gustav A. Scott is director and an admirable programme will be performed.

Miss Anna Mehlig's Concerts.

When a really great artiste visits San Francisco it does not take our discriminating public long to discover her merits. Another large and delighted audience heard Miss Anna Mehlig's really wonderful performance on the piano-forte at her third concert at Union Hall last night. The programme was an excellent one, and was splendidly carried out under the direction of Geo. T. Evans. Miss Mehlig will give a matinee on Saturday.

Picnic of the Washington Zouaves.

On Sunday next the Washington Zouaves will hold their annual picnic at the City Gardens. The Zouaves will be escorted to the Gardens by the National Cadets and California Guard Band. At the Gardens a variety of amusements will be given consisting of dancing, racing, games, etc.

Le Favre's Varieties.

The advance posters announcing the opening of the Opera House under the above title, by Aline Le Favre, who has leased it for six months, have made their appearance on the street. Johnny Manning, her agent, is now in the East engaging talent suitable for the variety business. One of the features will be a full band of female minstrels. Le Favre's Varieties will be opened between this and the first of June.

The Berger Family.

This troupe of lady musicians were on the train that started from Omaha on the 10th, and enlivened the time by giving a series of impromptu musical entertainments in a palace car which was provided with an organ, receiving therefor the thanks of the passengers in a very complimentary set of resolutions which were passed. The Berger Family stopped at Salt Lake to give a short series of concerts, and will arrive here on Sunday night. They will open at Platt's Hall on Monday night.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Good Advice, Free of Charge.

Do you want a good and well-fitting shirt, a good flannel and merino underwear? For everything in the line of gents' furnishing goods, go to the PIONEER SHIRT MANUFACTORY.

Vermont has no theatre.

Nilsson made $427,332 in America.

St. Louis' parks contain 1893 acres.

Wachtel cleared $30,000 in one month.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experiences, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

"Something Nice."

"Haven't got much appetite, but could eat something nice?" Then you should go at 12 o'clock to the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, established in 1849. Henry Bocken is the most experienced of caterers, and his lunches and dinners cannot be beat. Our best fed lawyers, our most popular physicians, and all epicures patronize the Pioneer Restaurant. B

Mr. Hartz,

The Magician, is still at his quarters, 140 Montgomery street, where he has for sale large quantities of all kinds of conjuring tricks. Prices varying from 75 cents and upwards. No house is completely furnished without a set of magical illusions, provided by Hartz. All the tricks are readily performed, and purchasers receive ample instruction, printed and verbal, so that there is not the least difficulty in performing them. Mr. Hartz only remains a few weeks longer in this city; so those wishing to procure those entertaining novelties had better see and get them at once. Send for a catalogue. D

Supper Parties.

A man eats breakfast because he is hungry; too often he hurries over his dinner, but supper he enjoys. All enjoy a supper at the BIVALVE, 640 Market street, three doors below Kearny. There they find the cosiest little private rooms up-stairs, the finest oysters and the best of everything. W. Spreen started the BIVALVE seven years ago, and it is to-day the most popular oyster house in San Francisco.

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

The Palace of Truth.

Why is an oyster like an inmate of the Palace of Truth?—Because it cannot tell a lie. Another: Why do so many of the audience after visiting the California Theatre, flock after the performance to the Pacific Oyster House, 329 Bush street, just below Montgomery?—Because Charley Haske has the finest, fattest, richest Eastern oysters, and gets up the best suppers imaginable.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

The Cosy Resort.

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and the past ten years in San Francisco, HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from suffering everywhere, to come to their relief finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in the celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

What Cheer Laundry

All About Dolly Vardens.

This is how they came about. In the Spring of 1870, the Empress Eugenie was making up a party to go to the Longchamp races. The gay ladies of the court had exhausted all the recent fashions, and so the Empress set about getting up a style for the races which should be just about as crazy in fashion as old Nap., her husband, was crazy in war. Eugenie sent to Worth, the man-milliner, and together they planned those rose and sunflower spangled Cretonne suits, and got up a Leghorn "shoo-fly" hat, with velvet and daisies and dandelions, and any and everything, which should look like Mrs. Flannagan's weedy, hollyhock-covered back yard. They succeeded. The dress was the most insane specimen of window curtain, and the hats looked—well, looked just as coquettish as our Dolly Varden hats do now. It looked as though it had been struck with a whirlwind behind—or, in a word, it was a cocked hat just ready to fly, but anchored down by velvet strings. Well, the Empress and the court ladies went up to the Longchamp races, and wore these window curtain suits. Of course Paris was crazy about it, but just then old King William slapped half a million Germans over into Alsace and Lorraine, which made the Empress quit the races and run back to Paris to look after the hospitals, which were full of the wounded French soldiers.

"Who revived the crazy fashion?" Well, Mrs. B., of Fifth Avenue, New York, and several ladies brought back the window curtain dress from Paris, in the Fall of 1870, and wore it at the Jerome races—a very popular place for it. Last Spring it began to creep out at Saratoga, and now the ladies are becoming as crazy as the fashion. They insist on wearing the hop-vine, sunflower pattern all the time. They are cutting up their window curtains to make what they call now "Dolly Varden" dresses, and the little forty-cent palmetto hats made by the darkies in Florida are brought up North, cocked up on one side, ballasted with ten dollars' worth of Paris pansies and poppies and bachelors' buttons, and sold for twenty-six dollars. It's all right. Dolly Varden was a crazy woman; she did all sorts of queer things; but if Dolly should walk out of her crazy English grave and drop down on any American city and see thousands of insane American women adopting her lunatic dress patterns, and "cutting up" generally, just as Dickens said she used to "cut up," Dolly would immediately get up a grand fair to raise funds to build a gigantic Dolly Varden insane asylum. These window curtain Cretonne suits are only to be worn at the races. They are not for morning or afternoon; but now every Biddy on four dollars a week is talking about Dolly Varden for evening, and Dolly, crazy Dolly Varden for funerals and weddings, for the pall-bearers and bridesmaids.

A "Wheeler and Wilson" Sewing Machine manufactured every minute. The Company's factory covers fourteen acres, employing 2,000 persons. Over 600,000 now in use; 100,000 more of "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other machine making the look-stich. W. M. Stoddard, Agent, 427 Montgomery street, San Francisco. F

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURING the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized, a magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmates.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that to love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a few manifest advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the only condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines; for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, or the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a half price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. The large doors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 49, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz. 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $11 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say as a transit, grin and bear it, while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly ensheved, while the object of their affection walks off with a handsome and straying young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune April 13.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The burlesque of "Ernani" last night caused much laughter. The incidents of the opera are very amusingly distorted, and in place of operatic airs the Zavistowski Sisters sang the most popular comic songs of the day. The graceful Emelice as Ernani, the sprightly Alice as Don Carlos, and Christina as Juana, did justice to their respective parts. Miss Henrietta Grainger, who has a really beautiful mezzo-soprano voice, gained an enthusiastic encore for her plaintive love song. W. C. Crosbie was very amusing as Iago; George Hinckley made a good melodramatic Scampa, and Miss Josie Langley in the character of Jacinta, read her lines capitally showing considerable talent for burlesque business. "Ernani" will be repeated to-night, Miss Emeline Zavistowski will take her farewell benefit to-morrow night and extraordinary attractions will be offered, including the great Vivian in his inimitable character sketches, the very enjoyable burlesque of "Pocanontas" and the laughable farce of "Irish Assurance and Yankee Modesty."

California Theatre.

When Miss Carlotta Leclercq leaves us it must be long ere we look upon her like again. In certain characters we may never hope to see her equal. To-night one more chance will be given the procrastinating ones to enjoy the comedy of "As You Like It," with its beautiful mise en scene, beautiful choruses and fine acting. To-morrow evening Miss Leclercq will take her benefit and will present the stirring play of "A Wolf in Sheep's Clothing," and the sterling comedy of "The Honeymoon."

The Alhambra.

The Emerson Minstrels will stay here only a short time longer, and will after next week depart on their travels to delight and amuse the inhabitants of other cities. Every night a well pleased audience may be seen at the Alhambra laughing at Billy Emerson's burlesques, enjoying the sweet singing of Russell, Norman, Holdsworth and Scott, and the lightning changes of Sheridan and Mack. Add Eyman's "Court Scene," which forms the conclusion to the admirable performance given, is full of fun.

Bella Union.

There is fun enough at the Bella Union Theatre to cure the most miserable man of the blues. J. Tuers R. G. Marsh, J. H. Larkin, Harry Sinclair, and Mat Kelly, are true sons of Momus and present most amusing acts. The first part is good, the interlude varied and amusing, and the afterpiece of "The Persecuted Dutchman" is received with roars of laughter.

American Theatre.

The list of names on our first page gives promise of a capital entertainment at this house, and the promise is amply fulfilled. Pleasing ballads, screamicg acts, banjo solos and lively dances make an evening at the new American Theatre pass away pleasantly.

San Francisco Circus and Hippodrome.

Both at the matinee performance yesterday and in the evening, there was a large concourse of delighted spectators of the wonderful feats of the arena performed by the San Francisco Circus Company, which, for variety of its acts and excellence of its performers, has never been equalled by any troupe that has ever exhibited here. The Matthews Family would be the stars of any variety theatre, and their performance under canvas is a great novelty. A serious but not fatal accident happened to Bolivar, the performing elephant, at the matinee performance yesterday, but he was re-covered sufficiently to appear again in the evening, though in somewhat of a blown condition. It is rumored that Bolivar gets inflated every time he comes in the ring.

Miss McKenzie's Concert.

The concert given at Pacific Hall last night by Miss Annie McKenzie, who so successfully made her debut in opera some two months since, was a very successful one. Miss McKenzie was in excellent voice and was enthusiastically encored. She shows a steady improvement at each public appearance, and gives her friends hopes of her achieving a prominent position in the musical world. Master J. W. McKenzie, a young brother, who sang several pieces on the occasion, possesses a good tenor voice. The programme was a good one and was very successfully rendered.

Miss Anna Mehlig's Concerts.

The second matinee performance of the great pianiste will take place on Saturday next at Pacific Hall, commencing at 2 o'clock. The large attendance at Miss Mehlig's concerts has been gratifying to all who love music, as it will encourage other great artists to pay San Francisco a visit.

Moonlight Concerts.

The Knights of Pythias are going to have a picnic at the City Gardens in about two weeks, one of the features of which will be a grand battle between mailed knights on horseback. This exhibition, like every other, requires preparation before presentation, and almost nightly the Ivanhoe and Brian de Bois Guilberts of the Knights of the Knights of Pythias may be seen on the smooth plateau at the City Gardens going through horseback rehearsals beneath the silver light of the moon, in which many a knight is unhorsed and brought to the sod. Their tournament promises to be a big attraction.

"Something Nice."

"Haven't got much appetite, but could eat someth ng nice?" Then you should go at 12 o'clock to the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, established in 1849. Henry Bocken is the most experienced of caterers, and his lunches and dinners cannot be beat. Our best fed lawyers, our most popular physicians, and all epicures patronize the Pioneer Restaurant. E

CHRISTINE.

BY JOHN HAY.

The beauty of the northern dawns,
Their pale, pure light is thine;
Yet all the dreams of tropic nights
Within thy blue eyes shine.
Not statelier in their prisoning seas
The ice-bergs grandly move;
But in thy smile is joy and youth,
And in thy voice is love.

Thou art like Hecla's crest which stands
So lonely, proud and high,
No earthly thing can come between
Her summit and the sky;
In vain the sun may strive to melt
Her brow of virgin snow,
But the great heart of the mountain glows
With deathless fire below.

Horace Greeley.

In one particular, the nominee of the Cincinnati Convention for the Presidency is luckier than any other man who ever ran for office. In a political campaign ridicule is a potent weapon, and is unsparingly used. Ridicule cannot hurt Horace Greeley. To tell the people that Horace used to wear a long white coat and a shocking bad hat, could not lower him in their estimation a bit; to make fun of him as a nigger worshipper, would be useless, for a hundred burnt-cork artists have a thousand times uttered "gags," the "fun" of which consisted in an allusion to Horace Greeley's love for "niggers." He is squib proof. The public have become so used to laughing at good-natured jokes made about him that any ill-natured jibes would be distasteful to them and they would resent them. No weak jests about Horace Greeley's really excellent work, "What I Know About Farming," can lose him a single vote. Everyone knows that it is not because he is a fool that he is made the subject of jokes; no one suspects Horace Greeley of being a fool. In this, then, is Horace Greeley most fortunate: that he is beyond the reach of ridicule as a , but for such light shafts he will still be used but they will glance off without inflicting any injury.

A "Shaller" Theory.

Professor Shaller has stated his belief, from the result of observation, that the rattlesnake's rattle is actually beneficial to it, its object being to imitate the sound of the cicada, or other insect which forms the food of many birds, thus attracting them within its power, and accounting for the apparent "fascination" of its prey, which must now consigned to the limbo of traveller's tales.

A Kind Husband.

An Arkansas husband pursued his runaway wife nearly two hundred miles, and when he finally overtook the terrified fugitive, it was found that he wanted to hand her a set of false teeth, which, in the excitement of her flight, she had forgotten to take with her.

Far-Seeing Youth.

"Johnny, what do you expect to do for a living when you come to be a man?" "Well, I reckon I'll get married, and board with my wife's mother."

The Occidental Restaurant.

This old established restaurant is one of the best known in San Francisco. It is famed for its excellent cooking, attentive waiters and general good management. It is situated on Washington street, No. 536, a few doors below Montgomery. H. Burmeisted, the proprietor has at the request of many customers fitted up a half dozen of rooms over the restaurant in elegant style, and henceforth these will be open for family and supper parties until 12 o'clock M.

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

The Latest Styles, The latest "Tiles."

There is quite a rush just at present to "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street, (the second hat store below Kearny), where have been received an immense number of the new Summer style of hats, which are being sold at remarkably low prices. A fashionable "tile" finishes off a well-dressed man admirably. It can be obtained at "THE" HAT STORE.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The revival of Shakspeare's comedy of "As You Like It" drew a crowded house last night, and all present were delighted with the beautiful acting of Miss Carlotta Leclercq, the lovely scenery, and the charming manner in which the choruses were sung. To-night Miss Leclercq will take her benefit and present a bill of a most attractive character on the occasion. It will consist of "A Wolf in Sheep's Clothing," and the comedy of the "Honeymoon," in both of which plays Miss Carlotta Leclercq will have an opportunity to display her talent. To-morrow there will be a matinee performance.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Kenani" was performed again last night. To-night Miss Emeline Zavistowski, who is a great favorite with the San Francisco public, will take her farewell benefit, will appear in the title role of John Brougham's most popular of all burlesques, 'Pocahontas," and also in the farce of "Yankee Modesty and Irish Assurance," in which she will give a specimen of her talent as a character actress in the part of the Yankee Girl. Vivian has volunteered for the occasion and will appear in some of his best and newest character songs. To-morrow he last matinee performance of the Zavistowski Sisters will be given, and to-morrow night they will make their last appearance.

The Alhambra.

There is always a good house at the Alhambra Theatre, no matter what attractions there may be elsewhere. Billy Emerson is great in song and dance; the songs in the first part are much applauded, and Sheridan and Mack in their lightning changes are capital. Add Ryman's "Court Scene" is one of the most laughable burlesques ever seen on any stage, and he causes much amusement as Black, the champion of wronged innocence. Sam Rickey as the Dogberry-like Judge Raker, was a capital bit of character acting, and M. Ainsley Scott is capital as the attorney for the prosecution. This bill will be presented at the matinee to-morrow in full, and will doubtless draw a good house of ladies and children.

Bella Union.

To-night, the bill which has proved so popular during the week will be played for the last time, as an entirely new entertainment has been prepared for to-morrow night. The fun at this house is fast and furious, and the most amusing acts are performed in a style hard to beat, by J. H. Larkin, Mat Kelly, Harry Sinclair, Johnny Kelly, Tommy Bree and others. The farce of "John Schmidt" winds up the evening's amusement.

American Theatre.

Clara Starr, Claude and Maggie, Harry Howard, Jimmy Murphy, Harry Devoe, and a number of other favorite artists appear in a varied programme of songs, acts and dances at this popular place of amusement.

San Francisco Circus.

Omar Kingsley, the great Matthews Family, the wonderful Warland, Master Johnny Cooke the juvenile equestrian, and a host of other brilliant stars of the arena present an entertainment seldom equalled. The pavilion is fitted up with so much regard for the comfort of its patrons that it is more like a theatre than a circus tent. The full programme will be performed at the matinee to-morrow.

Miss Anna Mehlig's Matinee.

The second grand matinee pianoforte recital by that great artiste, Miss Anna Mehlig, will take place to-morrow at 2 o'clock, at Pacific Hall. The programme includes some of the gems of Schumann, Chopin, Liszt and other favorites. A large and fashionable audience will again be in attendance, without doubt.

Washington Zouaves' Picnic.

This fine company will hold their annual picnic at the City Gardens on Sunday next. There will be a number of attractive features presented on the occasion in the way of amusements. There will be dancing in both the new and old pavilions, and various games and sports on the grounds, such as stone throwing, wheelbarrow racing, blindfold racing, Russian flying circus, air gun shooting, exhibition drill, etc. The Zouaves will be escorted to the Gardens by the National Cadets and California Guard Band. The picnic of the Washingtons promises to be a most pleasant and successful one.

Capt. Badger's Grand Central Park, Oakland.

There will be an open air concert at Badger's Central Park, across the bay, to-morrow afternoon. On Sunday the French Philharmonic Society will hold their annual picnic there.

City Gardens.

There will be a pleasure party at these beatiful grounds to-morrow afternoon, who will enjoy themselves in the splendid new pavilion with concert and dance music, or in boating on the lake, the flying horses, archery, swings, and other sports on the grounds. The City Gardens now are in fine order, and present beautiful rural attractions. Admission 25 cents, children 10 cents.

Accident to Johnny Tuers.

For some time past Johnny Tuers, with J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong, has been rehearsing a new act after the style of the Majiltons, which was to be produced at the Bella Union Theatre on Saturday night. The act was to conclude with the zampillaerostation act by Johnny Tuers, a flight from the boxes to the stage. While rehearsing this yesterday, Tuers missed the middle trapeze and fell with terrific force on the piano in the orchestra. When he felt himself going he doubled himself up all of a heap and received the full force of the concussion on his arms and breast. It is hoped that his injuries are not too serious to admit of his shortly making his appearance on the stage. In the meantime the act of "Zykalliwriggles" must be postponed until he is able to take part in it.

Home Again.

J. H. Milburn, Miss Milburn, Harry Stanwood, Heywood, the Reynolds Brothers, Geo. H. Foster and others, who have been traveling under the title of the Milburn Combination, returned last night from Virginia City.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Trouble in Quincy.

From the Plumas National we gather that shaving has not been easy in Quincy, Cal., of late. The following appears in the last issue:

A good barber, who can manage to get along with fifteen or twenty "nips" of "scorpion brotu" per day, can make his whisky money and a good living by locating in Quincy. Come and try it.

The Quincy people tried to get accustomed to being shaved by a barber who was subject to fits of delirium tremens, but they couldn't. He made them nervous when he ran his hand through their hair trying to catch snakes, and made passes with the razor at little devils who were climbing up the chair. We hope the Quincy people will succeed in procuring a temperance barber who will be content with fifteen or twenty drinks a day. They don't ask much we are sure. There's nothing unreasonable about the Quincy people.

Bookless Houses.

We form judgments of men from little things about their houses of which the owners perhaps never think. Give us a house furnished with books rather than handsome furniture—both, if you can, but books at any rate. Books are the windows through which the soul looks out. A house without them is like a house without windows. Let us pity those poor rich men who live barrenly in great bookless houses. Let us congratulate the poor that in our day books are so cheap that a man every year may add a hundred volumes to his library for the price of what his tobacco and beer would cost him.

Fifty-nine theatrical and musical journals were started in Spain last year. Fifty-five of them died.

Berlin has thirty-one theatres and opera houses.

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURING the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land too influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not to contest with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines; for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, or the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and probably no other superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have scanned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched—

Lot No. 80, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up igominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "sic transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mass. Like a half dozen old beaux who have each paid an obsolete suit to a spritely maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune April 16.

A Model Club.

Time was when life in Washington was demoralizing to innocent members of Congress from the rural districts, but things are changed, now, if we are to believe Donn Piatt. He says that a new club has just been organizing as a refuge for virtuous innocence, and gives the following description of it:

The Washington Club is composed almost entirely of heads of families, sober, steady, quiet business men, who meet in its elegant rooms for a little relaxation from their many cares. The club is always opened opened of an evening with prayer, and after, these pious gentlemen sit around and read good books, or discuss light, doctrinal points, such as tran-substantation, infant baptism, can a man marry his aunt? or is it moral, or in any sense in accordance with revealed religion, to kill your mother-in-law?

Startling.

The Rev. De Witt Tallmage says some sharp things occasionally. Here is one of his last:

If God should put suddenly into money or its representative, the power to return to its rightful owner, there is not a bank or a safety deposit that would not have its sides blown out; and parchments would rip, and gold would rend, and beggars would get horses, and stock-gamblers would go the alms-house.

An Irish editor got out of a railroad car to take some refreshment, and the train started without him. "Stop, there," he shouted, "stop, ye ould stame wagin, ye've got a passenger aboard that's left behind."

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experiences, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remains for Messers Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where luxurious and succulent oysters, the best of meats and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. Conversion of the Chinese.

The great work of converting the Chinese to Christianity is progressing. At the fifth annual convention of the Sunday Schools being held in Oakland, there was a most gratifying proof of this brought before the members. Mr. Rowell informed the Convention what was being accomplished among the Chinese of Oakland. Three Chinamen had joined the Congregational Church, and they led consistent Christian lives. The work has been in progress over three years, and was on the increase. The scoffer will say that a Chinaman a year is not much. Never mind, it is something. Besides it is not desirable that the Congregational Church pews be filled with Chinamen to the exclusion of other Christians. Those who don't think it is hard work to convert a Chinaman to Christianity had better try it, and see how much money it will cost them. The Congregational Church, though in a flourishing financial condition, couldn't afford to convert more than one Chinaman a year. A Chinese Christian costs pretty nearly as much as much as a star preacher, but he pays in the long run. There are strong hopes that another Chinaman will be converted during the coming year. Let the good work go on.

Virtuous Chicago!

The Sun says:

We are glad to see that the managers of the free library enterprise have promptly declined a proposition to enter into a "gift enterprise" arrangement for the benefit of the proposed library. Nothing could more effectually bring the enterprise into disrepute among honest, square-dealing people, than to have it yoked in with a lottery scheme.

Such a scheme would shock the moral sense of Chicago society. It might have been tolerated before the fire, but Chicago has undergone a change since her trial. A-ah!

Check.

Here is a man whom we do not hesitate to call the most unprincipaled advertiser who had ever lived. The brass of some chaps is grim and peculiar, if not gloomy:—

A Chicago hair restorer went out into the suburbs, stuck his posters all over a church pulpit, and then asked the minister to call attention to them.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Gorville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

The Palace of Truth.

Why is an oyster like an inmate of the Palace of Truth?—Because it cannot tell a lie. Another: Why do so many of the audience after visiting the California Theatre, flock after the performance to the Pacific Oyster House, 329 Bush street, just below Montgomery?—Because Charley Hanke has the finest, fattest, richest Eastern oysters, and gets up the best suppers imaginable. A Terrible Word.

The Washington Capital recently offered a premium of a bottle of brandy to any one who could make a rhyme on the name of Senator Conkling. Among others the editor received the following:

A man eats breakfast because he is hungry; too often he hurries over his dinner, but supper he enjoys. All enjoy a supper at the BIVALVE, 640 Market street, three doors below Kearny. AMUSEMENTS. Etc.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—At the matinee today and again this evening the splendid bill which has proved such an attraction during the week will be presented. Sheridan and Mack, Billy Emerson and all the the company will appear in a rich programme, ending with Add Rymann's comical "Court Scene." The coming week will be the last of the engagement of the Emerson Minstrels; they will endeavor to make the programme one of the best. J. H. Milburn, Harry Stanwood, the Reynolds Brothers and Charles Heywood will make their re-appearance on Monday On Friday evening J. H. Milburn, the popular character vocalist, will take his farewell benefit and will doubtless have a bumper.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—The performance last night for the benefit of Miss Emmeline Zavistowski went off capitally. It commenced with the farce of "Irish Assurance and Yankee Modesty," in which Miss Emeline took the character of Nancy Stoker, the Yankee girl, W. C. Crosbie that of Pat, and Miss Henrietta Grainger appeared as Susan Boffer. In the very popular burlesque of "Pocahontas," Miss Emeline looked beautiful as the Princess, Miss Alice caused much amusement as John Smith, and Miss Christine read and acted the part of Poe-tee-pet very effectively. Miss Henrietta Grainger made a charming Di-mund-i, and W. C. Crosbie was a splendid old monarch as Pow-ha-tan. W. Simms, who is developing quite a talent for Dutch characters, was very good as Mynheer Rolf, and Miss Josie Langley, Miss Ada Deaves, Miss Edmonds, Miss Carrie Lipsis, and Miss Ada Shattuck, formed a most attractive bevy of school girls. Vivian, who volunteered for the occasion, but was unfortunately unable to sing, in consequence of a bad cold, he appeared and excused himself on that ground. "Pygmalion" will be played at the matinee to-day, and this evening, which is the last of the engagement of the Zavistowski Sisters, the entertainment will consist of last evening's bill. On Tuesday evening that sterling actor, Charles Wheatleigh, will commence an engagement, and the highly successful play of "The Veteran" will be produced.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—A more thoroughly enjoyable entertainment than that presented at the California Theatre last night on the occasion

Miss Carlotta Leclercq's benefit cannot be imagined. It was full of life and sparkle from beginning to end. First, Tom Taylor's capital drama of "A Wolf in Sheep's Clothing" was played, and in this Miss Leclercq perfectly delighted the audience by her capital impersonation of the character of Anne Carew, the fair dame who dares all in defense of him she loves. As Juliana in "The Honeymoon," Miss Leclercq gave another of those perfect representations of character of which we see so few now-a-days, and which we may not see for a long time after she has left us. John McCullough did some fine acting as Duke Aranza, and J. C. Williamson as the Mock Duke kept the audience in a continual roar of laughter. The public will be glad to have at least one more opportunity of seeing "As You Like It." It will be presented at the matinee to-day. The bill of last night will be repeated this evening.

BELLA UNION.—To-night a new bill will be presented at this very popular theatre. After a first part composed of the popular songs of the day, funny stories and a lively walk-around, an interlude will be given in which Minnie Loder will sing a ballad; Carrie Chapman will execute a fancy dance; Tommy Barton will sing comic songs; the Ethiopian farce of "Blue-legged Chickens" will be performed; Fanny Garretson will sing; Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin will appear in their Dutch acts of "Little Fraud," and "Yust Gome Oud;" Marie Zoel will appear in song and dance: Ida Fisk and Susie Robinson in ballads, and Minnie Fillmore in a fancy dance. Then comes the legendary spectacular play of "The King of the Merrows," which will be produced with new scenery local hits, and a strong cast, which appears on our first page.

NEW AMERICAN THEATRE.—A great Saturday night's bill has been prepared, and the many public favorites whose names appear on our first page will take part in a varied melange of songs, comic acts, ballads and other diversions which suit the public taste.

SAN FRANCISCO CIRCUS AND HIPPODROME.—There never was a more popular circus than that at present located on Jackson street. Every night the pavilon has been crowded and the rush still continues. There will be a matinee performance to-day, and this evening a splendid performance will be given comprising all the attractions of the Matthews Family, Omar Kingsley, the great Warland and the comical elephant Bolivar. The same bill will be repeated to-morrow night. New programme on Monday.

"THE VETERAN."—This play, which had such a successful run when it was recently produced at Wallack's, New York, will be presented at the Metropolitan Theatre on Tuesday, with Mr. Charles Wheatleigh in the leading role. The Metropolitan will remain closed on Sunday and Monday evenings in order to make the necessary preparations for the production of the piece.

MISS ANNA MEHLIG'S SECOND MATINEE.—The second grand matinee pianoforte recital by that great artiste, Miss Anna Mahlig, will take place to-day at 2 o'clock, at Pacific Hall. The programme includes some of the gems of Schumann, Chopin, Lizzt and other favorites. A large and fashionable audience will again be in attendance, without doubt.

WASHINGTON ZOUAVES' PICNIC, CITY GARDENS.—This fine company hold their first annual picnic at the City Gardens to-morrow. There will be a number of attractive features presented on the occasion in the way of amusements. There will be dancing in both the new and old pavilions, and various games and sports on the grounds such as stone throwing, wheelbarrow racing, blindfold racing, Russian flying circus, air gun shooting, exhibition drill, etc. The Zouaves will be escorted to the Gardens by the National Cadets and California Guard Band The picnic of the Washingtons promises to be a most pleasant and successful one.

CAPT. BADGER'S CENTRAL PARK, OAKLAND. There will be an open air concert at Badger's Central Park, across the bay, this afternoon. To-morrow the French Philharmonic Society will hold their annual picnic there.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—The rain has laid the dust beautifully and the Cliff House road is in splendid condition. It will be alive with teams to-morrow on their way to Captain Foster's famous hostelry where there is "good entertainment

TWO GREAT COMEDIES.—"London Assurance" has been running at Wallack's Theatre, New York, for nearly two months in consequence of the excellence of its cast. On Monday it will be produced at the California Theatre with a cast in some respects even superior to that of Wallack's. There certainly cannot be any comparison instituted between Miss Helen Tracy (though she is a very pleasing actress) and Miss Carlotta Leclercq in the character of Lady Gay Spanker; with Henry Edwards's Sir Harcourt Courtley our public are familiar; Owen Marlowe will be as good a Charles Courtley as we could want, and certainly J. C. Williamson as Mark Meddle will leave nothing to be desired. This play will be repeated on Tuesday evening. On Wednesday evening the great comedy of "The School for Scandal" will be presented with a cast which we are sure challenges Wallack's or any other theatre in the United States to equal, Miss Carlotta Leclercq cannot be equalled as Lady Teazle; John McCullough is a most pleasing representative of the reckless but good-hearted spendthrift, Charles Surface. A better Sir Peter than Henry Edwards we desire not to see; Mrs. Judah is the only Lady Sneerwell on the stage, and the rest of the cast will bear criticism. "The School for Scandal" will also be played on Thursday evening.

MEETING OF MUSICIANS.—The professional musicians of San Francisco held an indignation meeting in Mozart Hall yesterday afternoon to protest against the employmest of bands of amateurs who are willing to play anywhere for less than half price if they can have the opportunity of making hideous noises and showing off as musicians. Mr. Alpers was elected chairman. He said some protective action should be taken by the professional musicians who gained their living by their art, and recommended that all present should pledge themselves not to play in bands where amateurs were engaged.

PLATT'S MUSIC HALL.—On Monday the famous Berger Family, who have been giving performances and meeting with the greatest success in the Eastern States, will commence an engagement at Platt's Hall. The company consists of vocalists, harpists, violinists, a silver cornet band of young ladies, and the Swiss Bell Ringers, together with Sol Smith Russell, of whom we hear great accounts as a humorist.

CITY GARDENS.—There will be a pleasure party at these beatiful grounds this afternoon, who will enjoy themselves in the splendid new pavilion with concert and dance music, or in boating on the lake, the flying horses, archery, swings, and other sports on the grounds. The City Gardens now are in fine order, and present beautiful rural attractions. Admission 25 cents, children 10 cents.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—The second annual Sabbath School Children's May Festival, will be held at Woodward's Gardens to-day. The May Day dances will be under the direction of McCarty Brothers and Sisters, and their pupils will give an exhibition of fancy dances in costume.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—Miss Lotta appeared in "The Little Detective" on Monday and Tuesday, in "Heart's-ease" on Wednesday and Thursday, and on Friday and Saturday in "Little Nell." The Bee says some people didn't go to see her because the plays weren't good. It adds with charming innocence: "We are surprised that so excellent and popular an actress as Lotta should appear in such a class of pieces as she has thus far presented." We think that Lotta is the best judge of what she can play. What would the Bee like to see her in? Rosalind, Lady Macbeth, or something of that sort. The Hibernicon will be exhibited at the Metropolitan Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

STOCKTON.—Charles McEvoy's Original Hibernicon, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evening of this week at Mozart Hall.

SAN JOSE.—McEvoy's Hibernicon at the Opera House, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. A dramatic society has been formed.

VIRGINIA CITY, NEV.—"The Palace of Truth," with M'lles Venturoli and Gaugain, Miss Rose Evans, the Majiltons and company from the California Theatre, was greeted by a full house at Piper's Opera House on Monday. The last performance will be given this evening. On Wednesday next the Zavistowski Sisters, supported by Miss Henrietta Grainger, W. C. Crosbie and the following company, Mrs. Edmonds, Miss Jennie Mandeville, Mrs. F. M. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Lipsis, John Maguire, Miss. Nellie Cummings and Mr. Morton, will commence an engagement at Piper's Opera House.

OLYMPIA.—At latest dates Marshall's troupe of Japanese were performing at Olympia, W. T. on their way to Portland.

LOS ANGELES.—A variety company consisting of Lew Rattler, Jake Wallace, Ned Stanley, Jimmy Moore, and H. Morton opened at La Marced Theatre on Saturday last.

SALT LAKE.—The Berger Family opened at the Theatre on Monday for a season of four nights, and made a great success. They left yesterday for San Francisco.

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURING the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufactoring industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other Mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines; for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, of the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a few triumphs as they could obtain from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph. provided the lock stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 89, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz. 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $30 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly help but pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus consigned in dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably make a good strong dose of philosophy to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "so transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies: there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each had an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can make the pas de deux and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune April 18.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and spend the remainder of his days to quiet-life comfort; but the constant applications from suffering everywhere, to come to their relief finally determined him to visit once more the scene of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in celebrated institution, and then give a few years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST reached in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and speedy treatment and moderate charges to all."

New Invention.—J. Spaulding & Co's new sweeping machine, for sweeping carpets after being beaten by the beating machine, is a new California invention. It gives the carpets a brilliancy that has not ever before been obtained in the annals of carpet beating, nor can it be obtained by any other process. It takes all lint and fine dust from the face of the carpet, leaving it as clean and brilliant as new, without any injury to the fabric. It can be seen in operation at 383 Tehama street bet 4th and 5th street's any day. Call and see it and satisfy yourself before sending your carpets elsewhere to be cleaned.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage.

If You Want

Your Blankets and Flannels well washed, and not spotted, send them to the What Cheer Laundry.

An Old Landmark.

The Verandah Cigar Store, at the N.E. corner of Kearny and Washington streets, kept by Henry Schmidt, has been famous for the last eleven years for keeping the best Havana cigars, tobacco, choice meerschaum pipes, etc.

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remains for Messers Thompson & Senate to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where luxurious and succulent oysters, the best of meats and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant.

The Palace of Truth.

Why is an oyster like an inmate of the Palace of Truth?—Because it cannot tell a lie. Another: Why do so many of the audience after visiting the California Theatre, flock after the performance to the Pacific Oyster House, 329 Bush street, just below Montgomery?—Because Charley Hake has the finest, fattest, richest Eastern oysters, and gets up the best suppers imaginable.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

The Alhambra.

This is the last week of the Emerson Minstrels and they will appear to-night in their full strength. Billy Emerson, J. H. Milbern, Harry Stanwood, Sheridan & Mack, the Reynolds Brothers, Fayette Welch, Charles Heywood, J. G. Russell, and all the rest will appear to-night in a programme of songs, dances and character acts. The performance will conclude with the sketch of "Wachtel," in which the very popular bit of extravagance entitled "Sweet Cider" will be introduced.

California Theatre.

To-night the admirable comedy of "London Assurance" will be presented with Mrs. Carlotta Leclair as Lady Gay Spanker, John McCullough as Dazzle, Harry Edwards as Sir Harcourt, Owen Marlowe as Charles Courtly, J. C. Williamson as Mark Meddle, Miss Minnie Walton as Grace Harkaway, Mrs. C. R. Saunders as Pert, Walter Leman as Max Harkaway, Edmund Leathes as Dolly Spanker, Eben Plympton as Cool, Stephen Leach as Isaacs, B. Henry as Martin, and John Terrence as James. With such a cast this capital play will have full justice done it, and the house should be thronged with the lovers of legitimate comedy.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The Zavistowski Sisters' season closed on Saturday, with the performance of "Irish Assurance" and "Pocahontas." Between the pieces, Vernon Lincoln, a vocalist recently arrived in this city, made his first appearance and sang "Good By Sweet Heart Good Bye" in excellent style. Mr. Lincoln has a full rich tenor voice which he uses with good discretion. Great preparations are being made for the production of Lester Wallack's play of "The Veteran" which is to be presented tomorrow night, when Charles Wheatleigh will commence his farewell engagement. The scenic artists Burbury and Rogers, have been some time past at work on new and beautiful scenery for this piece, and it will be produced with properties and mechanical effects on a grand scale. The cast will comprise the full strength of the Metropolitan Theatre company, the members sent to support Lotta in the country, having returned last night. This piece when produced at Wallack's early this year, was a great success, and had a long run. It is said to surpass in interest of plot, stage effects and delineation of character, "Rosedale" by the same author, and should achieve as great, or even greater success in this city than did that play.

Bella Union.

The legendary play of "The King of the Merrows," which concludes a rich entertainment of songs, dances and acts has proved quite a hit. The dramatis personæ are divided into four parties—fairies, mortals, Irish and fellows-de-ses, between twenty and thirty performers appearing on the stage. The scenery is very good, and the dance of the mermaids is one of the most comical things ever seen. This piece will be presented until further notice.

San Francisco Circus.

The San Francisco Circus has met with a success unparallelled in the records of the equestrian ring in this city. Every night last week the spacious pavilion was thronged, and though there were numerous other attractions elsewhere, on Saturday afternoon, notably a gathering of 10, 000 children at Woodward's Gardens, thousands of ladies and children were present at the circus. The reason of this is simple: it is seldom that a company of equal merit has ever been brought under canvas in this city. All the attractions of the Matthews Family, Omar Kingsley, Worland, Ducrow, and a host of others will be presented to-night.

The Berger Family.

This company, comprising vocalists, harpists, violinists, young ladies' cornet band, and the humorist, character vocalist and facial mimic, Sol Smith Russell, will give their first entertainment at Platt's Hall to-night. The following, which we take from the latest number of the Clipper received here (May 11th), will give some idea of the estimation in which this troupe is held in the East:

The Berger Family, Swiss bell ringers, with Sol. Smith Russell, humorist are now rapidly wending their way towards the Pacific slope and will make their first appearance in San Francisco, Cal., on May 20th. The company is composed of excellent musicians, who, from an humble position, by the sheer force of industry and indomitable perseverance, have worked themselves up till they may now be considered one of the most popular troupes traveling. Their entertainment is of a refined nature, very pleasing, and appears to give satisfaction to all its patrons of whatever class of society. The dulcet sounds of the silver bells fall pleasantly upon the ear, while the eye is gratified with the great skill in manipulating them. Miss Anna Berger's performances upon the cornet are wonderful, the selections of music for her solo performances being ever marked with taste. Miss Henrietta's staff bell solo is deserving of high praise, and seldom fails to evoke a triple encore. Besides playing on the bells, the entire troupe play brass and string instruments, appearing as a string orchestra, also as a brass band. Sol Smith Russell, the humorist, has complete command of the muscles of his very flexible countenance, which he frames to suit all occasions. His comic and character conceptions since study, and the possession of artistic abilities of no mean order, whilst in his performances there is never an indelicate allusion or gesture. His burlesque recitation of "Bingen on the Rhine" is alone well worth the price of admission. It is impossible in the space at our command to detail all the excellent features of this company, but we may add that some excellent vocalization by a soprano, and delightful harp music are sure to be heard. We doubt not that Californians, who are ever ready to recognize true merit, will accord them a gracious welcome.

American Theatre.

The company at this house is very strong in pleasing vocalists and attractive dancers, and the programme presented is so varied that all are well pleased. There will be a change of programme to-night and many novelties will be introduced. Geo. H. Foster, the favorite Ethiopian comedian will make his first appearance to-night. Among other attractions for this evening, may be mentioned, the pantomime play of "The Dumb Girl of Genoa."

Woodward's Gardens.

There must have been between 10,000 and 11,000 persons present on Saturday afternoon at Woodward's Gardens on the occasion of the invitation May party given by the proprietor to the Sabbath Schools of the city. The dances under the direction of McCarty Brothers and Sisters were capitally carried out, and the proficiency of their pupils was the subject of general commendation.

City Gardens.

There was a very large attendance at the picnic of the Washington Zouaves yesterday at the City Gardens, and all enjoyed themselves heartily.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

The Bucolic Style.

When anyone in Susanville, Shirt-tail City, Pokerville, or any of the interior "cities" gets married he sends the editor of the newspaper published in the place, cake and wine, in return for which the editor gushes, wishes that the path of bride and bridegroom may be strewed with flowers, and all that sort of thing. We notice that the same fashion has been introduced in the metropolis of San Francisco, and with equal success, as may be seen from the following, which appeared in the Bulletin of Saturday:

Richard Wheeler, editor of the California Stock Report, was married last evening to Miss Lizzie Doris. He was so well pleased over the affair that he sent a cake and bottle of wine to the Bulletin office.

The News Letter says it received a cake "two feet in diameter" and twelve bottles of wine. It says:

We ate and drank to the health of our editorial friend and his beautiful bride. May their union be ever blessed, and their journey through life a continuous day of blissful peace. God bless them.

Now it's all nonsense to say we are jealous because we did'nt get a cake two feet in diameter and twelve bottles of wine, because we don't like cake and have too good a cellar of our own to want any wine. We only wish to say that this bucolic style of thing is not in good taste in San Francisco. The News Letter might have mentioned the marriage as it has very little light reading, (only one column of drivel on the Town Crier page), but it need not have measured the cake

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Rue & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. RUE & SCHMIDT, successors to F. A. Reilly, Agents. x

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. q

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to FRANK BOUTON at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. o

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURing the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary lifetime the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of the invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of speed attention to learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines; for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, these prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, of the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken, and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of procedure, which was patent to all the world in such an advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons to find space to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 80, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 85, 5 machines, viz. 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 91, 5 machines, viz: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz., 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and one hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "c'est le transit gloria mundi" while the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies: there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is principally interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave ships, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—New York Tribune April 18.

Not Alone in Her Grief.

Oshkosh has had a sad and painful scene. A disconsolate widow sat down by the coffin of her departed lord and wept. In her love for his memory she determined that the funeral pomp should outdo all that Oshkosh had ever witnessed before. A rosewood coffin, studded with silver nails, and lined with white satin, had been ordered from New York a week or more in advance of his death, in order that there might be no unseemly delay. The newest grocer's wagon in town was draped in book-muslin, and a team of four oxen with sable pompons tied to their horns was procured to draw the body to its last resting-place. In the absence of a brass band, an amateur performer on the accordeon was engaged to head the procession and play a dead march accompanied by a youthful proficient on the bones, who was to take the place of the muffled drums so much in demand on similar occasions. Such was the touching evidence of the duration of woman's love beyond the grave. In the church, just before the coffin was closed, a last opportunity was afforded to see the corpse. As the widow was nerving herself for the painful farewell, she saw a procession of some twenty women advance to the coffin one after the other, and kiss the face of the corpse. Not one of the intruders was known to the relict. She did not know whether she was running that funeral or not, so confused was she. The sounds of mourning ceased, and the assembled multitude was astonished by hearing the disconsolate widow say: "From what I've seen, this funeral belongs more to others than to me. My part in this funeral is finished," and she departed. Would it not be well for the Woodhulls to take this eccentric creature in hand, in order to bring her around to the proper way of thinking?

Not Musical.

Said a Detroit lady to a gentleman of that city, "you are not a musician, I believe?" "No," said he, "if I were the proprietor of a hand-organ, set expressly to play Old Hundred, I could'nt get seventy-five out of it."

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remains for Messers Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where luxurious and succulent oysters, the best of meats and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the on under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. A Contradiction.

A writer in the London Figaro has discovered the following direct contradiction in "Othello." In the fourth scene of the third act (Chaudos Edition), occurs the following passage:

That handkerchief
Did an Egyptian to my mother give;
She was a charmer and could almost read
The thoughts of people: she told her while
She kept it, 'twould make her amiable,
And subdue entirely to her love.
My father gave my mother.

And in the second scene of the fifth act of the same tragedy we read:

Cassio confessed it:
And she did gratify his amorous works
With that recognisance and pledge of love
Which I first gave her. I saw it in his hand;
It was a handkerchief, and antique token
My father gave my mother.

The discoverer of this contradiction says: The lines I have italicised indicate the inconsistency which has struck my attention, and which I refer to the learned editor of "Notes and Queries." The plea verbally suggested to me by a gentleman connected with the drama, and whose opinions are entitled to respect—to wit, that "Othello" originally intended merely to frighten Desdemona with the story of the Egyptian charmer, appears to me to be the special pleading of one unwilling to admit the possibility of the immortal bard making so flagrant a slip; and is, I think, quite inadmissable. But, can any other explanation be given?

We think the gentleman connected with the drama is right in his idea. Othello invented the story about the handkerchiefs and was so confused that he contradicted himself afterwards. Had the handkerchief possessed any real value in his eyes beyond a curious pattern he would have told Desdemona not to use it commonly, and send it to wash with the other linen.

A Plague of Goats.

We used to be a good deal troubled with goats in San Francisco, but last year, when sheep were scarce, they were nearly all made mutton of. Lynn, Mass., as we learn from The Little Giant, is suffering from a plague of goats. One was complained of the other day as follows:—

Said animile floats round loose and is in the habit of floating into people's yards and when there gobbles what clothes are spread out to dry. Pants, coats, stockings, shirts and—well, all kinds of ladies' and gents' wear have been digested in vast quantities.

The Little Giant says:—

It is not known how many men have been deprived of their nice white pants that had been carefully bleaching for the coming summer by these 'orible creatures.

Why don't the Lynn people follow our example and eat up their goats.

Likes the Color.

A white woman who is a native of Massachusetts, but is now a resident of Mobile, has had one white husband and four black Her intimate friends say that her fifth widowhood will also be terminated by another gentleman of color.

The Palace of Truth.

Why is an oyster like an inmate of the Palace of Truth?—Because it cannot tell a lie. A Blonde Idol.

A droll enough story is related in the Hartford Times. On the steps of a public building a poor Italian woman had been accustomed to take her seat for the solicitation of charity. Coming one day, as usual, she found that a cigar-shopman and usurped her place, and had posted there a wooden image—Mrs. John Wood as Pocahontas, probably. The foreign lady seeing this, mistook it for a statue of the Virgin Mary, devoutly crossed herself, and left without a [illegible]

THE LATEST INVEN

THE GREAT

Lightning Ink Era

Patented by Mr. J. W. Ta[illegible]
Jan. 16, 1872.

For the use of lawyers, merchants, bankers, and the writing community in general instead of a lead or scraper for erasing from paper and parchment, is a corrector for correcting a mistake or clean off a blot, or figure whatever to the printed ink printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bond or note upon the paper; saving the time of scraping and leaving the paper smooth and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With this valuable and useful article you can mistake or blot without taking the pen from your hand; it is done in an instant, and the ink is ready to write upon again. The old way of scratching the ink not only takes out the surface of the paper, so that it will spread and blot when written over it, but in case of blot upon any printed form or writing, a scratch it off without spoiling your work as is done with a knife or scraper. It also removes stains made by ink, fruit, iron-rust, etc., on cotton, linen, and the finest laces, without the least injury to any goods that water will not injure; therefore it is invaluable to all, from a schoolboy to a bank, for erasing ink from paper and parchment, and to every housewife for cleaning stains from lines and laces. IT IS INDISPENSABLE TO EVERY ONE who sees it.

DIRECTIONS.—To remove ink from paper and parchment, dip the end of the pencil in the bottle and apply, WHITHOUT RUBBING, when the ink has disappeared, absorb the fluid with blotting paper. If the ink has been written for years, it will be necessary to make two or three applications of the eraser, and each time not failing to absorb the fluid with blotting paper, before applying the vital fluid of the liquid rapidly evaporates, for this reason the bottle must be kept corked tight.

To remove stains from Laces, etc., dip the stained part into the fluid, then rinse in clear water.

For sale by all Stationers and Druggists in town and country. Price 50 cents per bottle.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Lester Wallack's great play of "The Veteran," the right to perform which in this State has been purchased by Charles Wheatleigh, will be presented to-night with new scenery by Bunbury and Rogers, new properties and intricate mechanical effects. Charles Wheatleigh will appear in the role of Leon Delmar, the veteran, J. H. Hardie as the Emir Mohammed, W. J. Coggswell as Colonel Delmar, T. E. Jackson as Offenbagan the Grand Vizier, Miss Maggie Moore as Blanche D'Ivry, and a strong cast throughout. The play is in six tableaux, and gives a great chance for scenic display, of which the management have availed themselves regardless of cost.

The Alhambra.

The grand gathering together of the full force of the Emerson Minstrels last night had the effect of crowding the house, and all did their best to entertain the large audience. J. H. Milburn sang some of his best songs; Harry Stanwood caused much laughter by his dry jokes; Billy Emerson introduced his best specialities; the Reynolds Brothers caused quite a sensation in their song and dance, "Sambo's Initiations;" Sheridan and Mack appeared in some of their most popular acts, and altogether the entertainment given was immense. This is the last week of this grand combination, as next Monday they start out to astonish the natives of other parts, and Simmons and Slocum's wonderful troupe will make their first appearance at the Alhambra. On Friday, the popular character vocalist, J. H. Milburn, will take his farewell benefit, and will present an entertainment of an extraordinarily attractive character.

Bella Union.

The attractions at this house are so numerous that the audience are always well pleased. The first part is very well arranged, and the duet by Carrie Chapman and Fanny Garretson is quite a feature in it. In the interlude, Tommy Barton's comic songs are repeatedly encored, Carrie Chapman's graceful dance is much applauded, and the act of "The Blue Chickens" causes great fun. "The King of the Merrows," which concludes the evening's entertainment, is full of fun and takes well.

San Francisco Circus.

There is no fear but that any thoroughly good entertainment will draw in San Francisco, and that the circus company now performing on the Jackson street lot is a splendid one none will deny. Their popularity is proved by the fact that the pavilion is densely crowded every night. The sharp jokes of Willie Matthews, the brightest of clowns, the wonderful acts of Worland, the graceful feats of Omar Kingsley, the parlor entertainment by the Matthews Family, and the many other entertaining features, make this one of the most popular troupes ever seen in any city in the United States. A matinee performance will be given tomorrow at half-past two o'clock.

The Berger Family.

This talented family made their first appearance at Platt's Hall last night, and achieved a brilliant success. The performance commenced with a very pleasing introductory overture on the Swiss bells. Though the Lancashire bell ringers made some pretty music, their style was so uncouth and their selections were so old that they left something of a prejudice against bell ringing in the minds of the San Francisco public. This was dispelled last night. The sight presented by pretty girls in gay dresses deftly swinging the silver bells was a pretty one; the music was delightful, and the first performance gained a most enthusiastic encore. After this Miss Nellie E. Knapp made her appearance and sang the beautiful ballad, "Waiting," in very pleasing style, and in response to an encore, "Comin' thro' the Rye." Miss Anna E. Berger is really a remarkable performer on the cornet, and needs to claim no consideration from critics on account of her sex; her cornet solo "La Mabeline," was worthy of a master of the instrument. Sol Smith Russell at once made a favorable impression on the audience by his genial countenance and easy carriage on the stage; he sang three comic songs in a style which established him as a favorite; a flute solo was well performed by Mr. Ernest Thiele, a bell duet by Miss Ettie and Henry Berger was very pretty, and the cornet quartette by the Berger Sisters, and Miss Nellie E. Knapp was a great feature in the entertainment. Most men when they play the cornet, puff out their cheeks in the most hideous manner; it might therefore be supposed that a lady playing that instrument would present an unpleasant sight. This is certainly not the case with Miss Ettie Berger, who plays the bass cornet. Miss Ettie is very pretty and it is wonderful with what skill she retains her prettiness while playing the cornet; she is not going to make herself look "horrid," but she nevertheless produced the volume of sound necessary for the fulfillment of her part conscientiously. Sol Smith Russell next appeared in the character of a strong-minded female reformer, and delivered a short lecture on "Woman's Rights;" this was admirable, and Leon, who appeared in a somewhat similar act, must hide his diminished head before the great original. The "staff" bell solo played by Miss Ettie Berger was a charming and graceful performance; Miss Alexina Brandt sang a ballad which was heartily encored, and in response gave "Good-bye, Sweetheart, Good-bye;" a fantasia on the bells by the family followed, and then Sol Smith Russell once more made his appearance and gave some facial delineations which were perfectly astonishing. The Irishman, the down-east Yankee, the hypochondriac, the village teacher and others were delineated with great skill, and the schoolboy reciting "Bingen on the Rhine" was one of the funniest things ever seen on any stage. The silver cornet band of nine ladies and gentlemen, played a quick-step, and the audience dispersed, having thoroughly enjoyed an entertainment which for variety, merit, and skill in its arrangement, has seldom been surpassed. Sol Smith Russell has made a hit, and will be the rage for many nights to come. He has a large repertoire, and can amuse an audience all the year round. The Berger Family will perform at Platt's Hall every evening until further notice.

Capt. Badger's Grand Central Park, Oakland.

Over three thousand people were present at the picnic of the Lafayette Philharmonic Association held in these beautiful grounds on Sunday. With the members of the Association were the French Zouaves, the Lafayette Guards and the marines from the French frigate La Flora. All present enjoyed themselves thoroughly; the scene was a most brilliant one, and the affair was delightful throughout. On Saturday next the members of the First Presbyterian Church Sunday Schools and their friends will hold their annual picnic in

California Theatre,

The production of such a sterling comedy as "London Assurance" was the signal for many who are not regular theatre-goers to pay a visit to the California Theatre last night. They were richly rewarded for the effort. Miss Carlotta Leclercq as Lady Gay Spanker, gave a perfectly delightful rendition of that role. When she delivered the speech describing the hunt she awakened the audience to positive enthusiasm, and in the scene where Sir Harcourt Courtley presses his suit, she did some excellent comedy acting. Henry Edwards presented a fine and consistent impersonation of Sir Harcourt Courtley, representing him as a gentleman whom none would dare to laugh at openly though they might make fun of him behind his back. John McCullough as Dazzle was preternaturally cool and dazzlingly impudent, and carried out the author's idea very successfully. Miss Minnie Walton was charmingly natural as Grace Harkaway; Owen Marlowe was an admirable representative of Charles Courtley. J. C. Williamson was a most eccentric Mark Meddle, and Edmund Leathes a very pleasing and gentlemanly Dolly Spanker. Mrs. C. R. Saunders as Pert, was all that could be desired; Walter Leman as the genial Max Harkaway was very good. Altogether the play had full justice done it. It will be repeated to-night. To-morrow night "The School for Scandal" will be produced with a very strong cast.

Farewell Concert of Miss Anna Mehlig.

On Thursday evening, the great pianiste who has delighted the music-loving portion of our public on many occasions, will give her farewell concert at Pacific Hall, when she will play a number of selections from the great masters. Miss Mehlig will be assisted by a full orchestra, and the concert will be under the direction of George T. Evans.

American Theatre.

The company at this house is very strong in pleasing vocalists and attractive dancers, and the programme presented is so varied that all are well pleased. There will be a change of programme to-night and many novelties will be introduced.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURING the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmates.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the sewing machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfection of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines; for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, of the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have surrounded themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 381 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 80, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the 3 Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for several hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "sic transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and radically second-rate, but the growing decrepitude and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are several of them to form a goodly mass. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the invention and talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune April 13.

We Should Think So.

The following appeared in the local column of the Call on Sunday:

The unfortunate typo who suddenly found himself minus $26 for an alleged debt claimed by a persistent coffee vender, thought it best not to appear in the Justices' Court to be tried yesterday, and the case went by default. As the plaintiff in this case will have to pay costs, it is likely that he will be careful when he garnishees another printer's hard earned coin.

The reporter wished to gain the sympathy of the community for the unfortunate printer who was forced to pay for his coffee with his hard-earned coin. He, however made an error in overlooking the fact that persistent coffee venders advertised in the Call and gained the sympathy of the proprietors of that paper by so doing. Therefore it is not strange that the following appears in the advertising columns of the Call:

A first-class local reporter wanted at this office.

The local reporter's sympathies must be with each present or possible advertiser of the Call, and his "items" must be framed with careful consideration of their feelings. The Call can probably obtain just the man it wants by applying at the Labor Exchange. To become a local reporter on one of our San Francisco dailies, the following qualifications are necessary: a minimum of education, ditto of conscience ditto of spirit, unlimited cheek (outside the office), and a profound reverence for the paper having the largest circulation in the city.

Disgraceful.

The following brutal paragraph is going the rounds of the press:

How young men can consent to loaf about the corners as they do, when a good dose of strychnine can be bought for sixpence, is really surprising.

This is simply abominable. We hope the writer will try a dose of strychnine himself and see if it doesn't hurt. Laudanum is the proper stuff to recommend to the young men in question; it is painless, soothing and effectual.

Incredible as it may seem, many of the richest planters in Jamaica live on coffee grounds.

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. Our Climate.

Everyone who has been in San Francisco for even one day is aware, we hope, that our climate is the most delightful of all climates in the world. It is delightful in being a cosmopolitan climate. Here Italia's sons find the skies of their sunny native land, but as there are other citizens to be pleased besides Italia's sons, blue skies can't be run always. The wind whistles, and there is a change of scene, a thick fog comes up reminding the Englishman of his native land, and the streets of London in November. Change again; the wind has shifted round to another quarter, and in the twinkling of eyelid there is a great transformation scene with moonlight effects. We have Spring, Summer, Autumn and Winter in twenty-four hours, the climates of all four quarters of the globe represented in one place. There is nothing monotonous about the climate of San Francisco. The only thing that can be complained of, is the wind, but then that is so healthy, and if the streets were kept clean it would be no annoyance. The dust is what annoys, not the wind. We have the finest climate in the world, there is no doubt about it. We made this remark the other day to a bright young fellow who has been for the last three months seeking employment in San Francisco and has not found it. He was cursing the place, and wishing he was out of it. "Consider the climate," we said. "Oh, d——n it man," he replied, "a man can't live on the climate, at any rate he wouldn't get fat on it." Nevertheless a man does not get so poor in our climate, as he does during the long dreary winters, which prevail in New York, London and other cities less-favored than San Francisco. A man can easily become accustomed to our changes of climate, and need never wear an overcoat from one year's end to the other. We have not had any real summer yet, it is rather late, but if it does not come just about the time set down in the almanacs, we are sure to have some scorching hot days in December. What would they give in New York for warm days in December, or deliciously cool days in July, strawberries all the year round, and all that sort of thing? Finest climate in the world.

A Sad State of Things.

The Sacramento Bee complains that though it warned boys against bathing in the ponds within the city limits they don't heed it. It says:

Parents either neglected to give their hopeful the benefit of our warning, or else the little rascals paid no heed to parental admonitions, for yesterday the ponds in the vicinity of Ratreet and Seventeenth were as near full of naked and undutiful boys as they were of pollywogs.

Ponds full of naked boys and pollywogs don't look pretty.

Happy Days.

"O, sir," said a woman, pleading for her husband, who was before a police judge for beating her with a poker, "he wasn't always that way. There was a happy time when he only struck me with his fist."

The Latest Styles, The latest "Tiles."

There is quite a rush just at present to "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street, (the second hat store below Kearny), where have been received an immense number of the new Summer style of hats, which are being sold at remarkably low prices. A fashionable "tile" finishes off a well-dressed man admirably. It can be obtained at "THE" HAT STORE. *

James Miller, news agent on the Southern Pacific Railroad, supplies the passengers with the latest San Francisco dailies and Eastern Illustrated papers at a dime apiece. Ask the boys for the right change. He also furnishes FIGARO to the passengers on the upward bound trains at San Francisco rates—free of charge. *

The Palace of Truth.

Why is an oyster like an inmate of the Palace of Truth?—Because it cannot tell a lie. Another: Why do so many of the audience after visiting the California Theatre, flock after the performance to the Pacific Oyster House, 329 Bush street, just below Montgomery?—Because Charley Hanke has the finest, fattest, richest Eastern oysters, and gets up the best suppers imaginable. G

Supper Parties.

There they find the cosiest little private rooms up-stairs, the finest oysters and the best of everything. W. Spreen started the BIVALVE seven years ago, and it is to-day the most popular oyster house in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Lester Wallack's military comedy of "The Veteran," which recently had such a run in New York was produced last night at the Metropolitan Theatre, and Charles Wheatleigh made his reappearance. The scenic artists, Messrs. Barbury and Rogers, had put some of their best work on new scenes and the play was well put on the stage. Charles Wheatleigh as Leon Delmar did some capital acting, and fairly brought down the house in the finale of the first act. W. J. Coggswell gave an admirable impersonation of Col. Delmar, a well drawn character which afforded him a better opportunity to display his talent than he has heretofore enjoyed in this city. His make-up for the veteran was very good, and we can pay him no higher compliment than to say that he played it exactly as Wheatleigh would have done had he chosen that part instead of Leon Delmar. It would'nt be a bad idea for Wheatleigh and Coggswell to change parts for one night during the run of "The Veteran." J. M. Hardie was a noble Arab chief, and was very impressive; J. W. Piercy was very good as Eugene; Miss Maggie Moore, though the part of Blanche D'Ivry is not one of those in which she feels most at her ease, was very lively and amusing; Mrs. Frank Rea, had a good part in Mrs. McShake and carried it out well, and Miss Fanny Young read and acted the part of Amineh the Arab girl, with good effect. T. E. Jackson, as the Irishman turned Moslem and made a Vizier caused great fun, and the scenes in which he appeared were some of the liveliest in the play. Susie Soule as Guizare had not much to do but to look pretty, which she certainly did, in gorgeous costume. "The Veteran" is a play which works the leading characters pretty hard, and Charles Wheatleigh, W. J. Coggswell, S. W. Piercy, Miss Maggie Moore and Mrs. Frank Rea deserve credit for the manner in which their scenes went. The concluding tableau presents one of the most thrilling scenes ever produced on any stage: the solid walls of the palace are thrown down, flames burst forth, and the French soldiers enter through the breach. There is too much talk in the piece, but we have an idea that it will be played a good deal "closer" to-night. The "Veteran" will be repeated every night until further notice.

California Theatre.

The present week is the last but one of the engagement of Miss Carlotta Leclercq, and all who can appreciate high dramatic art should see as much as possible of this admirable actress while her engagement lasts. Last night "London Assurance" was repeated, and gave as much satisfaction as on a former occasion. To-night the great comedy of "The School for Scandal" will be presented with Miss Leclercq as Lady Teazle, Henry Edwards as Sir Peter Teazle, and a very strong cast which may be seen by referring to our first page. On Friday evening John McCullough will take his annual benefit, and the house will not be large enough to contain his hosts of friends. "Hamlet" will be the play on that occasion, with John McCullough in the title role and Miss Leclercq as Ophelia.

The Alhambra.

Not many nights more will the Great Emerson Minstrels remain to delight the public of San Francisco with their inimitable performances. After this week they will take to the tent like the Arab and go off across the mountains. The great combination company comprising J. H. Milburn, Billy Emerson, Sheridan and Mack, Harry Stanwood and all the bright stars whose names appear on another page, will present a great programme to-night. J. H. Milburn will take his farewell benefit on Friday, and make his last appearance but one.

Bella Union.

Among the many attractions offered to-night may be mentioned the act of "The Blue Chicken," in which Lon McCarty, Mat Kelly, Harry Sinclair, and others, cause much fun; sweet songs by Carrie Armstrong, Ida Fisk, Minnie Fillmore, and others; a bright little song and dance by the popular Miss Marie Zoel; comic songs by Tommy Barton, and fancy dances by Miss Carrie Chapman. The legendery play of "The King of the Merrows" winds up the evening's amusement. Miss Nellie Whitney, Add Weaver and son, and Miss Jennie Johnson are underlined to appear soon.

San Francisco Circus.

The pavilion on Jackson street is so warm and comfortable that all can enjoy the great performance now presented by the talented troupe engaged there, and all the ladies in the city will pay at least one visit. The Matthews Family in their drawing room entertainment, Master Willie Matthews and Miss Polonia in their Dutch business, Omar Kingsley in his graceful acts, and many others whose names appear on our first page will appear to-night. There will be a matinee performance at half-past two o'clock to-day. There will be a new programme to-night, when Omar Kingsley will introduce the wonderful trained horse "Leopard," and the performance will conclude the pantomime of "Jack, the Giant Killer."

Platt's Music Hall.

None can fail to be pleased with the admirable entertainment nightly given by the Berger Family and the talented humorist, Sol Smith Russell. Miss Henrietta Berger's staff bell is a great feature in the programme; the vocalization of Miss Nellie E. Knapp is generally admired, and Sol Smith Russell is a host in himself. Without the help of dress or make-up he leaves Lingard far in the shade, and contrives to keep the audience continually laughing while he is on the stage. The bell ringing is only one feature of many in the long and entertaining programme presented.

City Gardens.

Each visit to these naturally beautiful grounds shows great improvements being made by the present lessee, Mr. Stevens. A new pavilion 60 by 100 feet, exclusive of stage, dressing rooms, etc., costing $15,000, has been erected on the Folsom street front, for dancing, concerts, etc. This week a boiler and engine will be erected capable of supplying the main reservoir on the knoll with 30,000 gallons of water per day. The supply will be obtained from the lake in the Southern portion of the grounds and hereafter every portion of the gardens will be thoroughly irrigated every day, which will add much to their beauty and freshness. A new ladies dressing, hat and cloak room is being added to the new pavilion, and constant improvements are being made in every direction. It is said $35,000 has been expended thus far on the grounds. It is certain that Mr. Stevens deserves great credit for the liberality and energy displayed in his short term of management, and he will doubtless reap his reward in a further increase of public patronage.

American Theatre.

The beautiful pantomime of "The Dumb Girl of Genoa," in which Miss Louise Sammers and Geo. H. Foster appear, is an attractive feature in the Didn't Stop to Get Married.

Getting married is a very important event in one's life, but it is not absolutely necessary that it should interrupt one's regular duties. A brakeman on the Shore Line took his affiance on board the train at New London the other day, called in the aid of a passenger who was a minister, was duly wedded and took his wife back on the return trip. He lost no time and incurred no expense except the clergyman's fee, and yet he will no doubt have as happy a married life as if there had been a good deal of fuss and flurry, possible happier. Sensible couple, may they live long and prosper.

Miseries of a Bachelor.

"There's no use talking, I'm going to get married," said a bachelor acquaintance, the other day, while busily engaged in sewing. "Here I have worked just twenty minutes by the watch trying to get this needle threaded, and then just as I succeeded I pulled the thread out. Finally I got it threaded again, and now, after sewing this button on good and strong, I find I've got it on the wrong side, and now I have my work all to do over again.

Great Cooks.

An Englishman and a Welshman disputing in whose country was the best living, the Welshman said: "There is such noble housekeeping in Wales that I have known above a dozen cooks employed at one dinner." "Ay," responded Englishman, "that was because every man toasted his own cheese."

Severe.

A Western paper predicts that one of its State Senators "will live and be honored and beloved by the State when the tall prairie grass refuses to sigh a sad and plaintive requiem over the graves of some of his defamers."

New Music.

One of the prettiest pieces of music b ought out for some time past, is "The Palace of Truth Polka," published by Chas. S. Eaton, 138 Montgomery street. The title page is adorned with the likenesses of the Mejiltons.

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURING the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the sewing machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellences of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the double-thread and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines; for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, of the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a half price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had not been fully confident in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and not to have met them on the same ground would have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of one lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:

Lot No. 60, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $78 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 68, 7 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $31 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $89 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 69, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $30 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 70, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $30 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their favorite machines being dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "sic transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, to us growing decrepit and worn-out, while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies: there are enough of them to form a goodly mass. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is mainly interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long range, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—New York Tribune

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco, HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life ease; but the constant applications from afflicted sufferers everywhere, to come to their relief finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, and spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in the celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST rendered him the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

WEDNESDAY.....MAY 22, 1872

"FIGARO" ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

Still we repeat FIGARO's motto, "Here, there and everywhere." We shall publish extra editions of FIGARO to the number of 100,000 copies to accompany Emerson's California Minstrels and be distributed in every city in the East in which they play—Salt Lake City, Omaha, Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, and others, right through to New York. A limited number of advertisements will be taken for this extra edition. They must be sent in immediately. The first edition will serve as the programme in Sacramento and Virginia City, Nev., and will be printed shortly.

A Puzzling Criticism.

Mrs. Fitch performed an operatic part in Louisville recently, and this is what one of the critics said:

"Mrs. Fitch seemed to gather up in a pearly shell the dripping harmonies of the evening, and like a songful naiad, lift them to the sun to see them glitter."

Now Mrs. Fitch dosen't know whether to order her lawyer to sue the critic for defamation of character, breach of promise, or to write him a note of thanks. Her hair is growing gray in the effort to discover what he meant.

Shameful.

A Western woman, aged twenty-six, has been sued for seducing a boy of sixteen. The parents of the unhappy youth brought the suit, and claimed $1,000 damages, but, as the lady offered to repair the wrong by marrying the seduced one, they were nonsuited.

The Occidental Restaurant.

This old established restaurant is one of the best known in San Francisco. It is famed for its excellent cooking, attentive waiters and general good management. It is situated on Washington street, No. 536, a few doors below Montgomery. H. Burmeisted, the proprietor has at the request of many customers fitted up a half dozen of rooms over the restaurant in elegant style, and henceforth these will be open for family and supper parties until 12 o'clock M. P

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. Do Our Eyes Deceive Us?

In Sunday's Call we read—or thought we read—the following extraordinary paragraph:

The great need of our city is, in the estimation of some of our people, the creation of a Humanitarian Association for the suppression of "The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals." They feel that such an association would have an immense pasture of usefulness, and largely aid Mr. Marriott in his noble task of breaking down the system of blackmailing which has obtained a recognized position in our community.

Not being able to trust the naked eye when it reported so audacious and indecorous an utterance in the meek and lamblike Call, we put on our spectacles and tested the accuracy of our former reading. The glasses, however, confirmed the report of the unaided optic. Now, we should like to know what portentous change has come over the calm spirit of Bro. Pickering's dream that he assumes this aggressive tone, and indulges in these naughty insinuations. Our amiable and pious contemporary of the News-Letter will probably roast Bro. P. in the next issue of his once-dreaded sheet. "Bungletoe," too, will undoubtedly be treated to such a basting as will cause him to caterwaul like an ancient Egyptian tomcat, snatched from a moonlight amour by a murderous hierophant, to be made a mummy of for Bumbesis.

Sensational Sermon.

Since Scudder left, the religious world is dull in San Francisco. Our clergymen have no spirit, no originality—like those of Boston. Here is a specimen advertisement from the Boston Saturday Evening Gazette which is nearly as attractive as a circus bill, and ought to draw well:

Morgan Chapel.—Rev. Henry Morgan, at 7¾, Free Lecture—"Ulysses and the Sirens, Voyage of Life, Ship of State! God! Grant! Victory!" Two Free Lectures before closing for repairs.

We have a suggestion to make to the Rev. Henry Morgan. It is that he get up his sermons—"lectures," we mean—with scenery. "Ulysses and the Sirens" could be beautifully mounted with scenic effects; "The Ship of State" might be presented with a working model. Some folks will laugh, but this sort of thing may be introduced in Morgan Chapel before long.

Thick-Headed Man.

The Oregonian says:

A Mr. Bunker, living about a mile and a half from Cornelius, has recently lost quite a number of his sheep. He cannot account for the manner of their death, as he finds them with their throats cut and no other marks of violation about them.

How dense that Web-foot must be! The manner of their death must be plain enough; they died from having throats cut. Cutting a sheep's throat is generally enough to kill it without any "other marks of violation" being found about them. We suppose if their tails had been cut off Mr. Bunker would not have been puzzled.

THE PLACE TO BUY.—If any one in city or country contemplates buying furniture and bedding, they can find no better place than at J. A. Shaber's, 707 Market street, near Third San Francisco. They buy and sell only for cash, and their prices are always very low. Y

A fashionable "tile" finishes off a well-dressed man admirably. It can be obtained at "THE" HAT STORE.

The Palace of Truth.

Why is an oyster like an inmate of the Palace of Truth?—Because it cannot tell a lie. Another: Why do so many of the audience after visiting the California Theatre, flock after the performance to the Pacific Oyster House, 320 Bush street, just below Montgomery?—Because Charley Haake has the finest, fattest, richest Eastern oysters, and gets up the best suppers imaginable. AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"The Veteran," with its fine scenery, amusing situations and thrilling denouement, will be presented to-night.

The Alhambra.

Those who visit the Alhambra during the few remaining nights of the engagement of the Great Emerson Minstrels will enjoy one of the best performances ever given in any part of the world. Such a combination of artists has seldom been formed, and the programme for variety and excellence has never been surpassed. Billy Emerson in his wonderfully original burlesque acts; J. H. Milburn in his inimitable character sketches; Sheridan and Mack in their beautifully neat and artistic duets and dances; Harry Stanwood in his richly humorous banjo seances; Reynolds Brothers in their grotesque songs and dances; Add Ryman in stump speeches and ethiopian farces; Fayette Welch in funny negro acts; the great baritone, J. G. Russell; the sweet tenors, S. Holdsworth and Harry Norman; the fine basso and general performer, M. Ainsley Scott; the wonderful male soprano, Charles Heywood;—these together make up a company hard to equal. On Monday Simmons & Slocum's Minstrels will commence a series of entirely original entertainments, unlike anything ever seen before in this city. To-morrow night J. H. Milburn, the character vocalist, will take his farewell benefit and will on this occasion appear in no less than ten distinct characters. There will be little chance of getting into the Alhambra To-morrow night unless seats are secured in advance.

California Theatre.

Last evening Sheridan's brilliant comedy, "The School for Scandal," was produced at this theatre with a very strong cast. Miss Carlotta Leclercq's Lady Teazle was an admirable impersonation in every respect, and one that has been rarely equaled on the American stage. Miss Leclercq was ably supported by Henry Edwards, one of the best Sir Peter Teazles on the boards; Mr. McCullough, a jovial and spirited Charles Surface; Mrs. Judah and Mrs. Saunders, both famed for their respective impersonations of Lady Sneerwell and Mrs. Candour, and Miss Minnie Walton, who made as charming and natural Maria as could be desired. John Wilson played the part of Joseph Surface very acceptably; Owen Marlowe made an admirable Sir Benjamin Backbite; Walter Leman was a capital representative of jolly old Sir Oliver Surface; E. J. Buckley was good as Careless; Stephen Leach was a splendid old Rowley, and E. Leathes as Trip and E. N. Thayer as Snake filled their respective characters well. J. C. Williamson in the character of Moses attempted to improve on the author's idea, and transformed the cringing London Jew into a cheeky Dutchman quite "original," but we prefer Sheridan's Jew to Mr. Williamson's, although it was amusing. "The School for Scandal is a comedy in which the actors at the California Theatre take much delight; they throw their soul into it, and the consequence is a representation is given that can be equaled on the stage of no other theatre in the United States save one—Wallack's, N. Y. No less than five luxeriant moustaches, and one little one were sacrificed in order that "The School for Scandal" might be produced with nothing to jar on the harmonies last night, moustaches not being exactly the thing with bay wigs and powder. This devotion to art should have at least the recognition of the public press. Henry Edwards parted with a cherished ornament of twenty years's growth; John Wilson robbed its face of half its sternness by removing his; K. J. Buckley, E. N. Thayer, Stephen Leach (looks years younger), and W. A. Mestayer were the other devotees, the latter giving up a little one. "School for Scandal" to night. To-morrow evening John McCullough will take his annual benefit, when "Ham'es" will be presented.

Bella Union.

After a capital first part and interlude rich in fun, music and original acts, the play of "The King of the Merrows" is performed. In this Misses Minnie Fillmore, Orrie Armstrong, Fanny Gorstorp and Ida Fisk appear as a most attractive band of fairies; R. G. Marsh, Mat Kelly and Minnie Loder as mortals; Carrie Chapman, Harry Sinclair, Tommy Bree, Tommy Barton, J. H. Taylor and Susie Robison as Irish, and Lon McCarthy Marie Zoel and the rest of the company as mermaids and mermen.

American Theatre.

The play of "The Dumb Girl of Genoa" has proved quite a hit in connection with a capital programme of songs, dances, and amusing acts by Harry Howard, Chris Mathews, Jimmy Murphy, Clara Starr, Louise Summers, Eva Silva, and a host of other popular favorites.

San Francisco Circus.

The new programme performed by the great San Francisco Circus troupe is even better than that which has drawn thousands of people nightly since the opening. The graceful tight-rope dancing of M'lle Laurina Mathews is generally admired; the North American Indian act by Leroy, is one of the most exciting ever seen in the ring; the Matthews Family appear in a new entertainment; Leopard, the California wonder, in the most intelligent animal imaginable, and the pantomime of "Jack the Giant Killer" is full of fun.

Miss Anna Mehlig's Farewell Concert.

Miss Anna Mehlig, the great pianiste, will give her farewell concert to-night at Pacific Hall, when she will perform some of the most difficult compositions of Mendelssohn, Chopin, Schubert and Liszt. A complete orchestra under the direction of Geo. T. Evans will assist. The crowded houses which this fine artiste has drawn during her stay here afford a gratifying evidence of the existence of a taste for good music in the community. Her farewell concert will doubtless draw an immense house, as it affords the last opportunity of hearing one whose equal on the pianoforte we may never have among us.

Platt's Music Hall.

So far from diminishing, the attendance at the delightful entertainments given by the Berger Family and the wonderfully original humorist, Sol Smith, increases nightly as the public become aware of its variety and excellence. The bell ringing is certainly very pleasing, but it forms a small portion of the rich and diversified programme offered. Of Sol Smith the public cannot get enough, and he has novelties in preparation which will still further increase his popularity.

City Gardens.

The Feridon and Occidental Conclaves, Order of Heptasophs, intend having a big time at their picnic at the City Gardens on Sunday next. There will be a Skating Carnival led by Callie Curtis and Cyrus True; magical and sleight-of-hand exhibition by Herr Schlam; dancing in the Pavilion; a field watch and other prizes for the winners of the out-door games and races, and in the evening a grand concert in the new Music Hall, by amateur talent and a band of twenty instrumentalists. There will also be fireworks on the lake and a ball after the concert. As the tickets to the whole are but 50 cents doubtless thousands will visit the Gardens on Sunday.

O, SOFT SPRING AIRS.

Come up, come up, O soft Spring airs,
Come from your silver shining seas,
Where all day long you toss the wave
About the low and palm-plumed keys.

Forsake the spicy lemon groves,
The balms and blisses of the South,
And blow across the longing land
The breath of your delicious mouth.

Come from the almond bough you stir,
The myrtle thicket where you sigh—
Oh, leave the nightingale, for here
The robin whistles far and nigh!

For here the violet in the wood
Thrills with the sweetness you shall take,
And wrapped away from life and love
The wild rose dreams, and fain would wake

For here in reed and rush and grass,
And tiptoe in the dark and dew,
Each sod of the brown earth aspires
To meet the sun, the sun and you.

Then come, O fresh Spring airs, once more
Create the old delightful things,
And woo the frozen world again
With hints of heaven upon your wings!

The Baltimore Bulletin.

The above named paper comes to us with the following explanation at the head of its columns:

It will be perceived by our readers that we have changed the name of our paper from Sunday Bulletin to Baltimore Bulletin. We have done so for two reasons; because the paper is not, and, since the close of the Franco-German war, has not been, a Sunday paper; and also because we believe that our new title would be more in accordance with the taste and wishes of a large majority of our readers.

What the deuce the Franco-German war has to do with the Baltimore Bulletin we can't guess. We suppose if there happens to be a war in China the Bulletin will be published on Tuesday.

Had Him There.

"Now, children," said a Sunday School Superintendent, who had been talking to his scholars about good people and bad people—"Now, children, when I'm walking in the street I speak to some people I meet and I don't speak to others, and what's the reason?" He expected the reply would be, "Because some are good and others bad;" but to his discomfiture the general shout was, "Because some are rich and others are poor."

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURing the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to close the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines; for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, of the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have sunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:

Lot No. 80, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz. 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "sic transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mass. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in the sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not exporting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune April 18.

"FIGARO" ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

Still we repeat FIGARO's motto, "Here, there and everywhere." We shall publish extra editions of FIGARO to the number of 100,000 copies to accompany Emerson's California Minstrels and be distributed in every city in the East in which they play—Salt Lake City, Omaha, Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, and others, right through to New York. A limited number of advertisements will be taken for this extra edition. They must be sent in immediately. The first edition will serve as the programme in Sacramento and Virginia City, Nev., and will be printed shortly.

A Convert.

A liquor-loving Teuton attended a camp meeting in a town in San Joaquin county, and was captured and converted through the zealous efforts of the presiding elder and a few of the brethen. The sequel is thus related by the Calaveras Citizen:

It was considered a big acquisition to the army of the Lord. Much joy ensued in consequence of this brand snatched from the burning. And now comes the catastrophe. It was communion day; the elect were partaking of the sacrament; our friend was not so seated that the wine was passed to him nearly at the first. One sniff of the beverage was enough to arouse all the old desire. The latent appetite wanted no more prompting. Seizing the vessel, he drained the contents to the bottom. Then, with outstretched arms and reverend aspect, he exclaimed, "Bless the Lord! I love Shesus so much I coot drink a quart."

Honesty.

An Indiana paper urges its friends to support a certain candidate for office for the reason that "he takes an open drink, without clasping all four of his fingers about the glass." This seems to be the Indiana notion of honesty.

A Nantucket store-keeper advertises for sale "Quart bowls, of all sorts and sizes; ninepence a piece, and various prices."

"Are rattans necessary in schools?" is the question that now worries the Board of Education. The boys are feelingly interested on the subject.

The Occidental Restaurant.

This old established restaurant is one of the best known in San Francisco. It is famed for its excellent cooking, attentive waiters and general good management. It is situated on Washington street, No. 536, a few doors below Montgomery. H. Burmeister, the proprietor has at the request of many customers fitted up a half dozen of rooms over the restaurant in elegant style, and henceforth these will be open for family and supper parties until 12 o'clock M. The Overland Monthly.

The Overland Monthly for May, closing the eight volume, is a very good number. It opens with a valuable article entitled "Sheep-farming in California," by John Hayes, in which facts are stated in a plain manner, and exaggeration is avoided. "What Was It?" by Philip Crome, is a ghost story, pretty well written, with "reedy shores," "solemn rivers," "sweet silence," and other "nice" things; the ghost is a military gentleman who was drowned. "Kodiak and Southern Alaska," by W. T. Wythe, is another of the solid, useful articles which are a distinctive feature of the Overland; it is full of information, and is well written. "The Netherland Mettray," by N. S. Dodge, is a capital paper, giving some account of a model Industrial School in Holland, and telling how a philanthropic Dutchman reformed the hoodlums of Holland. The new Superintendent of our Industrial School should study it and avail himself of the valuable hints it gives. "Ever Present," by W. A. Kendall; very pretty verses, full of thought. "It occurred at Tucson," by Josephine Clifford, a very good story written in a free, original style. "An American Art," by William Filmer, a paper on electrotyping, rather egotistical. "A Vanished Hope," by Margaret E. Sangster, a sweet little poem full of feeling. "The Northern Californian Indians, No. III," by Stephen Powers; another of those vividly written descriptions of the Indians of Oregon which are read with delight by all. "Patty Dree, Schoolmarm," by Mrs. James Neall; a nice, tame little story, much better than "Ferns and Wild Oats" by the same writer; will please many readers. "Pavy's Expedition to the North Pole," by D. Walker, M. D.; a very interesting paper on an expedition in which California should take especial pride and interest, and which will attract the attention of scientific men in all parts of the world. "Woven Threads on Goodness," by the Rev. W. A. Loomis, translations from Confucius and other great Chinese writers. "A Parable of Nature," by Charles Warren Stoddard, a poem full of word painting. "The Omens," by J. F. Bowman, a story with an idea in it, very well written and interesting. "Etc.," not much of it, not much in it. "Current Literature," very full, very well written. The Overland Monthly for May is above the average.

Miss Stevens, a beautiful blonde preacher, is creating a profound religious sensation in Georgia. She makes all the masculines feel like embracing her—doctrines.

THE PLACE TO BUY.—If any one in city or country contemplates buying furniture and bedding, they can find no better place than at J. A. Shaber's, 707 Market street, near Third San Francisco. They buy and sell only for cash, and their prices are always very low. Y

The Latest Styles, The latest "Tiles."

There is quite a rush just at present to "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street, (the second hat store below Kearny), where have been received an immense number of the new Summer style of hats, which are being sold at remarkably low prices. A fashionable "tile" finishes off a well-dressed man admirably. It can be obtained at "THE" HAT STORE.

Mechanics, laborers, etc., send your orders or apply to "The California Labor Exchange," 637 Clay street, San Francisco. U

The Palace of Truth.

Why is an oyster like an inmate of the Palace of Truth?—Because it cannot tell a lie. Another: Why do so many of the audience after visiting the California Theatre, flock after the performance to the Pacific Oyster House, 329 Bush street, just below Montgomery?—Because Charley Haake has the finest, fattest, richest Eastern oysters, and gets up the best suppers imaginable. One of Figaro's Stories.

Our Parisian namesake is not such a good paper as it was before the Franco-German war. It tells the most ridiculous stories about occurrences in England:

In its account of the late University boat race, the bishops and both houses of Parliament went down the river in a barge to see it. Fifty thousand bets were laid on the result, and fifty suicides occurred the next day. But the most extraordinary flight is the following: "The most wonderful woman in Europe is going to be married. The lady is Mabel Grey, the gipsy queen, an admirable young woman of 25, who is hereditary queen of all the Bohemians of England, Ireland and Scotland; and God knows how many there are. She pretends that she is descended from the Pharaohs, and adores Isis and Osiris. Her power is not to be disdained, for she reigns over three or four thousand sturdy beggars, pickpockets, jugglers, dentists, elixir sellers, and shams of every kind, who all obey her blindly. If the fancy took her, Mabel Gray might assassinate any one of them without any notice being taken of the crime. She is the most celebrated fortune teller in the United Kingdom. For two shillings she tells your past, for three your future. She is going to marry a young gentleman named Middleton, of noble family and great property." The next thing, no doubt, will be Miss Grey's appointment to the post of Queen's advocate, and indeed she would be of use in the Divorce Court.

Very Mean.

The meanest liquor dealer yet discovered, flourishes in Winona, Minn. He hired a poor woman to make some shirts, and then offset her bill by her husband's whiskey account.

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this deideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. Schroder, "dispensers of good things," at 330 Bush street, below Kearny, solicit a call from their friends and the public generally. None but the finest brands of liquors and cigars served. Private club and social rooms annexed. Y

Supper Parties.

A man eats breakfast because he is hungry; too often he hurries over his dinner, but supper he enjoys. All enjoy a supper at the BIVALVE, 640 Market street, three doors below Kearny. There they find the coolest little private rooms up-stairs, the finest oysters and the best of everything. W. Spreen started the BIVALVE seven years ago, and it is to-day the most popular oyster house in San Francisco.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

The Alhambra.

To-night an entertainment presenting extraordinary attractions will be given for the benefit of the popular and talented J. H. Milburn, whose character songs and wonderful dancing have rendered him a universal favorite. On this occasion the beneficiary will appear in no less than ten distinct delineations of character, and Billy Emerson will follow with his wonderfully amusing burlesque imitations of Milburn's best acts. Numberless other performances will be given, and the entertainment will be a splendid one. To-morrow night Billy Emerson, who is so soon to leave us to seek new laurels in an Eastern clime, will take his benefit, when all his friends and admirers are invited to come to the Alhambra and try to get in. There will be a rush on this occasion, and all who do get in will enjoy one of the greatest entertainments ever given by any minstrel band since the Flood. The last matinee of the Emerson Minstrels will be given to-morrow.

California Theatre.

Last night "The School for Scandal" was played to another large and fashionable house. To-night the genial manager of the California Theatre will take his annual benefit. "Hamlet" will be presented on this occasion, and Mr. McCullough will appear in the character of the Prince of Denmark, one to which he has given much study. The support will be excellent, comprising Miss Carlotta Leclercq as Ophelia. Never in the history of the drama in California has the part been played by so thorough an artiste, the full cast appears on our first page. The California Theatre will be thronged on this occasion, with those anxious to show their appreciation of Mr. McCullough's efforts as a manager, and his sterling qualities as a man. There will be a matinee performance to-morrow.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night "The Veteran," which plays much more smoothly than on the opening night, will be presented. The thrilling denouement is the subject of general admiration. This piece will be performed at the matinee to-morrow. Next week Miss Laura Honey will make her first appearance in California, and produce her new sensational drama entitled "Lilly, Arcon."

Bella Union.

This evening among other attractive performances the ever-popular Ethiopian burlesque of "Camille" will be presented by Johnny Thiers and Mat Kelly; "Little Frand," by Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin, and the very amusing play of "the King of the Merrows," with its dancing mermaids and other startling features.

American Theatre.

The company at this house is strong in female talent, comprising such popular performers as Miss Clara Starr, character vocalist; Miss Eva Silva the favorite balladist; Louise Summers, the pleasing songstress, and many others whose names appear on our first page. To-morrow evening Miss May Leroy, the popular dancuse, will appear.

San Francisco Circus.

There is no end to the attractions presented at the Circus, and there is no end to the rush which follows the opening of the doors every night. The Matthews Family give an entertainment which is so varied, so original, and so unlike anything else ever seen in a circus that it is no wonder they are immense favorites. To-morrow there will be a matinee, when the excellent programme of performances on our first page will be presented in full

Platt's Music Hall.

The Berger Family and that very artistic humorist, Sol Smith Russell, will appear in a varied and attractive performance to-night. As the public learn the real merit of the entertainment the attendance increases, and the audiences have been larger than on the opening night, when the body of the hall was comfortably filled. The humorous delineations of Sol Smith Russell are an entertainment in themselves, and in some particulars he is far ahead of any of the comic men of the day.

Capt. Badger's Grand Central Park, Oakland.

Great improvements have been made in these beautiful grounds and additions are constantly being made to the menagerie: a camel is the latest. On Sunday next a concert will be given in the pavilion by the wonderful baby violinist, the Child Americus, Mr. and Mrs. Coriell, Professor Speight, and J. H. Stout. The Child Americus is a perfect marvel and is well worth hearing. Four bits covers the expense of a trip in the country, by boat and cars and return, admission to the Park and all amusement, and the concert in the Pavilion Many will take this occasion to visit the Grand Central Park, the most beautiful pleasure garden on the Pacific Coast.

City Gardens.

The picnic of the Feridon and Occidental Corlaves, Order of Heptasophs, will be held in these Gardens on Sunday next. A very attractive series of entertainments will be presented for the occasion as will be seen by referring to their programme which is advertised in FIGARO only, by the way.

Miss Anna Mehlig's Farewell Concert.

There was a large and fashionable gathering in Pacific Hall last night to bid farewell to Miss Anna Mehlig, the gifted pianista. The programme arranged for the occasion was most excellently well performed, and all hoped for another chance to hear the greatest artist on the pianoforte who has ever visited this city.

A Letter of Thanks.

The Improved Order of Red Men were so well satisfied with the manner in which affairs were conducted at their late Festival at the City Gardens, that they have presented the lessee with the following little testimonial letter:

Office of the Secretary of The Improved Order of Red Men, 607 Washington Street.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21, 1872.

MR. M. V. STEVENS—CITY GARDENS—DEAR SIR: At a regular meeting of the Committee on the Tammany Day Celebration, I was instructed to tender you the thanks of the Order for the earnestness with which you showed in making our Tammany Day Festival a success, also for many kindnesses and favors, and to your employees for their courteous conduct. Hoping you may long remain to extend like courtesies to other benevolent institutions, I remain with respect, yours, etc.,

JAMES O. BURKE, Secretary.

The Emerson Minstrels.

For the last two years we have repeatedly asserted that the Emerson Minstrel organization was the best in the United States, and we have heard the voluntary assertion of hundreds, capable of judging, who have visited the Atlantic cities and seen all the minstrel troupes there, to the same purport. In proof that talent and artistic excellence will not go unrewarded in San Francisco, we can proudly point to the constant series of crowded houses that for nearly two years have greeted the performances of Maguire & Emerson's minstrels, and to the subjoined endorsements of the press of San Francisco, published on the eve of the departure of the Emerson Minstrels, across the continent, to fulfil their Fall engagement in New York city:

Alhambra Theatre.—The time is drawing to a close for the Emerson Minstrels to leave us, after playing the most successful engagement of any minstrel company that ever visited this city. The Emerson Minstrels will leave for a tour through the United States on the 7th of this month, and their place will be filled by the Simmons & Slocum Minstrels, twenty-eight in number, from the city of Philadelphia. J. G. Russell, the baritone of the Emerson Troupe, is the best singer we have ever had in cork opera—a voice of exceeding richness and clearness of tone. Emerson himself is a host, bearing comparison with all the stars in his profession who have visited us, and combining the excellences of all; Harry Stanwood is the quaintest of talkers and an excellent banjoist; Holdsworth and Norman are very acceptable tenors; Ainsley Scott is not only a good bass o singer but a capital actor; Add Ryman makes a first-rate stump speech, and has some very amusing specialty acts; the Reynolds Brothers, who will join the troupe when travelling, are very accomplished clog dancers: Milburn came out with a great Eastern reputation as a character singer; Fayette Welch is as funny as it is possible to allow an "end man" to be, and Heywood has the best soprano voice of any of the male-female singers. This troupe, with such artists, "will do to travel."—Alta, May 9th.

Alhambra Theatre.—The season of Emerson's Minstrels is drawing to a close, the present week being the last but two of the engagement of this combination. They will be succeeded by Simmons & Slocum's Minstrels, late of Philadelphia, twenty-eight in number. These are said to be first-class performers, some of the troupe being represented as possessed of great talent and versatility. Meanwhile the Emersonians will continue to present a well-selected programme every evening. If the success of those who will follow them shall be equal to that which has attended these popular minstrels during the past year, the fortunes of the Alhambra will be assured for an indefinite period.—Call, May 8th.

Alhambra Theatre.—The Great Emerson Minstrels, who have delighted the citizens of San Francisco for the last eighteen months with their unique and chaste performance of negro minstrelsy, will take their departure on Monday, May 27th, for a tour through the United States. We have no doubt but that they will meet with the same success they have met with in this city, as the Emerson Minstrel Troupe, without a doubt, is the best that has ever visited this city, and the citizens of San Francisco are wholly indebted to Mr. Thomas Maguire for this pleasant enjoyment. We are indeed sorry to part with this band of sable performers so soon, and shall look forward with delight for their return. We shall miss the great Emerson in his laughable specialties, as well as all his confreres; but we will console ourselves with the knowledge that while we are to lose the Emerson's, we are to have in their place a company second to none in the United States—the Simmons & Slocum Minstrel Company, late of Philadelphia, numbering twenty-eight members. At an outlay of several thousand dollars, Thomas Maguire, Esq., while on his last visit to the East, engaged this monster band, who will make their bow before the citizens of San Francisco on Monday, May 27th, in one of their pleasing and select entertainments. The New York Clipper of May 4th says:—

"The Emerson Minstrels at the Alhambra, San Francisco, writes our correspondent, 'Sir Toby,' on the 15th inst., were opened by Ainsley Scott, who assumed his old position of stage-manager, and J. G. Russell, baritone singer. The first part was distinguished by some singing seldom equaled in minstrel halls, from a quintette consisting of Charles Heywood, soprano; Holdsworth and Norman, tenors; Russell, baritone, and Scott, bass. Russell's fine, ringing, full-toned voice fully merits the distinction of his being considered the best baritone singer in the minstrel business; he made a fine impression and won torrents of applause and encores. He will be a rare acquisition to the company. In the second part a new programme was given, consisting of banjo-playing by the popular Harry Stanwood; sketches by Milburn; 'Amuler,' a comic act, by Emerson, Add Ryman and Robinson; double song and dance by Reynolds' Brothers; 'I Dreamt that I Dwelt in Marble Halls,' by Charles Heywood; Billy Emerson's songs and dances; and the new sketch, 'In a Regular Fix,' characters by Fayette Welch Robinson, Ryman, and Heywood."—New-Yorker, May 11th.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURING the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of men and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The WILLOOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines: for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, of the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned to close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machine in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 291 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were generally in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and sevens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 80, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably be a good strong dose of philosophy to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "sic transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful visit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly absorbed, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can make the proof positive and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their enemy on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune April 18.

Still we repeat FIGARO's motto, "Here, there and everywhere." We shall publish extra editions of FIGARO to the number of 100,000 copies to accompany Emerson's California Minstrels and be distributed in every city in the East in which they play—Salt Lake City, Omaha, Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, and others, right through to New York. A limited number of advertisements will be taken for this extra edition. They must be sent in immediately. The first edition will serve as the programme in Sacramento and Virginia City, Nev., and will be printed shortly.

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thomoson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. Girls in the Garden.

If there is any one thing more beautiful than another in a flower garden, that thing is a beautiful girl, with a sun bonnet on her head so wide and so capacious that you have to get right square before her and pretty near her, to see the glowing cheeks that are sure to be there if she is at all accustomed to garden walks and works. Physically, there can be nothing better for daughters, and indeed for many wives, than to take sole charge of a small flower garden. The benefits of early rising, stirring the soil, snuffing the pure morning air, are freshness and glow of cheek and brightness of eye, cheerfulness of temper, vigor of mind, and purity of heart. Consequently she must be more cheerful and lovely as a daughter, more dignified and womanly as a sister, and more attractive and confiding as a wife. If you have not the dooryard ground, then get a dozen pots and plant the seeds of flowers to your taste.

A Trying Position.

A gentlemanly conductor was collecting tickets from his passengers. All handed over their tickets promptly except one fat old lady who sat next to the door, and who seemed to be reaching down to get some thing she had dropped on the floor. When her time to pay came she raised her head and thus addressed the blushing conductor: "I allurs, when I travels, carry my money in my stockin', for you sees, nothin' can get at it thar, and I'd just thank you, young man, just to reach it for me, as I'm so jammed in that I can't get to it. I forget to get a ticket at the depot." The conductor glanced at the other passengers, some of whom were laughing at his plight; one or two young ladies among them blushed scarlet, and he beat a sudden retreat, muttering something about not charging old ladies, etc. His cash was short that trip the fare of one passenger.

Too Critical.

Spinks says that he hates an observing woman—one of the kind that will say as soon as you are fairly seated at the breakfast table: "My dear, your necktie is one-eighth or maybe three-sixteenths of an inch too far to the left, and there are four more hairs on the left side of your moustache than on the right."

THE PLACE TO BUY.—If any one in city or country contemplates buying furniture and bedding, they can find no better place than at J. A. Shaber's, 707 Market street, near Third San Francisco. They buy and sell only for cash, and their prices are always very low. Y

There is quite a rush just at present to "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street, (the second hat store below Kearny), where have been received an immense number of the new Summer style of hats, which are being sold at remarkably low prices. A fashionable "tile" finishes off a well-dressed man admirably. It can be obtained at "THE" HAT STORE.

For Reliable Help,

Mechanics, laborers, etc., send your orders or apply to "The California Labor Exchange," 637 Clay street, San Francisco. U

The Palace of Truth.

Why is an oyster like an inmate of the Palace of Truth?—Because it cannot tell a lie. Another: Why do so many of the audience after visiting the California Theatre, flock after the performance to the Pacific Oyster House, 329 Bush street, just below Montgomery?—Because Charley Haake has the finest, fattest, richest Eastern oysters, and gets up the best suppers imaginable.

Supper Parties.

A man eats breakfast because he is hungry; too often he hurries over his dinner, but supper he enjoys. You'll enjoy a supper at the BIVALVE, 640 Market street, three doors below Kearny. THE LATEST INVENTION

THE GREAT

Lightning Ink Eraser!

Patented by Mr. J. W. Talmadge, Jan. 16, 1872.

For the use of lawyers, merchants, bookkeepers, clerks, and the writing community in general; to be used instead of a lance or scraper for erasing ink from paper and parchment, in order to instantly rectify a mistake or clean off a blot, without any injury whatever to the printers ink upon any printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bill head or ruling upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, and leaving the paper or parchment clean and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the aid of this valuable and useful article you rectify a mistake or blot without taking the penholder from your hand; it is done in an instant, and the paper is ready to write upon again. The old way of scratching the ink not only takes out the ruling, but spoils the surface of the paper, and the ink will spread and blot when written over again; and, in case of blot upon any printed form you cannot scratch it off without spoiling your form, if it is done with a knife or scraper. It also removes stains made by ink, fruit, iron-rust, etc., from cotton, linen, and the finest laces, without the least injury to any goods that water will not injure; therefore it is invalable to all, from a school to a to a bank, for erasing ink from paper and parchment; and to every housewife for cleansing stains from linens and laces. IT IS ENDORSED BY EVERY ONE who sees it.

DIRECTIONS.—To remove ink from paper and parchment, dip the end of the penholder into the bottle and apply, WHITHOUT RUBBING When the ink has disappeared, absorb the fluid with a blotter.

When the ink has been written for years, it may be necessary to make two or three applications of the eraser, and each time not failing to absorb the fluid with blotting paper, before applying afresh, as the vitality of the liquid rapidly evaporates; for this reason the bottle must be kept corked.

To remove stains from Laces, etc., dip the stained part into the fluid, then rinse in clean water.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—This theatre presented a brilliant appearance last night, being thronged with fashionably dressed ladies and gentlemen on the occasion of the farewell benefit of J. H. Milburn, the favorite character vocalist. The beneficiary surpassed himself, singing song after song in a style which drew hearty applause. Billy Emerson convulsed the audience by his wonderfully comical burlesque version of Milburn's songs, and altogether one of the best entertainments of the season was given. To-night the great Billy Emerson, the most popular minstrel in the profession, will take his farewell benefit, when the same excellent programme will be performed. On this occasion the Alhambra Theatre will not be able to hold half the people who would like to be present; so all who wish to see the last of this great troupe had better go to the matinee to-day with the ladies. To-morrow night the Emersons will take a farewell of the scene of their many triumphs, and will start out next week to gain new laurels in cities in the East, where they will outshine all rivals.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—"The Veteran," with its amusing situations, fine scenery and startling denouement, will be presented at the matinee to-day, and again this evening, with Chas. Wheatleigh in the role of Leon Delmar. On Monday Miss Laura Honey will commence an engagement in a sensational drama entitled "Lily Aroon," in which she achieved a great success in the East. She will be supported by Charles Wheatleigh and the full strength of the Metropolitan Theatre company. To-morrow evening last time of "The Veteran."

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—Manager McCullough had a bumper benefit last night. He gave a well-studied impersonation of Hamlet, drawing much applause, and being called out at the end of every act. Miss Carlotta Leclercq gave a delightful realization of the character of Ophelia, and all the parts were well filled. The ghost scene was well managed, and "Hamlet" last night was produced with all the modern improvements. At the matinee to-day "The School for Scandal" will be played, and this evening "Hamlet" will be presented once more.

BELLA UNION.—"King of the Merrows" with its fine scenery, good music and comica dances, has proved such a hit, that it will be presented to-night as the concluding feature of a capital Saturday night's bill. Miss Jennie Johnson will make her first appearance at this theatre since her return from the East, many new acts will be produced, a beautiful new chorus entitled "May-fly arranged for the first part, by E. Zimmer, will be sung, and altogether a capital performance will be given.

NEW AMERICAN THEATRE.—Crowds flock to this bright little theatre on Saturday night, and the numerous artists comprising the company just "throw themselves" to give a rattling performance and keep the fun alive. To-night Miss May Leroy, the favorite danseuse, will make her first appearance.

SAN FRANCISCO CIRCUS AND HIPODROME. At the matinee at half-past two o'clock to-day, and again this evening, a splendid arenic performance will be given by the talented and versatile Matthews Family, the lithe and graceful Omar Kingsley, the juvenile wonder, Master Johnny Cooke, the king-pin of gymnasts, Worland, the most graceful tight-rope dancer, M'lle Laurina Matthews, and many others. The entertainment concludes with the pantomime of "Jack, the Giant Killer," in which that comical little genius, Master Willie Mathews, causes immense fun.

PLATT'S MUSIC HALL.—The very pleasing entertainments given by the Berger Family and that prince of humorists, Sol Smith Russell, have drawn good houses throughout the week. One proof of the excellence of the programme is afforded by the fact that the audiences which have attended every evening, have remained seated until the close of the performance, waiting until the last notes of the quickstep by the cornet band, which concludes the programme, have died away before moving from their seats. There is but one verdict concering the entertainment that is "excellent," as to Sol Smith Russell, he can make people laugh more often than any other man in a similar line. There will be a matinee to-day at 2 o'clock.

GRAND PICNIC OF THE ORDER S. W. M.—The Feridon and Occidental Conclaves, Order of Heptasophs, intend having a big time at their picnic at the City Gardens on Sunday next. There will be a Skating Carnival led by Callie Curtis and Cyrus True; magical and sleight-of-hand exhibition by Herr Schlam; dancing in the Pavilion; a gold watch and other prizes for the winners of the out-door games and races, and in the evening a grand concert in the new Music Hall, by amateur artists and a band of twenty instrumentalists. There will also be fireworks on the lake and a ball after the concert. As the tickets to the whole are but 50 cents, doubtless thousands will visit the Gardens on Sunday.

CITY GARDENS.—Rare doings at this resort. The picnic of the Feridon and Occidental Conclaves, Order of Heptasophs, will be held in these Gardens to-morrow. A very attractive series of entertainments will be presented for the occasion, as will be seen by referring to their programme, which is advertised in FIGARO only, by the way.

CAPT. BADGER'S CENTRAL PARK, OAKLAND. —Great improvements have been made in these beautiful grounds and additions are constantly being made to the menagerie; a camel is the latest! On Sunday next a concert will be given in the pavilion by the wonderful baby violinist, the Child Americus, Mr. and Mrs. Coriell, Professor Speight and J. H. Stout. The Child Americus is a perfect marvel and is well worth hearing. Four bits covers the expense of a trip in the country, by boat and cars and return, admission to the Park and all amusement, and the concert in the Pavilion Many will take this occasion to visit the Grand Central Park, the most beautiful pleasure garden on the Pacific Coast.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—The season for visits to the sea side may now be said to have fairly commenced and the Cliff House road presents a lively appearance crowded with fast teamsom their way to Captain Foster's ne plus ultra of hostelries, Such dinners, such wines, such cigars! The delights of a trip to the Cliff House are indescribable and after enjoying it, one seems to have gained a new lease of life.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

ROUTE OF THE EMERSON CALIFORNIA MINSTRELS.—This popular troupe, which has played to unprecedentedly good business so long in this city, will take its departure for the East on Monday morning, and will perform at the following cities on the dates set down, between this and September 2d, when they will commence their Fall season in New York City. Manager Maguire will accompany the troupe East to take charge of affairs in person. The route laid out takes in the best show cities in the Union, and we feel assured that the trip will be a most successful and triumphant one, both financially and professionally. They will perform at—

SIMMONS & SLOCUM'S MINSTRES.—On Monday, Simmons & Slocum's Minstrels, from Philadelpdia, of whom we hear great accounts, and of whom many of our Eastern exchanges do not hesitate to pronounce the best variety company in that part of the world, will commence an engagement at the Alhambra Theatre. The company comprises such renowned performers as Lew Simmons, E. Slocum, Billy Sweatman, Eddie Fox, Justin Robinson, John Crosher, W. Welch, J. Rice, Joseph Nerrie, C. Stevenson, W. Hamilton, Mast. Donald Harold, and others, who will appearin conjunction with the San Francisco favorites, J. G. Russell, Sheridan and Mack, Sam Rickey, and Add Ryman. The new company will arrive to-morrow night.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SAN JOSE.—The Fakir of Oola is to give an entertainment at the Opera House to-night.

PORTLAND, OR.—Marshall & Co's Great Tycoon Troupe of Japs opened at Oro Fino Theatre on the 21st .....Anna Mehlig is to give concerts, a subscription list having been formed. The Oregonian quotes FIGARO's endorsement of this artiste and credits it to "a San Francisco exchange," thus depriving it of its value, as the Portlanders may fancy it came from one of the big, stupid dailies, whose critics know as much about music as they do about English grammar. If the Oregonian does such a thing again we'll cut it off our X list.

OAKLAND.—Miss Anna Mehlig gave a concert at Brayton Hall on Tuesday.....To-morrow the wonderful little violinist "Americus," Master James Speight, will give a concert in the Pavilion at Captain Badger's Grand Central Park, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coriell, Prof. Speight and J. H. Stout. The admission to the grounds and all the amusements, including the concert, will be 25 cents. Those who did not care to hear this musical wonder when they had to pay a dollar for so doing, will not fail to do so now they enjoy his wonderful performances, a fine concert and all the amusements in Grand Central Park for two bits, and get there and back for another two bits.

VIRGINIA CITY, NEV.—The Zavistowski Sisters supported by Miss Henrietta Granger, W. C. Crosbie, and others whose names we mentioned last Saturday, opened at Piper's Opera House in "Ixion" on Wednesday. On the 30th, Maguire and Emerson's Minstrels will open under canvas on a lot on North C street.

MARYSVILLE.—McEvoy's Hibernicon showed at the Theatre last night and will be exhibited again this afternoon and evening.

PLACERVILLE. The Crystal Palace Circus showed on Tuesday.

PIOCHE, NEV.—The Pioche Theatre is still open with Miss Josephine, Miss Maggie Brewer, Ella La Rue and others, Charley Vincent and Amelia Dean's Variety Troupe are announced to appear shortly.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand, Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. o

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Carville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

The dramatic news from the Eastern States does not comprise many items of interest, we therefore the more willingly give up the greater portion of our space, under the present pressure of advertisements, to an interesting letter from Australia, compressing our Eastern news into very small compass

In New York at latest dates "Richard III" still held the boards at Booth's ....."London Assurance" was still running at Wallack's. The pieces to follow, if it should not run to the end of the season, will be Robertson's "Home," with Lester Wallack as the hero, followed by "The Critic," with Charles Mathews as Puff.....At Wood's Museum, on the 6th, Mariett a Ravel made her appearance in the lively drama of "The French Spy," to a large house, which has been succeeded by equally good audiences. The N. Y. Mercury says: "Miss Ravel is young, rosy and plump. She is a well-trained dancer and an exceilent pantomimist."..... Still "Humpty Dumpty" at the Olympic. .....A new fairy extravaganza "The Gold Demon" at Lina Edwin's.....At the Fifth Avenue, "Article 47."..... W. J. The Clipper says:

Joseph Proctor, the manager of the theatre at Sacramento, Cal., arrived in the city during the past week and will remain a few days to arrange for the production of "The Red Pocketbook," a sensational drama which made a success on its quite recent production in San Francisco.

A meeting of the chorus singers of the Italian German, and English opera, was held at Dramatic Hall, on May 8th, some thirty-six persons being present. The object of the meeting being to form a protective association, and, the following gentlemen were elected a committee to perfect the organization: Philip Schloesser, H. Piperino, and H. Cauldwell. An attempt is being made to reduce their salaries to $20 per week, while they will take measures to enforce their own rate—$40 per week.

Lawrence Barrett was in New York on the 16th On the occasion of the complimentary benefit recently, he was presented with a gold-headed cane, a clock, a pair of vases and a cigar case. All are described as rich and handsome gifts. The cane was a token from the citizens of New Orleans; the other souvenirs came from members of Mr. Barrett's theatrical company.

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURing the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of teams and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money with intention to the feeling of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machines, while they could at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines; for they feel absolutely certain that however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, or the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a fair confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of procedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement, and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machine in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock stitch machines were really best adapted for family use

The kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, at the rooms of New York. The large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numb red separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 87, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $8 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $11 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$33 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful machines, for which they dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a second-hand auction room. They will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances It is all very well to say "sic transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing in their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mass. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the bravest and most dashing rangers pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the ingenuity which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune Apr. 18.

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the Saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant.

LETTER FROM AUSTRALIA.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

MELBOURNE, April 8th, 1872.

DEAR FIGARO:—It is with sincere pleasure I have to record the fact that postal communication between the United States and these Colonies has at last been placed upon a satisfactory footing. The negotiations which have already been agreed on by our Chief Secretary, Mr. Chas. Gavan Duffy, on the part of Victoria, by the Hon. Julius Vogel on the part of New Zealand, and by Mr. Webb (who, personally visited us on this business), was almost certain to receive the unanimous approval of the local Legislatures. The principal event in the history of the drama in Australia has been the

TOTAL DESTRUCTION OF THE THEATRE ROYAL

By fire. This sad catastrophe took place on the morning of Wednesday, March 27th. The previous night's performance had consisted of "Streets of New York" and a short farce; and it is generally believed, though denied on authority, that sparks which were flying about in the "sensation scene" in the first-named play had caught some portion of the stage and had smouldered. The destruction of this temple of the drama is complete, all traces of the interior being entirely swept away. The writer of these lines was one of the few now in Melbourne who were present on its opening night, July 16, 1855, when the glorious old comedy, "The School for Scandal," was performed, with Mrs Chas. Poole, Mrs Phillips, G. B. Rogers and other favorites who delighted us, and the late Charles Poole (stage manager) read the opening address, written by Mr. Akhurst; and now, on the night of the 17th of March, 1872, a last farewell was taken of the old playhouse—a heap of charred ruins. It is seventeen years since it was first opened, and in that time almost every actor or actress of note who has visited Australia, with the exception of Mrs. Charles Kean, has figured on its boards. What crowds of names does memory conjure up! G. V. Brooke, Jefferson, Lambert, Barry Sullivan, Chas. Dillon, Sir William and Lady Don, Chas. Vincent, Miss Cleveland, Mrs Glads tone, Madame Celeste, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Mathews, Miss Avonia Jones, Mme. Anna Bishop, "et hoc genus omne." The house has undergone many vicissitudes, but has always proved a mine of wealth to competent managers. Although these old associations are fondly remembered, the destruction of the house is not to be especially regretted save for the losses sustained by Mr Coppin and the members of the company. It was undrained, badly ventilated, and the means of egress were entirely insufficient. In reference to its rebuilding nothing is yet definitely known, but it is quite certain that the Government and the Corporation would never permit its re-erection on the old principles. Mr. Coppin is a loser to the extent of some three thousand pounds besides having paid the rent to the end of his term in July next. It is stated that the owners of the ground decline to sell outright, but are prepared to grant a liberal lease for twenty-one years—a time much too short to tempt any person to build an elegant and expensive theatre necessitating an expenditure of between thirty and forty thousand pounds. Mr. Coppin, however, did not let the grass grow under his feet. He set to work and arranged a most original cricket match on the Melbourne ground, played by the members of the Royal company, each in character, in which he himself appeared and wielded the willow as Paul Pry. Mr Carden assumed the character of Enoch Arden, and made the highest score in the match. It was a genuine success, yielding to the funds nearly £2 0. The lease of Weston's Opera House, now favorably known as

ST. GEORGE'S HALL,

Which Mr Coppin had held for some time, having expired, with characteristic pluck and determination he obtained a renewal, and opened on Monday week after the fire with the Royal company in "The Serpents on the Hearth" and the burlesque of "Camaralzaman and Badoura." The performances have met with considerable support, though I think the company too large for so small an establishment. It is just possible that a detachment will shortly make a tour through the provinces.

THE FUTURE OF THE DRAMA

In Australia is gloomy in the extreme. Here in Melbourne we have two theatres in ruins from fire—the Royal and the Haymarket—and the Princess Opera House given over for some months to come to lyrical performances. The Varieties was not built for a theatre, and the old Queen's is still as a tract repository. In Sydney the Prince of Wales's is a mass of charred ruins, and the other playhouses are hardly worth opening. Our provincial theatres will pay to open by fits and starts, and then only with some very attractive novelty.

THE PRINCESS OPERA HOUSE

Was opened on Easter Monday by Messrs. Williams, Lyster, Hennings & Stewart, for a short season of Offenbach's opera bouffe. "Orphee aux Enfers" was the initial performance, and was well rendered by Lyster's English opera company, including Miss Alice May, Miss Georgia Hodson Miss Percy Haydon, Miss Maggie Stewart and Miss Nelly Stewart. Messrs. Armes Beaumont, Charles Lascelles, J. F. Hitts, Johnson T. Ranford and Richard Stewart. It has been a great success, the scenery by Mr. Hennings, being some of the best he has ever painted. The next production will be "Barbe Bleue," and after a short dramatic season by the Gladstone Company, the

EAGLE ITALIAN OPERA COMPANY

Will take possession of the boards with a new prima donna, Signora Bosisio, from Calcutta, and will continue until July, when a new dramatic season will be inaugurated, and with some pretensions, by Messrs. Stuart, O'Brien & Holmes, who have leased the theatre from Mr. Lyster for a long term, subject to opera seasons to be amicably arranged.

MRS. MARY GLADSTANE

Has deservedly obtained a most unqualified success during her late inter-colonial tour. In Tasmania, which is generally considered the "deadly Hollow" for the drama, her season has been the finest on record in that colony. On her return to Melbourne Mr. Bagness, on her behalf, generously offered her services and those of her company to assist at a series of performances which were being given at the Princess Opera House in aid of the fund for the sufferers by the late fire at the Royal. For some reason or another the offer was not accepted, but it still redounds to the credit of that lady and company that so liberal and spontaneous an offer was made. This talented lady is now performing a season at Ballarat with every prospect of a beneficial season. On its conclusion

MR. JAMES CARDEN

Will join her as leading actor, and will accompany her on her tour through New Zealand, and, if it is possible, arrangements will be made by which he will visit Great Britain with her early next year. Mr. Carden's success in this city has been a most gratifying one. His first part, France, in "Enoch Arden," was a most scholarly one and showed him an excellent exponent of blank verse. In the "Streets of New York," as Badger, he "had" his audience. His impersonation was vivacious and artistic to the highest degree, while his sarcastic and Captain Murphy Maguire, stamped him as an appearances as Ruy Gomez, Myles na Coppaleen artist of no mean talent and one who but for the unfortunate fire at the Royal would have made himself a lasting favorite with the Melbourne playgoers.

ENDERBY JACKSON'S COMIQUE TROUPE,

consisting of Miss Lizzie Watson a really clever serio-comic singer; Harry Rickards, comic; Mr. Ramsden, tenor; and Miss Carrie Rickards, have been since Xmas doing a tremendous business at George's Hall, are now in the Provinces and have just woke up the Geelongese to one of the best "shows" we have ever had in the Colony.

Terrapin Stews

THE GREAT

Lightning Ink Eraser!

Patented by Mr. J. W. Talmadge, Jan. 16, 1872.

For the use of lawyers, merchants, bookkeepers, clerks, and the writing community in general; to be used instead of a knife or scraper for erasing ink from paper and parchment, in order to instantly rectify a mistake or clean off a blot, without any injury whatever to the printer's ink upon any printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bill-head or ruling upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, and leaving the paper or parchment clean and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the aid of this valuable and useful article you rectify a mistake or blot without taking the penholder from your hand; it is done in an instant, and the paper is ready to write upon again. The old way of scratching the ink not only takes out the ruling, but spoils the surface of the paper, and the ink will spread and blot when written over again; and, in case of blot upon any printed form you cannot scratch it off without spoiling your form, if it is done with a knife or scraper. It also removes stains made by ink, fruit, iron-rust, etc., from cotton, linen, and the finest laces, without the least injury to any goods that water will not injure; therefore it is invaluable to all, from a school to a to a bank, for erasing ink from paper and parchment; and to every housewife for cleansing stains from linens and laces. IT IS ENDORSED BY EVERY ONE who sees it.

DIRECTIONS.—To remove ink from paper and parchment, dip the end of the penholder into the bottle and apply, WITHOUT RUBBING. When the ink has disappeared, absorb the fluid with a blotter.

When the ink has been written for years, it may be necessary to make two or three applications of the eraser, and each time not failing to absorb the fluid with blotting paper, before applying afresh, as the vitality of the liquid rapidly evaporates; for this reason the bottle must be kept corked.

To remove stains from Laces, etc., dip the stained part into the fluid, then rinse in clean water.

For sale by all Stationers and Druggists in town and country. Price 50 cents per bottle.

THE GREAT

Lightning Ink Eraser!

Patented by Mr. J. W. Talmadge, Jan. 16, 1872.

For the use of lawyers, merchants, bookkeepers, clerks, and the writing community in general; to be used instead of a lancet or scraper for erasing ink from paper and parchment; in order to instantly rectify a mistake or clean off a blot, without any injury whatever to the printed or ink upon any printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bill head or ruling upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, and leaving the paper or parchment clean and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the aid of this valuable and useful article you rectify a mistake or blot without taking the penholder from your hand; it is done in an instant, and the paper is ready to write upon again. The old way of scratching the ink not only takes out the ruling, but spoils the surface of the paper, and the ink will spread and blot when written over again; and, in case of blot upon any printed form you cannot scratch it off without spoiling your form, if it is done with a knife or scraper. It also removes stains made by ink, fruit, iron-rust, etc., from cotton, linen, and the finest laces, without the least injury to any goods that water will not injure; therefore it is invaluable to all, from a school to a bank, for erasing ink from paper and parchment and to every housewife for cleansing stains from linens and laces. IT IS ENDORSED BY EVERY ONE [illegible].

DIRECTIONS.—To remove ink from paper and parchment, dip the end of the penholder into the bottle and apply, WITHOUT RUBBING. When the ink has disappeared, absorb the fluid with a blotter.

When the ink has been written for years, it may be necessary to make two or three applications of the eraser, and each time not failing to absorb the fluid with blotting paper, before applying afresh, as the vitality of the liquid rapidly evaporates; for this reason the bottle must be kept corked.

To remove stains from Laces, etc., dip the stained part into the fluid, then rinse in clean water.

☞For sale by all Stationers and Druggists in town and country. Price 50 cents per bottle.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

The Alhambra.

To-night, Simmons & Slocum's famous band of minstrels will make their first appearance before a California audience. A great programme will be performed. It will commence with an attractive first part, in which new sentimental ballads and comic songs will be sung. After this will come a second part, in which Billy Sweetnam will sing ballads; Wm. Welch and J. Rice will appear in the negro extravaganza entitled "Fat and Thin;" Eddie Fox will give imitations on the violin of a pig, a pump, an old lady and child, etc. E. N. Slocum's sketch entitled "Reunited" will be presented by himself; Lew Simmons and Billy Sweetnam, Sheridan and Mack, will appear in character sketches, and the farce of "Flirtation," in which Justin Robinson will appear as Sophie Alvis, will conclude the evening's entertainment.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night the sensational drama entitled "Lilly Aroon," which has been played in the East with success, will be produced, and Miss Laura Honey, comedienne and vocalist, will make her first appearance in California, supported by Chas. Wheatleigh, W. J. Coggswell, Miss Maggie Moore, T. E. Jackson, and the full strength of the Metropolitan Theatre company. In the second act there is a great sensation scene, a leap for life across a waterfall. During the piece Miss Honey will sing several ballads. The play has been put on the stage with the greatest care, and everything will be done to make it a great success.

California Theatre.

"Hamlet" was played to another good house on Saturday night. Of John McCullough's Hamlet and Miss Leclercq's Ophelia we have already spoken; a word of commendation is due to E. J. Buckley for his really admirable conception of the character of Horatio. This character as generally played is very tame and uninteresting. Mr. Buckley on Saturday night made Horatio a manly fellow with an idea or two of his own. To-night the delightful comedy of "As You Like It," with its splendid acting, beautiful scenery, and charming choruses, will be presented once more, and to-morrow night Miss Carlotta Leclercq will appear in her wonderful impersonation of Pauline in "The Lady of Lyons."

Bella Union.

The new bill is a brilliant success. Miss Jennie Johnson made her appearance on Saturday night and sang "You Know How it is Yourself," in a style which drew forth much applause; Johnny Tuers, who has recovered from his late severe accident, came out in song and dance; Susie Robinson and Tommy Barton in duets; Marie Zoel in a clog dance, other performers in various specialties, and the play of the "King of the Merrows" wound up the performance.

American Theatre.

G. H. Foster has made quite a hit in "Plantation Scenes Before the War," and is ably supported by Chris Mathews, Harry Dvoe and company. May Leroy, Claude Stuart and Maggie Kelly, H. Howard and many others will appear to-night in varied entertainment.

San Francisco Circus.

Hundreds were turned away on Saturday night, the rush to see the splendid performances of the Matthews Family, Omar Kingsley, Worland, Durow, Cooke, and the host of others, making up the brilliant coruscation of stars known as the San Francisco Circus Troupe, continuing unabated. An endorsement of their rare talents by an old circus frequenter appears in another column.

Platt's Music Hall.

The Berger Family, who delighted all who attended their very lively entertainment last week, will present an entirely new programme. Sol Smith Russell will introduce quite a number of characters whom he has met in his travels round the world, and sing new songs. There is not a moment's drag in the entertainment, the audience being amused and interested from the time the curtain rises until the close of the performance. This week is announced as the last, and Platt's Hall should be thronged every night.

City Gardens.

The picnic of the Feridon and Occidental Conclaves, Order of Heptasophs, was held in these Gardens yesterday. A very attractive series of entertainments was presented for the occasion, and the thousands present enjoyed themselves most heartily.

Capt. Badger's Grand Central Park, Oakland.

A large crowd of pleasure-seekers flocked to these delightful gardens yesterday, when a concert was given by the wonderful baby violinist Amerious, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coriell, J. H. Stout and others.

Knights of Pythias.

The second annual celebration and tournament of this large organization will come off at the City Gardens on Saturday next. We call attention to the programme of exercises, which will be published in FIGARO only. It's what may be denominated a "stunning" programme.

J. M. Hardie's Farewell Benefit.

This popular young actor intends embarking shortly for the East, and his friends have determined that he shall have a proper testimonial at his farewell benefit next Sunday evening at the Metropolitan Theatre, on which occasion an immense bill will be presented, including in the cast Manager McCullough, Henry Edwards, J. O. Williamson, Miss Rose Evans, from the California Theatre, and others who have volunteered. That benefit will be a success.

Maggie Mitchell.

This great artiste, famed the world over for her impersonation of Fanchon and other similar emotional characters, is now en route for this city and will arrive here on Thursday night. She will commence her engagement on Monday evening next at the Metropolitan Theatre, when the public of San Francisco may look forward to something indeed "sensational" in her wonderful personations. She has just concluded an engagement at the Boston Theatre. A late Boston Globe says of he Fanchon

Miss Maggie Mitchell has so long identified herself with the character and the nature of the weird little Cricket, that it still remains as fresh and as truthful a piece of acting as when she first created a furore in the past. It has been so often criticised, and is so well known, that aught we could say upon the subject would be merely repetition and supererogation. It is as charming as ever in its simplicity, its fire and its realism, and since we last saw it, has gained in re-

Presentation.

At the close of the season of the Emerson Minstrels, its members presented Manager Maguire with a superb diamond breast pin as a token of their admiration for his enterprise as a manager and friendship for him as a man. Billy Emerson was presented with a silver-mounted cane, a watch seal, and other testimonials, and Fayette Welch received a handsome amethyst ring.

Reports Progress.

Johnny Manning, who is now in the East for the purpose of engaging talent for Aline Le Favre's Varieties, to open next week, telegraphs that he has secured four of the brightest stars in the variety profession, and is in negotiation with others.

Miss Helen Tracy.

This actress, whose success in the East we have frequently chronicled, arrived here yesterday under engagement to the management of the California Theatre, where she will fill the position of leading lady. Miss Tracy comes here from Wallack's Theatre, New York, where she played for some time amidst a galaxy of stars Wallack, Brougham, Charles Mathews, and others.

Theatrical Amateurs.

The vitality of the theatrical amateur is something truly wonderful, says the London Era. In vain do we assure Tompkins that his voice has little more melody in it than is to be heard in the sharpening of a saw. In vain do we declare that Brown's face has no more expression than a peeled turnip; that Smith, whose legs are invisible, should never do the lover in tights; that Jones with his fat, round figure, broad face and goggle eyes, is not Shakspeare's Romeo; that Johnson, with his remarkable squeak, does not present the crook-backed Richard. Nothing depresses and disheartens the amateur. He has the adventurous spirit of a Livingstone the heroic nature of a Nelson, the patience of a Job, the subtlety of a Macchiavelli to compass this great end, which is to be seen and heard upon the stage. A moderate computation of the number of theatrical amateurs at the present moment would startle some non-theatrical readers. Perhaps we should not be far wrong in assuming that five thousand of these harmless lunatics are spouting, shouting, raving, giggling, and forgetting the language of the estimable authors every week, under the impression that they are doing themselves much credit, amusing their friends and advancing the drama. The very best actor that ever trod the stage must once have been an amateur, but the finding one born actor in the midst of a thousand amateurs is as hard as the proverbial finding a needle in a stack of hay.

A Great Chance.

All who have visited the FIGARO office have been struck by the gorgeous manner in which our editorial and reception rooms are fitted up, and have been loud in their expressions of admiration of the superb Brussells velvet pile carpet—pattern, forget-me-nots and lillies of the valley on a crimson ground; the furniture, California laurel and blue satin; the mirrors—but it must be seen to be appreciated. We have, however, felt for a long time past that there was something lacking. That something is an organ which might breathe sweet music to calm our distracted spirit and aid us to recover from our arduous editorial labors. Now we will have an organ. It is easy to get an organ, and we intend to do so. Simmons & Clough, organ builders, Detroit, Michigan, knowing that an organ is absolutely requisite to complete the appointments of every well-regulated newspaper office, have sent us a circular in which they make us an offer so tempting that we must perforce accept it. It we will buy one of their organs costing $200 to $500, they will take $100 in an advertisement in FIGARO. We shall send on the other $400 to-morrow and get one of the $500 organs. We don't know how we have done without it so long.

THE SEWING MACHINE.

A strange vibration from the cottage window
My vagrant steps delayed,
And half abstracted, like an ancient Hindoo,
I paused beneath the shade.

What is, I said, this unremitted humming,
Louder than bees in spring?
As unto prayer murmurous answer coming
Shed from Sandalphon's wing.

Is this the sound of unimpeded labor,
That now usurpeth play?
Our harsher substitute for pipe and tabor,
Ghittern and virelay?

Or, is it yearning for a higher vision,
By spiritual hearing heard?
Nearer I draw, to listen with precision,
Detecting not a word.

Then peering through the pane as men of sin do,
Myself the while unseen,
I marked a maiden seated by the window,
Sewing with a machine.

Her gentle foot propelled the tireless treadle,
Her gentle hand the seam:
My fancy said, it were a bliss to peddle
Those shirts, as in a dream!

Her lovely fingers lent to yoke and collar
Some imperceptible taste.
The rural swain, who buys it for a dollar,
By beauty is embraced.

O fairer aspect of the common mission!
Only the Poet sees
The true significance, the high position
Of such small things as, these.

Not now doth Toil, a brutal Boanerges,
Deform the maiden's hand;
Her implement its soft sonata merges
In songs of sea and land.

And thus the hum of the unspooling cotton,
Blent with her rythmic tread,
Shall still be heard, when virelays are forgotten
And troubadours are dead.

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Bonifacs of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURing the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the cruder chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise, to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines; for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of these machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, of the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of machines in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of them showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the whole. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 80, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 2 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 5 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good deal of philosophy to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "sic transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mass. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, when the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be found in the forward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune April 18.

"FIGARO" ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

Still we repeat FIGARO's motto, "Here, there and everywhere." We shall publish extra editions of FIGARO to the number of 100,000 copies to accompany Emerson's California Minstrels and be distributed in every city in the East in which they play—Salt Lake City, Omaha, Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, and others, right through to New York. A limited number of advertisements will be taken for his extra edition. They must be sent in immediately. The first edition will serve as the programme in Sacramento and Virginia City, Nev., and will be printed shortly.

Be Sensible.

Do not be above your business. He who turns up his nose at work quarrels with bread and butter. He is a poor smith who is afraid of his own sparks; there's some discomfort in all trades except chimney sweeping. If sailors gave up going to sea because of the wet; if bakers left off baking bread because it is hard work; if plowmen would not plow because of cold, and tailors would not make our clothes for fear of pricking their fingers, what a pass we should come to. Nonsense my fine fellow, there's no shame about any calling; don't be afraid of soiling your hands, there's plenty of soap to be had.

All trades are good to good traders. Lucifer matches pay well if you sell enough of them. You cannot get money if you are frightened at bees, nor plant corn if you are afraid of getting mud on your boots. When bars of iron melt under the south wind; when you can dig the fields with tooth picks; blow ships along with fans, manure the crops with lavender water, and grow plum cakes in flower pots, there will be a fine time for dandies; but until the millenium comes we shall have a deal to put up with.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Supper Parties.

A man eats breakfast because he is hungry; too often he hurries over his dinner, but supper he enjoys. All enjoy a supper at the BIVALVE, 640 Market street, three doors below Kearny. There they find the comest little private rooms up-stairs, the finest oysters and the best of everything. W. Spreen started the BIVALVE seven years ago, and it is to-day the most popular oyster house in San Francisco.

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

Very True.

The Alameda County Gazette, one of our brightest country exchanges, truthfully remarks:

Since Bierce left the News Letter the Town Crier's department of that paper has sadly degenerated. Bierce's wit was pungent, his sarcasm keen, and he dissected a person in an artistic manner, without haggling and mutilating the remains. As a Knight of the Quill he was bold, brilliant, and terrible, and few could cope with him successfully. The gentleman who succeeded him as Town Crier essays to ape without possessing one of the qualities which distinguished Bierce. And what a mess he makes of it! His witticisms are fit only for a brothel, where one would naturally imagine they were conceived. Where Bierce wielded a rapier his imitator swings a stuffed club. The only redeeming feature of the present Town Crier department is its brevity. If it were entirely omitted the improvement would be marked. Oh that Bierce would again shed the light of his countenance over the afflicted readers of the News Letter!

Not long ago we succeeded in entirely shutting up the Alta's "Poet's Corner," in which local poetasters used to exhibit their idiotic effusions, we have strong hopes that we shall be able in a week or two to squelch the "Town Crier," which has lately been grossly indecent as well as stupid.

Grief and Grammar.

One of the privileges of grief is to ignore grammar. How seldom does grief express itself grammatically. An ungrammatical inscription on the tombstone of Lindley Murray, though it might shock, would scarcely astonish us. The people who write obituary notices feel safe from criticism; they know that no one is brute enough to find fault with their blundering attempts. It is not right to criticise tomb-stones, epitaphs, obituary notices or funeral sermons. If it were the quality of these last sad tributes would be considerably improved.

Rock Me to Sleep.

A drunk was staggering along singing the top of his voice, "Rock me to sleep mother, rock me to sleep," when suddenly a voice from the other side of the street startled him by exclaiming, "I don't know about rocking you to sleep, but I'll stone you to death if you don't dry up."

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in that celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for by years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

THE LATEST INVENTION

THE GREAT

Lightning Ink Eraser!

Patented by Mr. J. W. Talmadge, Jan. 16, 1872.

For the use of lawyers, merchants, bookkeepers, clerks, and the writing community in general; to be used instead of a knife or scraper for erasing ink from paper and parchment, to order to instantly rectify a mistake or clean off a blot, without any injury whatever to the printed ink upon any printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bill head or ruling upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, as leaving the paper or parchment clean and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the aid of this valuable and useful article you rectify a mistake or blot without taking the pen out of your hand; it is done in an instant, and the paper is ready to write upon again. The old way of scratching the ink not only takes out the ruling, but spoils the surface of the paper, and the ink will spread and blot when written over again; and, in case of blot upon any printed form you cannot scratch it off without spoiling your form, if it is done with a knife or scraper. It also removes stains made by ink, fruit, iron-rust, etc., from cotton, linen, and the finest laces, without the least injury to any goods that water will not injure; therefore it is invaluable to all, from a school to a bank, for erasing ink from paper and parchment; and to every housewife for cleansing stains from linens and laces. IT IS INDORSED BY EVERY ONE who sees it.

DIRECTIONS.—To remove ink from paper and parchment, dip the end of the penholder into the bottle and apply, WITHOUT RUBBING. When the ink has disappeared, absorb the fluid with a blotter.

When the ink has been written for years, it may be necessary to make two or three applications of the eraser, and each time not failing to absorb the fluid with blotting paper, before applying afresh, as the vitality of the liquid rapidly evaporates; for this reason the bottle must be kept corked.

To remove stains from Laces, etc., dip the stained part into the fluid, then rinse in clean water.

☞ For sale by all Stationers and Druggists in town and country. Price 50 cents per bottle.

The Alhambra.

This house was thronged last night, when Simmons & Slocum's Minstrels made their first appearance. No less than eighteen vocal and instrumental performers appeared in the first part, and it was soon apparent that this portion of the performance was henceforth to be made a distinctive feature in the entertainment. It was to the beautiful singing of ballads and choruses that the Original Christy's owed their popularity, and the delightful harmony produced by the new minstrel band at the Alhambra Theatre will have the effect of drawing a vast number for whom mere fun would have no attractions. Master Donald Harold has a voice of remarkable sweetness. J. G. Russell's rich baritone was heard to advantage in "Home by the Sea," and J. H. Murphy's song, "Darling Little Daisy," drew great applause. The end-men, Lew Simmons and Billy Sweatnam are sharp, bright and lively, and E. N. Slocum is a capital interlocutor. The comic ballads of Billy Sweatnam and Lew Simmons in this part of the entertainment were encored again and again, and their witticisms caused roars of laughter. W. Welch and J. Rice made a great hit in a grotesque song and dance entitled "Fat and Thin," and were repeatedly encored. Billy Sweatnam sang a ballad in a most original style and kept the audience continually laughing while he was on the stage; Eddy Fox is a fine performer on the violin and seems to be able to do anything he pleases with that instrument, making it sing, talk, and imitate animals in a surprising manner. E. N. Slocum's sketch entitled "Reunited; or, the Surprise," is one of the funniest pieces ever seen, and he, Lew Simmons, and Billy Sweatnam made the audience laugh until their sides ached; Sheridan and Mack followed in their Dutch songs and the performance concluded with "Flirtation," in which Justin Robinson gave a very clever female impersonation as Sophie Alvis, and Billy Sweatnam, Joseph Norrie, W. Welch, O. Stevens, J. Rice, and others caused great fun as her lovers. Altogether the first performance of Simmons & Slocums' Minstrels was a great success, and at once established the troupe in the good graces of the San Francisco public.

Metropolitan Theatre.

A large audience assembled last night to witness the production of the play of "Lilly Aroon," and the first appearance in California of Miss Laura Honey. The play has good sensation scenes, some of which did not work as well last night as could be wished. To-night everything will go smoothly, Miss Honey has a good school of acting and is a fine vocalist. In the course of the play she sang several ballads, which were much applauded. Charles Wheatleigh as Alexander Trot, a timid Englishman, caused considerable amusement, and Miss Maggie Moore and T. E. Jackson in their respective characters of Peggy and John Short, kept the fun alive all the time they were on the stage. Miss Lizzie Ingles, who made her first appearance in San Francisco as Grace Addersly, had a very ungracious part to perform, but proved herself a graceful and pleasing actress. "Lilly Aroon" will be played again to-night. On Friday evening Charles Wheatleigh will take his farewell benefit.

California Theatre.

"As You Like It" was splendidly played last night, and all present were delighted with Miss Carlotta Leclercq's impersonation of Rosalind. To-night "The Lady of Lyons" will be performed. No one who has not seen Miss Carlotta Leclercq as Pauline can have any idea of how much the character is capable. Those who go to the California Theatre to-night will enjoy a great treat.

Bella Union.

The entertainment given at this house presents immense variety and the audience are kept continually amused. Miss Jennie Johnson's comic songs are very popular; Lon McCarty and Miss Carrie Chapman cause much fun in their capital act of "How Far is it to the Next Ranch?" Johnny Thare is immense in song and dance; Tommy Barton's comicalities are very amusing, and "The King of the Merrows" concludes an entertainment hard to beat.

American Theatre.

The management of this lively place of amusement are bringing together in one company a great number of popular favorites. The latest addition to the company is Miss Fanny Webster, the popular comic vocalist.

San Francisco Circus.

Every night the people pour into the circus in crowds, and the comfortably arranged circle of seats, presents a gay appearance filled with fashionably dressed ladies and gentlemen. All who are in the habit of going to circuses go to this, and many are going who never went before, for this is no common circus. The Mathews Family and all the other great stars of the arena will appear to-night. To-morrow there will be a matinee performance at half-past 2 o'clock, and to-morrow night, the great Jem Mace, the champion of England and America, will appear in his famous Statue Acts, and exhibit his trophies, his English and American belts, and numerous vases and cups, including the mammoth gold one presented to him by the Prince of Wales. The tent won't hold half the people who want to be present on that occasion.

Platt's Music Hall.

The new programme presented last night by the Berger Family and Sol Smith Russell was quite a success. Miss Anna Berger performed some beautiful selections on the cornet; Miss Ettie Berger appeared in several attractive performances; Miss Nellie Knapp sang pleasing ballads, numerous other features in the programme called forth loud applause, and Sol Smith Russell sent the audience into fits of laughter by his impersonation of Dorcas Pennyroyal and a recital of the troubles he had with her numerous lovers.

City Gardens.

These Gardens will be the scene of many pleasant gatherings during the next two weeks. Next Saturday the Knights of Pythias will hold a grand tournament there; the full programme appears in another column. On Sunday the Emmet Guard will have their annual picnic, and on Sunday and Monday, June 9th and 10th, the Miners of '49 will give a grand entertainment illustrative of early life in California. Their programme also appears in full in FIGARO.

Knights of Pythias.

The second annual celebration and tournament of this large organization will come off at the City Gardens on Saturday next. We call attention to the programme of exercises, which will be published in full in FIGARO.

Highly Imaginative.

The Nebraska City News of April 27 has the distressing announcement that Miss Sass', while lately dancing with a boa-constrictor, eighteen feet long, in the "Black Crook," at Niblo's, was crushed to to death. To use the words of the writer: "with the immense pressure of its spiny form it crushed her ribs and made every bone crackle like thorns under a pot. The blood spurted from her eyes, mouth and all was over. A rush was made, and the tridents, property spears, and theatrical swords, a general assault was made upon the monster. The curtain was lowered and the brute had to be literally hacked to pieces before it would relax its hold. The beautiful girl was dead, and the exhibition of such monstrosities effactually put to an end." Miss Sassi's appetite, nevertheless, remains remarkably healthy to this moment. Considering the snake was four feet long, and though harmless, was tightly muzzled, the above romance has merit.

Rather in His Favor.

The Chronicle quotes against Greeley his remark: "Good government is not that which governs the most, but that which governs the least." Other wise men hold this opinion, and Greeley's having expressed it is not likely to lose him many votes in California where we think once in two years often enough for the Legislature to sit, and wouldn't object if the session were held only once in five years.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco, HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in that celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases brought under his care. SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURing the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines; for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, or the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have won easily. The latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above —so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 89, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for the Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstance. It is all very well to say "e o transit glor a mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mass. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy pleasure in recounting to each other their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Are All Men Liars?

David tells us that he was hasty in asserting that all men were liars, but he might have said deliberately, observes the Saturday Review, that most men are either liars or the unconscious accomplices of liars. The quantity of sheer, unmixed lying which exists in this world is, we suspect, greatly under-estimated by most people; and of the quantity of false statement which is not quite lying, because it begins by a self-deception, few persons have even a faint conception. The reason of this seems simple enough. For practical purposes we are obliged to assume that people speak the truth. A certain quantity of mutual trust is necessary in order to carry on the business of life, and we naturally make the mistake of confounding a provisional assumption, which for ordinary purposes, is accurate enough, with a statement of actual facts, and then apply it to cases where it is more frequently falsified than verified. We infer from the practical necessity of trusting people in trifles they are always trustworthy in serious matters; and thus we exaggerate beyond all bounds the weight which should properly be attached to a simple unsupported assertion. If a respectable person—that is to say, a man in a black coat who has not been convicted of pocket-picking—tells us the wild story of ghosts or rapping tables, the one hypothesis which the ordinary mind altogether refuses to admit is the surely not inconceivible one that he is a liar and cheat. It is thought to be almost paradoxical to assert that any one, outside of the criminal, is ever guilty of downright falsehood. The weakness is certainly amiable; and yet it may fairly be doubted whether a capacity to tell the truth and nothing but the truth is not as rare as the habit of unequivocal lying.

A Timely Present.

At this festive season, a dozen of Squarza's exquisitely flavored punches form a most appropriate present. The egg nog punch saves a great deal of trouble, and is compounded with great skill. His famous symposium is at 20 Liedesdorff, and is presided over by A. Bona, his worthy successor. U

The Occidental Restaurant.

This old established restaurant is one of the best known in San Francisco. It is famed for its excellent cooking, attentive waiters and general good management. It is situated on Washington street, No. 536, a few doors below Montgomery. H. Burmeisted, the proprietor has at the request of many customers fitted up a half dozen of rooms over the restaurant in elegant style, and henceforth these will be open for family and supper parties until 12 o'clock M. Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experiences, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

The Circus.

DEAR FIGARO:—Without desiring to trench upon your valuable space, I hope that a veteran amusement seeker may be permitted to express his convictions through the medium of the universally recognized organ of popular entertainments. Time was, when dramatic actors and actresses held a very low place in public estimation; when the laws of England denounced them as "vagabonds" subject to be cast in jail and made amenable to like penalties that are visited upon vagrants in our time; but similar odium was never attached to circus performers, who, from the days of the Olympian games up to the present period have been regarded with popular favor. The glorious Colosseum of Rome was a Circus, and the chariot races and other ring sports of the Greeks were conducted in the same style of action, over which the gods were supposed to preside, the victors were crowned with laurels and oaken chaplets as testimonials of exceeding merit. Virgil, Homer and other classic writers, have given vivid descriptions of circus performances, which were the chosen amusements of Kings and Emperors. With the subsidence of Greek and Roman mythology the circus underwent a decline, gradually losing caste until rescued from a long period of popular neglect by the genius, enterprise and determination of a few leading minds within the past forty years. It is now once more restored to something like its original popularity and has become a favorite resort for the most intelligent and refined, as well as the less exacting. I have been a frequent visitor to the sterling recreations provided by Welch, Mann, Rockwell, Dan Rice, Chiarini, and others of equal note. I remember well when Mons. Letort was imported from the Cirque Olympique, Paris, to do the first good bareback riding in the United States. I recall with pleasure the graceful acts of Stickney, and have witnessed the performances of the best troupes ever collected on American soil. Therefore I consider myself a good judge of circus talent. The arrival of John Wilson's company naturally excited my curiosity, and a desire to compare it with its predecessors. Wilson is a veteran caterer and a sound judge of arenic talent. His last effort, however, has been his best and most successful. The company now under his direction is by far the most complete that has ever visited the Pacific coast. The acts are all legitimate—independent of the adventitious aid derived from anacondas, fat women, or skeleton menageries. Mr. Kingsley's bare-back riding is of the first-class, rarely equalled in this or any other country. Worland's somersaults, and the one over steeds, are really wonderful, suggesting to the spectator the extreme perfection of acrobatic ability to which the human physique can be trained; nor is his wonder lessened upon beholding the surprising feats of Miss Laurina Matthews. With rare good taste the public is treated to the jokes and quips of three professional jesters, all of them good, the lad, Willie Matthews, exhibiting great precocity and much natural humor. In fact the whole of that family is talented. In no one feature is the interest permitted to fail. Each performer seems to have been selected with nice judgment, and sustains his or her part with manifest ability. In nine circuses out of ten the spectator is apt to find a few performers of merit are expected to do duty for the whole company: but it is quite otherwise in this case, the performances being even and well sustained throughout. The trapeze and horizontal bar acts are capitally done, the vaulting and tumbling excellent, and even the trick horses do their part with unusual ability, being probably the best in the world. Another notable feature is the care which Wilson has shown for the comfort and convenience of the public. A roomy, well laid and nicely arranged platform has been erected at considerable expense, and provided with commodious chairs so arranged that all can see and hear without difficulty. He has done himself great credit, and has shown a just appreciation of California audiences—the most exacting in the Union—providing them with much the best circus amusements ever offered in the country. That he will succeed, is beyond a peradventure, the large space being filled to repletion every evening.

Yours truly, SPECTATOR.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

The Alhambra.

Simmons & Slocums' champion minstrels drew another large house last night. The public have transferred their good opinion to the new-comers and one hears no regrets expressed at the departure of the Emerson party, excellent as it was. The public is fond of novelty and such artists as Lew Simmons, Billy Sweatnam, W. Welch, Eddie Fox, and others forming this great combination cannot fail to be popular in any city where they may appear. There is individuality in all that they do, and the first part sparkles with new puns and witticisms.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"The Colleen Bawn" will be produced at this theatre this evening with Charles Wheatleigh in the double characters of Miles-na-Coppaleen and Danny Mann. Mr. Wheatleigh's excellent personation of these characters is too well known to the public of San Francisco to need a word of comment from us. Miss Laura Honey will sustain the part of Eily O'Connor. Miss Henrietta Osborne that of Ann Chute; Miss Lizzie Ingles will play the proud Mrs. Cregan, and Miss Frank Rea, Old Sheelah. Friday evening Mr. Wheatleigh will take his farewell benefit. Saturday evening is set aside for the benefit of Miss Caroline Chapman. Sunday evening Mr. J. M. Hardie will take his farewell benefit.

California Theatre.

"The Lady of Lyons" was played last night. We have already expressed our opinion that Miss Carlotta Leclercq in the character of Pauline stands without a rival, and all who have seen her play it acknowledge such to be the case. To-night the fine play entitled "Plot and Passion," will be performed. On Friday evening Miss Leclercq will take her farewell benefit when she will appear as Julia in "The Hunchback," and Miss Helen Tracy will make her appearance in the character of Helen.

San Francisco Circus.

There is no end to the attractions at the San Francisco Circus. To-night the greatest novelty of all is offered in the engagement of Jem Mace, champion of England and America, who at Her Majesty's Theatre, London, at Niblo's Garden, and the Academy of Music, New York, proved one of the most popular stars of the day, drawing large and fashionable audiences to see his great impersonation of Roman and Grecian statues. Mace is a marvel of symetry and is acknowledged by sculptors to be the most perfectly formed man living. As will seen by reference to the programme on on our first page the performances of Mace are only one of the many features in a splendid and varied entertainment. There will be such a rush to-night as was never seen at a circus before.

Bella Union.

This evening Mlle Gaugain, premiera danseuse, who was so popular here several months ago, will make her reappearance at this house. Miss Ethe Stanley, the popular balladist, has also been re-engaged and will appear to-night. After an entertaining first part and rattling interlude, the fairy spectacle of "The Naiad Queen," embracing the the whole company in the cast, will conclude the performances. The Bella Union should be crowded to-night.

American Theatre.

Harry Devoe, Geo. H. Foster, Chris Mathews, Harry Howard, and a host of old favorites will appear to-night in a bill of the most varied nature and one that cannot fail to give general satisfaction.

Platt's Music Hall.

There is no falling off in the attendance at the entertainments given by the talented Berger Family, and that most original of humorists, Sol Smith Russell, people go night after night to hear the latter, and he always succeeds in pleasing them anew. His fun is so genuine that no one need be ashamed to laugh at it. There is no buffoonery, but comicality enough in his impersonations to make the most miserable cynic that ever breathed laugh. The programme is new throughout, and those who visited Platt's Hall last week, can spend another evening there this week very pleasantly.

Benefit to Miss Caroline Chapman.

No name is better known in the early history of the drama in California, than that of Miss Caroline Chapman, and no member of the profession is more loved and respected than she. On Saturday next, this admirable artiste will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit at the Metropolitan Theatre, when all the brightest lights of the profession have volunteered. The names appear in an announcement in another column.

J. M. Hardie's Farewell Benefit.

This rising young actor, who has filled the position of leading man at the Metropolitan Theatre for the last year, and given the greatest satisfaction, will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit at the Metropolitan Theatre on Sunday evening. John McCullough, J. C. Williamson, Miss Rose Evans and others have volunteered for the occasion.

City Gardens.

These Gardens will be the scene of many pleasant gatherings during the next two weeks. Next Saturday the Knights of Pythias will hold a grand tournament there; the full programme appears in another column. On Sunday the Emmet Guard will have their annual picnic, and on Sunday and Monday, June 9th and 10th, the Miners of '49 will give a grand entertainment illustrative of early life in California. Their programme also appears in full in FIGARO.

Miss Maggie Mitchell.

The public of San Francisco will soon have a rare dramatic feast presented to them in the forthcoming engagement of Miss Maggie Mitchell at the Metropolitan Theatre. Miss Mitchell's impersonations of Fanchon and other similar emotional characters have been acknowledged by all who have seen them to possess dramatic genius of the highest order. Miss Mitchell is expected by to-morrow evening's train. Mr. John H. Selwyn, her agent, arrived last evening.

A Villain.

No sentence could be too severe for James Roach, who was brought up in the Police Court on Monday. The Call thus tells the story of his crime:

James Rosch, a small individual with a clean-shaved face, was among the many prisoners in the dock, charged with having feloniously entering the room of Miss Maggie McCarty, a chambermaid at the Cosmopolitan Hotel, with intent to commit larceny. The occupant of the room informed the Court that on Friday night last she went to her room to retire for the night, when her attention was a tracted by seeing something move beneath her bed. She made an examination, and discovered the defendent, who said. "Excuse me, Miss; I'm drunk. I was only looking for a young girl." Miss McCarthy, after recovering from the effect of her fright, she was seized with, commenced to scream, which attracted the attention of several persons, who took Roach into custody and turned him over to an officer. The owner of the house stated to the Judge that jewelry and clothing to the value of one thousand dollars had been taken from the rooms of the hotel. The prisoner made a statement, saying he went to see Miss Ellen Sheean, a chambermaid in the hotel, to whom he had loaned twenty dollars. That he found himself in a stranger's room, and on hearing footsteps, hid under the bed.

First, he said he was drunk, then he was looking for a girl, then he had come to collect a bill. The villain! That he might, had he not been discovered, have stolen money or jewelry, is of little consequence compared with the effect of his outrageous proceeding. Two million women, at least, who have broken themselves of the habit of looking under the bed before retiring, "to see if there is a man there," will do so once more and when remonstrated with for being so silly and nervous, will triumphantly cite the case of Miss Maggie McCarthy, who did find a man under her bed. To-night at ten o'clock at least 500 heads will be bobbed under five hundred beds to see if there is a man there, and this is why we should have been pleased had Judge Lounderback yesterday inflicted a far more severe sentence on James Roach than he did.

Very Likely.

A ten-year-old boasting to a schoolmate of his father's accomplishments, puts it thus: "My father can do almost anything. He's a notary public and a 'pothecary, and he can pull teeth, and he's a horse doctor, and he can mend chairs and wagons, and things, and he can play the fiddle, and he's a jackass at all trades."

The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURing the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmates.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines: for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, of the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 831 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of ten each, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 89, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $20 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the wake of the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good dose of philosophy to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "sic transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mass. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune April 13.

THE LATEST INVENTION

THE GREAT

Lightning Ink Eraser!

Patented by Mr. J. W. Talmadge, Jan. 16, 1872.

For the use of lawyers, merchants, bookkeepers, clerks, and the writing community in general; to be used instead of a knife or scraper for erasing ink from paper and parchment, in order to instantly rectify a mistake or clean off a blot, without any injury whatever to the printer's ink upon any printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bill-head or ruling upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, and leaving the paper or parchment clean and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the aid of this valuable and useful article you can rectify a mistake or blot without taking the pen or pencil off from your hand; it is done in an instant, and the paper is ready to write upon again. The old way of scratching the ink not only takes out the ruling, but spoils the surface of the paper, and the ink will spread and blot when written over again; and, in case of blot upon any printed form you cannot scratch it off without spoiling your form, if it is done with a knife or scraper. It also removes stains made by ink, fruit, iron-rust, etc., from cotton, linen, and the finest laces, without the least injury to any goods that water will not injure; therefore it is invaluable to all, from a school to a to a bank, for erasing ink from paper and parchment; and to every housewife for cleansing stains from linens and laces. IT IS INDORSED BY EVERY ONE who sees it.

DIRECTIONS.—To remove ink from paper and parchment, dip the end of the penholder into the bottle and apply, WITHOUT RUBBING. When the ink has disappeared, absorb the fluid with a blotter.

When the ink has been written for years, it may be necessary to make two or three applications of the eraser, and each time not failing to absorb the fluid with blotting paper, before applying afresh, as the vitality of the liquid rapidly evaporates; for this reason the bottle must be kept corked.

To remove stains from Laces, etc., dip the stained part into the fluid, then rinse in clean water.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in that celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

Detestable.

If there is one animal that is particularly detestable, it is one of your growlers. He growls at his wife and children, at his grocer, butcher, merchant and tailor. He growls because his dinner is ready and because it isn't ready. He growls when there are buttons on his shirt and when there are no buttons on his shirt; his coffee is not sweet enough or it is too sweet; his victuals are cooked too much or not enough; the children are too dirty or they are too clean; the weather is too cold or too hot. His growling is heaviest at his newspaper—there is too much or not enough of poetry in it; too much politics or not enough; too much of the sensation or not enough; and so on ad infinitum. His growling is never ceasing and when he dies he will get up a big growl at the devil for keeping such hot fires during warm weather.

A Moving Preacher.

Supper Parties.

A man eats breakfast because he is hungry; so often he hurries over his dinner, but supper he enjoys. All enjoy a supper at the BRYALVE, 640 Market street, three doors below Kearny. There they find the coziest little private rooms up-stairs, the finest oysters and the best of everything. W. Spreen started the BRYALVE seven years ago, and it is to-day the most popular oyster house in San Francisco.

The Occidental Restaurant.

This old established restaurant is one of the best known in San Francisco. It is famed for its excellent cooking, attentive waiters and general good management. It is situated on Washington street, No. 536, a few doors below Montgomery. H. Burmeister, the proprietor has at the request of many customers fitted up a half dozen of rooms over the restaurant in elegant style, and henceforth these will be open for family and supper parties until 12 o'clock M. Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

Foundation for a Novel.

Many an advertisement in the Personal column of the New York Herald or London Times, would afford a good text to write a novel on, but those in the San Francisco papers are generally severely matter of fact. Here is one, however, that is suggestive: "The tall and handsome Mr. S. will get a hole put into him if he is caught in Brooklyn much more." Though the above is evidently written by one who bears an animosity to Mr. S., he, we suppose it is a he—does not allow his hatred to make him blind to the fact that Mr. S. is tall and handsome. On the other hand, the good looks of Mr. S. do not cause him to have any compunction about boring a hole in him. Here is material for a novelist. There is one spot in California, dangerous ground for the tall and handsome Mr. S. to tread upon. He may revel in the delights of Oakland, wander through the beautiful streets of Alameda, but must not make a habit of going to Brooklyn. He is not forbidden to pay it a casual visit, but he must not be found there "much more." Why is this? Is she maid, wife or widow? Well, well the tall and handsome Mr. S. if he become impecunious and desperate, can if he likes, get bored in Brooklyn.

New Music.

We have received from M. Gray, music publisher, the following new music: "The Dolly Varden Schottische," by Geo. T. Evans "The Days When I Was Young Schottische," by the same author. "Forget me Not," a bagatelle de salon, by Gustav A. Scott, dedicated to Miss Alexina Wright. "The Palace Truth Mazourka," by Charles Schultze, and "Return to Me," by the same author, a ballad sung in the "Palace of Truth." This last is dedicated to Miss Minnie Walton. A pretty good showing for our San Francisco composers.

A Difference of Opinion.

The New York Atlas says:

The latest report concerning Niblo's Garden is that Mr. Stewart will rebuid it with all possible speed. It is intended that the new house shall be the most elegant and complete in America. The lease is to be given to Messrs. Jarrett & Palmer, of whom the Star says "no managers ever worked harder in the public interest; none stand higher, and few so high in public esteem and confidence.

The profession generally don't seem to mourn over Messrs. Jarrett & Palmer's misfortune, as they drive pretty close bargains in their dealings with actors.

Mr. Henry Edwards

Dexter Smith's Paper, published in Boston, has the following:

The San Francisco FIGARO says: "John Wilson, one of the very best villains on the stage, will resume his old position in the California Theatre Company." He is considered a first-class villain in Boston, as old Museum habitues will agree.

Mr. Wilson will have to mount a false moustache now for his villain parts. Since he shaved in order to justly represent Joseph Surface as a "smooth-faced" villain, he looks too amiable for heavy villainy.

Cheap Concerts.

The "People's Concerts" of Boston are about to be totally outdone by the London "Albert Hall Concerts," of which eighteen are to be given, the lowest price of tickets being three pence, (six cents,) They are to be of first-class talent, the Sacred Harmonic even bending sufficiently to take part. The concerts are to be under the leadership of Arthur Chappell. America must look to her laurels in the matter of cheap concerts.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're differedt from other men.
The'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Boucicault's ever-popular drama of "The Colleen Bawn" was produced last night, and drew a good house. Charles Wheatleigh has gained great applause whenever he has played either Danny Mann or Miles na Coppaleen in this drama. Last night he surpassed himself by playing both on the same evening, thus proving his versatility, and also his skill in lightning changes; his performance was admirable. Miss Laura Honey gave a most pleasing impersonation of Eily O'Connor, and gained considerable applause. Miss Henrietta Osborne was capital as Anne Chute; Mrs. Frank Rea was very good as Sheiah; Samuel Piercy, who always makes the best of every chance he has, played the character of Hardress Cragan very well: Harry Colton gave a thorough realization of the character of Kyrle Daly, and the drama throughout was excellently played. It will be repeated this evening. To-morrow evening, Charles Wheatleigh will take his farewel benefit, and the San Francisco public will, we are sure, give him a bumper for auld lang syne, when he marched to conquer them with "Arrah-na-pogue," "Flying Scud," and other inscriptions on his victorious banners.

The Alhambra.

All are delighted with Simmons & Slocum's Minstrels. The singing in the first part has never been equalled by any troupe that has visited this city, and is the subject of general praise. Billy Sweetnam is as funny as anyone can be; W. Welch and J. Rice are immense favorites in their eccentric dances; Sheridan and Mack are as popular as ever, and altogether the performance given suits the taste of the San Francisco people exactly, as is proved by the large and fashionable audiences nightly in attendance.

California Theatre.

Miss Carlotta Leclercq gave a powerful impersonation of Marie de Fontanger, in Tom Taylor's three act drama of "Plot and Passion," and was ably supported by John McCullough, Henry Edwards, Owen Marlowe, J. C. Williamson and others. The performance concluded with the capital farce of "The Limerick Boy," with J. C. Williamson as Paddy Miles. This excellent bill gave general satisfaction and will be repeated to-night.

Bella Union.

Two of the most popular members of the variety profession made their appearance at this house last night and received the cordial welcome always accorded to old favorites. M'lle Marie Gaugain, the most charming of dansenses, and the accomplished Miss Ethel Stanley, both made their appearance in the beautiful spectacular drama of "The Naiad Queen," which was splendidly produced, and made such a hit that it should run for an unlimited number of nights. It will be presented to-night and every evening until further notice.

American Theatre.

The company here is strong in female talent and pretty faces, Fanny Webster, May Leroy, Eva Silva, Clara Starr, Rosa Vincent, Claude Stewart, Maggie Kelly and a host of others appear nightly.

San Francisco Circus.

The Pavilion on Jackson street was, as we prophesied it would be, thronged last night, when Jem Mace made his first appearance in California. Mace presented his entertainment consisting of classic postings which drew large and fashionable audiences in all parts of Great Britian and Ireland, and crowded Niblo's Theatre and Academy of Music, New York for many nights. He is a marvel of symetry, a model of a man and is beside this an artist as he proved last night by the exquisite grace of his poses and the perfect manner in which he delineated the passions of fear, rage, hate and exultation. The exhibition given is one which it would be the merest prudery to affect to regard as unworthy of the patronage of the righteous for the reason that Mace happens to be a pugilist. Physically he is a grand man and his entertainment is æsthetic in the highest degree. One does not see the champion of the P. R., but a series of the most beautiful statues imaginable, presented with consummate skill and taste. To-night in order to to gratify those for whom Mace's entertainment is altogether too refined, Pooley Mace and Billy Edwards will give a sparring exhibition. Thus all tastes will be gratified. The San Francisco Circus Troupe and Hippodrome as at present constituted presents attractions seldom equalled in number and variety. The thousands who have already visited the pavilion on Jackson street will go again and cannot fail to be pleased as the programme is new throughout. The wonderful Matthews Family are as popular as ever, their performances being rewarded nightly with thunders of applause.

Platt's Music Hall.

All who have attended the entertainment given by the Berger Family and Sol Smith Russell pronounce it "delightful!" The present week is the last during which this very pleasing performance can be given. Sol Smith Russell can produce more laughter from a given number of people in a given length of time than almost any other living man. Those who neglect going to Platt's Hall this week will miss a great treat.

Miss Maggie Mitchell.

Next Monday evening Miss Maggie Mitchell, one of the most charming actresses on the American stage, will commence an engagement at the Metropolitan Theatre. This engagement is, perhaps, the most costly ever made by any theatrical management in California, but so great is the talent of the actress, so wide spread her fame, that there is no fear but the Metropolitan Theatre will be crowded every night of her engagement. From every Eastern city come the same praises of Miss Maggie Mitchell and her wonderful impersonation of Fanchon.

Now that Maggie Mitchell has gone we may safely say out a word about her acting. Whether it be alone the range of character she plays, or whether there be a subtle something in herself added, she holds a great power over a very various range of audience. When you are seeing her you wish you could drop the biggess and the formality of theatre, and the promiscuous audience, some of it so unsympathetic, in its look at least, and just have her in some good, large, cosy, home, where you could keep up the little folks all about you, hold their hands, and look into their eyes, and feel their pulses jump, and hear their wonder words of delight. It all seems too delicate for rough contact, as if it should be sacred to domestic life. And yet it is fortunate that there should be such acting and such plays to check tendency to lower pleasure, to prove how elevating the drama may be: to show how loyal is the heart, after all, to the deep true things of experience and life. Whether the little actress means it or not, whether she understands it or not, she is a true missionary. She not only draws tears, but she warms hearts. She leaves a pure feeling behind her, and makes impressions for good where many a set lesson or elaborated sermon fails. The more we can have of such delineation—delineation in other grades of character of the same fidelity and sweetness—the better will the people be, and men come

Benefit to Miss Caroline Chapman.

Among the host of volunteers for the benefit of Miss Caroline Chapman, which comes off at the Metropolitan Theatre, on Saturday, are Charles Wheatleigh, Miss Annette Ince, Miss Rose Evans, Mrs. Judah, Mrs. Sophie Edwin, and a host of other favorites. The bill for the occasion will be the comedy of "Time Tries All," a brilliant olio, "Twenty Minutes Matchmaking," in which Miss Caroline Chapman will play Mme. Manette, a song and dance by Miss Lulu Wilson, and the Scandal Scene from "The School for Scandal," with Miss Anette Ince as Lady Teazle.

J. M. Hardie's Farewell Benefit.

This rising young actor, who has filled the position of leading man at the Metropolitan Theatre for the last year, and given the greatest satisfaction, will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit at the Metropolitan Theatre on Sunday evening. John McCullough, J. C. Williamson, Miss Rose Evans and others have volunteered for the occasion.

Capt. Badger's Grand Central Park, Oakland.

There will be a great entertainment at these beautiful pleasure grounds on Sunday next. The great Matthews Family, ten in number, whose wonderful performances have been the great feature of the San Francisco Circus, and to witness which thousands have willingly paid a dollar, will give their drawing room entertainment, occupying an hour and a half, and consisting of the various feats mentioned in the programme on another page. The price of admission to this entertainment and all the amusements in the Park will be but 25 cents. In addition to this, at half-past 2 o'clock, Eugene De Grassac, the champion funambulist of the world, will make an ascension on a rope 300 feet long, to the top of the pavilion The fare to the Park and back by boat and rail is but 25 cents. Thus four bits will cover all the expense of a trip in the country and admission to a show richly worth a dollar to witness. Extra cars will be put on for this occasion.

Knights of Pythias.

The second annual celebration and tournament of this large organization will come off at the City Gardens on Saturday next. We call attention to the programme of exercises, which will be published in FIGARO only. It's what may be denominated a "stunning" programme.

City Gardens.

These Gardens will be the scene of many pleasant gatherings during the next two weeks. Next Saturday the Knights of Pythias will hold a grand tournament there; the full programme appears in another column. On Sunday the Emmet Guard will have their annual picnic, and on Sunday and Monday, June 9th and 10th, the Miners of '49 will give a grand entertainment illustrative of early life in California. Their programme also appears in full in FIGARO. If the City Gardens prosper many more such programmes, we will have to get out a City Garden Supplement to publish them in.

To Arrive To-night.

Two dramatic stars of the first magnitude will arrive to-night by the Eastern train: Miss Maggie Mitchell, engaged for the Metropolitan Theatre and Lawrence Barrett, for the California Theatre.

A law of Pennsylvania makes the taking of money at the door of a theatre on Sunday illegal, wherefore it is invariably taken at the window.

Next Sunday, grand production of "La Battaile de Selerino," by fifty musicians, drum corps, buglers, cannon, bombs, musketry and troops. Skating every day.

Health and Pleasure.

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. Love-token Fans.

There is a decided novelty in fans. They show the word "Roma" when held up for the plain purpose of fanning, but by a clever turn of the hand the word suddenly changes into "Amor," which is "Roma" read backwards. Young creatures turn the orthodox side to papa, when he happens to look that way, and the other side speaks volumes in a totally opposite direction. These affairs have, we believe, their origin in Paris.

Change the Site.

The Washington Critic says:

An epidemic disease of the eyes prevails in Hopkington. It attacks the person without a moment's warning, the eye suddenly feeling as if some foreign substance were in it. Inflammation, redness and tenderness to the light follow, and last for days, subjecting the individual to great inconvenience if not to a suspension of business.

It is probably a judgment on people for living in a town with such a name.

Politics vs. The Lord.

Ministers of the Gospel had much better be about "their Master's business," than dabbling in the dirty pool of party politics. When a man starts out in life to serve the Lord, he should not change sides and serve the devil.

The foregoing is good. The joke of it is, that it is from a strictly partisan political paper.

A wretched husband in St. Paul advertises for the recovery of his wife, "a taul woman with gray eyes, and a smaul babie, just beginning to wauk," who have been appropriated by "a taul, pok mark feller, with red hare."

To be truly happy—Part your hair in the middle behind, and as you move along puff your cigar-smoke into the countenance of the inoffensive passer-by.

THE GREAT

Lightning Ink Eraser!

Patented by Mr. J. W. Talmadge, Jan. 16, 1872.

For the use of lawyers, merchants, bookkeepers, clerks, and the writing community in general; to be used instead of a lancet or scraper for erasing ink from paper and parchment, in order to instantly rectify a mistake or clean off a blot, without any injury whatever to the printed or written form, such as deed, mortgage, bill-head or ruling upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, and leaving the paper or parchment clean and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the aid of this valuable and useful article you rectify a mistake or blot without taking the pen holder from your hand; it is done in an instant, and the paper is ready to write upon again. The old way of scratching the ink not only takes out the ruling, but spoils the surface of the paper, and the ink will spread and blot when written over again; and, in case of blot upon any printed form you cannot scratch it off without spoiling your form, if it is done with a knife or scraper. It also removes stains made by ink, fruit, iron-rust, etc., from cotton, linen, and the finest laces, without the least injury to any goods that water will not injure therefore it is invaluable to all, from a school to a to a bank, for erasing ink from paper and parchment; and to every housewife for cleansing stains from linens and laces. IT IS ENDORSED BY EVERY ONE who sees it.

DIRECTIONS.—To remove ink from paper and parchment, dip the end of the penholder into the bottle and apply, WHITHOUT RUBBING. When the ink has disappeared, absorb the fluid with a blotter.

When the ink has been written for years, it may be necessary to make two or three applications of the eraser, and each time not failing to absorb the fluid with blotting paper, before applying afresh, as the vitality of the liquid rapidly evaporates; for this reason the bottle must be kept corked.

To remove stains from Laces, etc., dip the stained part into the fluid, then rinse in clean water.

☞ For sale by all Stationers and Druggists in town and country. Price 50 cents per bottle.

$500 Reward for the arrest and conviction of any person or persons infringing upon his patent. JAMES W. TALLMADGE, New York.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco, HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in that celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

Stopping a Tooth.

The reason why he finds it necessary to to have his new set of false teeth made of an unusually large size is this: His name is Satchel, and he had the toothache very badly a few days ago. Stopping in at a druggists for the purpose of obtaining a pinch of raw cotton with which to plug the tooth, the boy behind the counter made a mistake and gave him a wad of gun cotton. So Mr. Satchel inserted it, and immediately afterward felt like taking a smoke. We don't know exactly how it was; but the ache was in a front tooth, and somehow or other, when Mr. Satchel lit the match, he must have held it to close to his mouth, and in a second he was surprised to feel a sort of an explosion in there, and to find his teeth blown through his cheeks, and up through his skull, and out of his mouth into a fence opposite which he stood. He only saved a few of them—those that smashed upward lodged in his hat. And now his mouth opens like the lid of mustard-castor, and will hold, we should think, a set of teeth as big as the halves of a circus ring.

Amusements of Spirits.

At a spirit meeting the other night a gentlemen requested a medium to ask what amusements were most popular in the other world. The reply was, "Reading of obituary notices."

Supper Parties.

A man eats breakfast because he is hungry; so often he hurries over his dinner, but supper he enjoys. All enjoy a supper at the BIVALVE, 640 Market street, three doors below Kearny. There they find the coziest little private rooms up-stairs, the finest oysters and the best of everything. W. Spreen started the BIVALVE seven years ago, and it is to-day the most popular oyster house in San Francisco.

The Occidental Restaurant.

This old established restaurant is one of the best known in San Francisco. It is famed for its excellent cooking, attentive waiters and general good management. It is situated on Washington street, No. 536, a few doors below Montgomery. H. Removal.

Nevill's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. Literary Vermin Destroyers.

Oliver Wendell Holmes, in the June number of the Atlantic, says:

So many foolish persons are rushing into print, that it requires a kind of literary police to hold them back and keep them in order. Where there are mice there must be cats, and where there are rats we may think it worth our while to keep a terrier, who will give them a shake and let them drop, with all the mischief taken out of them.

This is very good but he goes on to say that critics ought to be gentle, not too cruel and all that sort of thing. If we go after a literary rat we don't believe in being gentle; we want to shake the life out of it as quickly as possible. It is only the positive frauds who should be dealt with in this manner, men who are not grounded in the English language sufficiently to enable them to express any ideas they may have intelligently. Holmes says:

A poor poem or essay does not do much harm, after all; nobody reads it who is like to be seriously hurt by it. But a sharp criticism with a drop of witty venom in it stings a young author almost to death, and makes an old one uncomfortable to no purpose.

The sooner a young "author" who is stupid and conceited, is "stung to death," the better it is for the public. Some criticism is not intended to do a writer good any more than hanging is intended to improve a man. Critics as literary policemen should clear the road of scribbling idlers, criminals they should bring to speedy justice.

The Lightning Ink Eraser.

The lightning ink eraser, patented by J. W. Talmage, is a really wonderful invention. It should be found in every counting house and on every desk. A drop of it causes a blot of ink to vanish as if by magic, leaving the paper perfectly white. It is manufactured by Geo. B. Hitchcock & Co., stationers and blank book manufacturers, 413 and 415 Sansome street, corner of Commercial street, San Francisco.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
The 'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,

Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

The Alhambra.

Simmons & Slocum's Minstrels are firmly established in public favor, and the entertainment they give is one that will wear. The musical portion of the programme is delightful, and Billy Sweetnam, Lew Simmons, Welch, Rice, and others are wonderfully amusing. E. N. Slocum is a splendid interlocutor, and Eddy Fox's performances on the violin are wonderful. There will be a matinee tomorrow, when the full programme will be performed.

California Theatre.

To-night Miss Carlotta Leclercq, whose delightful performances have been witnessed and enjoyed by the elite of San Francisco, will take her farewell benefit and make her last appearance but two. She will on this occasion present one of her greatest impersonations: Julia in "The Hunchback." She will receive able support from John McCullough, Henry Edwards, and Miss Helen Tracy will make her reappearance and perform the character of Helen. "The Lady of Lyons" will be played for the matinee to-morrow. To-morrow evening Miss Leclercq will make her last appearance as Pauline in the same play.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night Charles Wheatleigh will take his farewell benefit. On this occasion will be presented Boucicault's capital sensation drama of the "Colleen Bawn," which gave general satisfaction to the audience. In addition to this Mr. Wheatleigh will appear in his impersonation of Bagshot in the amusing play of "A Bull in a China Shop." The usual matinee performance will be given to-morrow and in the evening Miss Caroline Chapman will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit; the bill for this occasion is given elsewhere, in which a small army of volunteers will appear. On Sunday evening James M. Hardie will take his benefit when a host of volunteers will also appear. See extra announcement elsewhere.

Bella Union.

The beautiful spectacular play of "The Naiad Queen" in which M'lle Marie Gaugain, Miss Jennie Johnson, Miss Carrie Chapman, Will Bark, Marie Scel, and the whole company appear to good advantage, is played after a capital first part and rollicking interlude in which many amusing acts, sweet ballads and varied performances are given. The company is large and talented, the programme excellent, and the audience always well pleased.

American Theatre.

There is always fun at the American Theatre on Saturday night. The house is crowded and all the actors do their best to please. The array of names on our first page promises a rich entertainment and the promise will be fulfilled.

San Francisco Circus.

Another immense crowd flocked to the pavilion on Jackson street last night, when in addition to all the varied attractions of the arena, the wonderful Mathews Family (a whole troupe in themselves), Omar Kingsley, Dacrow, Worland, and a host of other stars. Jem Mace repeated his beautiful impersonations of classic statues, and Billy Edwards and Mr. White, an Australian lightweight champion, put up their hands, and gave the most artistic illustration of the science of self defense ever witnessed on the Pacific Coast. The men were graceful, lithe as panthers, and quick as lightning in their movements. The wind up called forth shouts of applause that made the welkin ring. Among the crowd present were nearly all the members of the S. F. O. C., who doubtless gained valuable hints from the exhibition. The full programme will be given at the matinee to-morrow, and again in the evening. The redoubtable champion's exhibition is of a character to please ladies and children, and there is certainly nothing in it to frighten anyone.

Platt's Music Hall.

The series of pleasing entertainments given by the Berger Family and that clever humorist, Sol Smith Russell, is fast drawing to a close. There will be a matinee performance to-morrow when the full programme which has delighted thousands during the week, will be performed, and to-morrow the final entertainment will be given. Those who have not yet enjoyed the entertainment given by this talented company should not miss these last opportunities.

City Gardens.

To-morrow the noble Knights of Pythias will hold high holiday amidst the groves. Weeks of preparation will culminate in a festival of the most splendid description. The programme appears elsewhere. It comprises a procession through the streets of knights in armour, mounted and on foot. The City Gardens reached, the Knights will proceed to their tournament ground, where there will be jousting for prizes, archery and races. In the evening there will be an open-air concert and the ceremony of choosing the maids of honor and crowning of the Queen of Love and Beauty. After this there will be a grand display of fireworks by Church & Clark. One of the ladies visiting the Gardens between 8 A. M., and 9 P. M. will be presented with a Wilcox & Gibb's sewing machine of the value of $100, and a child between the ages of 6 and 12 years of age will receive a Manhattan sewing machine worth $100

"Horrid Depravity."

In an exchange we find a story with the above heading which tells how a grocer in London tried to poison his wife and children and lost his own life. He purchased a leg of mutton, rubbed it over with strychnine and told his wife to cook it for dinner, asking her to cook a steak for his breakfast. We are told:

The wife obeyed, when the wretch having eaten heartily of the steak, asked her in what it was fried, as he thought it had a peculiar taste. The wife strictly adhering to her economical pursuits said that instead of butter she had used the fat of the mutton. "Then I am a dead man, for I am poisoned!" In a few hours he died, suffering the most excruciating torture.

"The wretch!" Yes, he was a wretch; but wasn't his wife a wretch too? "Awful depravity." Wasn't it awful depravity to cook a beef steak in mutton fat? We cannot feel any satisfaction at the escape from death of a wretch who would fry a beefsteak in mutton fat.

Clever Little Boy.

A blind musician stood in one of the principal streets performing on his instrument, when a little boy was observed to take up his position by the side of the poor, afflicted mendicant, and, with cap in hand, solicit alms from passers-by. After receiving a few pence, he turned the street corner, and quietly moved off with the money, leaving the musician actively continuing his performance on the cheery flageolet. Such is life.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Thompson & Sennits to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Sennits are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. A Useful Journal.

The Bulletin is always doing San Francisco some service. Not long ago it introduced the devil's fiddle here by giving half a column description of how that instrument is made. This week it gave up about the same space to explicit instructions how to adulterate milk, the effect of which will doubtless be perceived very shortly.

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURING the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed a lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the sewing machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Wilcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines: for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, these prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, of the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 351 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of from 6 A. M. to 12 M. Each was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 89, 4 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $31 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $8 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Eliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was no improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good stretch of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances. "It all very well to say "s o transit g or a mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather trying and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves miserably situated, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be found in the forward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune Apr. 18.

Climatic Influences.

The absence of the usual amount of rain and snow during the past Winter has resulted in a failure of a supply of water in different portions of the country. Another fact worthy of note, as relating to the anomalous climactic influences is, that from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic, millions of the evergreens are either dead or dying. Norway spruce, pines, junipers, as well as dwarf or standard roses, plants that are still young, and those that have stood the rigors of many Winters, are alike turning a sickly yellow and perishing. On Long Island, N. Y., where immense numbers of the hardiest parts of this kind are grown by the horticulturists, the loss is estimated at two or three hundred thousand dollars. Prospect Park, and the private gardens of Brooklyn, have suffered severely, and the damage to Central Park, in New York, is almost irreparable. From New Jersey, Boston, the Ohio Valley, and the extensive nurseries at Rochester, New York, the report is the same. Two diverse views are entertained as to the cause of these losses. On one side it is contended that the warm days of February gave the plants an early start which was suddenly checked by the cold March winds. On the other it is argued that the plants were killed early in the Winter—that there was last August no gradual diminuation of the temperature as in former seasons, but the cold came suddenly; the color of the evergreens then changed slightly but not enough to cause alarm, and it was not known until the Spring fairly opened how much damage was done.

A Literary Absurdity.

A clergyman in central New York is said to have recently preached a sermon to children which was composed of words of one syllable. This is said to be a literary curiosity, but it is also a literary absurdity. Short words are not always intelligible to children, and long ones are not always obscure. Grandmother is a word of three syllables, but most children who can talk are able to comprehend it.

The sermon may be described in a word of one syllable: "Bosh!"

Erratum.

In an account of an interview with Henry Bec, accused of strangling Caroline Prenel, published yesterday in one of the morning papers, the line "He said she paid him for choking," should read, "he said she paid him for cooking." These typographical errors are very annoying.

The Greatest Discovery of the Age.

Desperate Editors.

A tailor sends us his "monthly" from New York. He is editor. Doctor Soapem Quack sends us a pamphlet on his pills. He is editor of it. It's nice to be an editor. There are a number of individuals afflicted with the cacoethes "compendi," who, not having pantaloons or pills to advertise, become "editors" of volumes of selected matter interleaved with pages on which they publish the advertisements of such short-sighted tradesmen as deem the daily papers charge too much, and are willing to put their cards in advertising books because they can get them in "cheap." Deluded men! The "editor" of the volume of selections, when he has had a hundred or two of his volumes struck off, has accomplished his end; he has seen his name in print as editor and publisher, and is content. In order that his advertisers may be satisfied he gives each one of them a copy of the interesting work which they have paid to have published. The general public before whom it is the policy of every tradesman to bring his advertisement do not know that there is such a work in existence as "The Purchaser's Pocketbook," and if they saw one wouldn't read it. The man who gets a "cheap" advertisement in one of these bogus advertising mediums instead of inserting in a recognized newspaper, shows as great a lack of discretion as one who buys "cheap" silks of peddlers, instead of dealing at a respectable establishment. It is the easiest thing possible to throw away money in advertising. In these advertising books there is a chance that a card may in the course of a year be read once by a thousand people. The same card inserted in a small paper like FIGARO would stand a much greater chance of meeting the eye of two thousand people every day in the year—people who have money to spend, who go to the theatres, to the circus, to concerts—strangers who want to learn where are the best restaurants, who will buy clothes of a man whose name they know from having been introduced to him through the columns of the daily press. If a man wishes an introduction to the great public of San Francisco, let him choose FIGARO as the means to do it neatly and gracefully. FIGARO is "here, there and everywhere"—in all the theatres, in all the hotels, and is going across the continent to introduce the business men of San Francisco to those doing business in the East. Shun bogus "advertising mediums," advertise in FIGARO, be sensible and become rich.

Mr. John McCullough

Has volunteered for Hardie's benefit at the Metropolitan Theatre, Sunday evening.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter beat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're differedt from other men.
The 'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

SATURDAY.....JUNE 1, 1872

ALHAMBRA THEATRE. — The first week of Simmons & Slocum's Minstrels at this popular theatre, has been signalized by the presence of as large and fashionable audiences as were wont to attend while Emersonians were there. To find a more popular troupe than the Emerson Minstrels would be hard indeed. It is enough that Simmons & Slocum's Minstrels come fully up to popular expectation and that their entertainment suits the taste of the public exactly. At the matinee the full programme will be performed, and this evening a re-worked house will enjoy the sweet singing in the first part, the jokes of Lew Simmons and Billy Sweetnam, the grotesque dances of Welch and Rice, the wonderful violin playing of Eddy Fox and other features of the great programme offered.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—A large and fashionable audience attended the benefit of Miss Carletta Leclercq last night, when she gave her wonderful impersonation of Julian in the "Hunchback," the finest, without any exception, that has ever been witnessed on the California stage. Miss Helen Tracy, who made her reappearance on the California stage on this occasion after an absence of some years, during which she has been engaged at Wallack's Theater, New York, played the character of Helen, and showed marked improvement in her style of acting. How well John McCullough can play Sir Thomas Clifford, all are aware, and the other members of the company who appeared last night have frequently played the characters for which they were cast on this occasion. Between the second and third acts a very pleasing and original composition by Fred Lyster, dedicated to Miss Leclercq, was played by the orchestra in excellent style, and was heartily applauded. At the matinee to day Miss Leclercq will appear in one of her greatest characters, Pauline in the "Lady of Lyons," and the same bill will be given this evening, closing the engagement of this really great artiste, whose performances have given unalloyed pleasure to the most refined and appreciative portion of the community. On Monday Lawrence Barrett will appear in "Hamlet."

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—Charles Wheatleigh took his farewell benefit last night and presented "The Colleen Bawn," in which he assumes the two characters of Danny Mann and Myles na Coppaleen, with admirable skill. Miss Laura Honey played the part of the heroine very pleasingly, and sang Cruiskeen Lawn in a style which called forth immense applause and two encores "A Bull in a China Shop," in which Mr. Wheatleigh played Bagshot splendidly and sent the audience into fits of laughing, wound up the evening's amusement. To-night a great bill will be performed for the benefit of Miss Caroline Chapman, an actress whom San Francisco delights to honor, and who has, on each of the few occasions she has appeared on the stage during the past ten years, received a perfect ovation. The full bill of the performance appears on our first page, and is referred to in another column.

BELLA UNION.—A new bill to-night. In the first part Carrie Armstrong and Miss Garretson will sing a charming duet, Miss Ethel Stanley, Tommy Bree and others will sing ballads, and Johnny Tucker and Matt Kelly comic songs. In the interlude a number of amusing acts, fancy-dances, etc., will be presented, and in "The Naiad Queen" M'lle Marie Gangain, the graceful danseuse, Miss Minnie Fillmore, Marie Zoel, Miss Jennie Johnson, R. G. Marsh, Lon McCarthy and many others will appear, and Miss Josephine will make her reappearance.

NEW AMERICAN THEATRE.—The bill for to-night is a capital one and a host of old favorites will appear. G. H. Foster has made a hit in the character of Old Jeff, and Miss May Leroy's dances are much applauded. Two new pieces, "The Black Statue" and "Nitro Glycerine," and the "Classical Tableaux" will be presented to-night. These, in connection with the interlude and first part make a very full bill.

SAN FRANCISCO CIRCUS AND HIPPODROME. —The rush to the Pavilion on Jackson street continues. An immense crowd of spectators enjoyed the varied performances in the arena last night, led by the Great Matthews Family and other stars. The appearance of Jem Mace in a set-to with Pooley Mace last evening caused a great sensation; the glorious form of the champion was the subject of general admiration, and his science was pronounced wonderful. Billy Edwards, the natty little light-weight champion, exhibited his skill with Dennis Haley, and received his full share of applause. There will be a grand rastinee to-day. To night and to-morrow night all the attractions of the Matthews Family, Jem Mace, and the other great artists of the equestrian and pugilistic rings will be exhibited. In spite of the expense attached to this great exhibition there is no extra charge for reserved seats, and the ushers are forbidden to receive gratuities.

THE BERGER FAMILY.— The talented troupe known by the above name, with the highly amusing and original humorist, Sol Smith Russell, will give their two last entertainments at Platt's Hall to-day. There will be a matinee at 2 o'clock, and a performance in the evening at 8 o'clock. They go hence to San Jose where they will perform on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, after which they will give three entertainments at Stockton on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

MISS MAGGIE MITCHELL.—This famous actress will make her first appearance in California at the Metropolitan Theatre on Monday in her great character of Fanchon. The Eastern papers are loud in their praises of the enterprise shown by a California Manager in expending the sum necessary to induce such a star to travel so far out of her orbit. That Manager Bert will be repaid for his enterprise and energy in catering to the amusement of the people of San Francisco, there can be but little fear. Seats can be secured six nights ahead. The free list during Maggie Mitchell's engagement will be entirely suspended except to members of the Press.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Those who have not the means to hire a team, need not on that account deprive themselves of the pleasure of a visit to the seaside to see the seals on the rocks, and enjoy an afternoon at Captain Foster's famous Cliff House. Omnibuses from the street car terminus at Lone Mountain leave every fifteen minutes. Fare 25 cents.

LAWRENCE BARRETT.—This popular actor returns to California with new laurels won at Booth's Theatre, New York, in New Orleans, and other cities in the United States. He will make his reappearance at the California Theatre, on Monday in "Hamlet." On Tuesday "Richelieu" will be played with Mr. Barrett as the wily Cardinal.

THE FRENCH ZOUAVES PICNIC.—The first picnic of this company will come off to-morrow at Fassking's Park, Alameda. The Zouaves will be accompanied by the Society Philharmonique, No. 2 the Lafayette Guard, and a host of friends. Go and enjoy a June day in the country under the shade of the Alameda oaks.

ALINE LE FAVERS' VARIETIES.—Johnny Manning, who went East to engage talent for this place of amusement, is on his way back with a troupe. The evening on which the Varieties will open will shortly be announced.

THE AMERICUS COMBINATION.—The Child Americus, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cordell, J. H. Sloat, the tenor singer, and Professor James

J. M. HARDIE'S FAREWELL BENEFIT.— This rising young actor, who has filled the position of leading man at the Metropolitan Theatre for the last year, and given the greatest satisfaction, will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit at the Metropolitan Theatre on Sunday evening. John McCullough, J. C. Williamson, Miss Rose Evans and others have volunteered. A great bill will be presented on this occasion. The performance will commence with the farce of "Jumbo Jum," with T. E. Jackson in the leading character, after this will come the Curse scene from "Lear," by Miss Rose Evans and S. Piercy; the closet scene from the "Wife," by James M. Hardie and John Wilson will follow. Miss Maggie Moore will appear in a song and dance; the Quarrel scene from "Julius Cæsar" will be presented by John McCullough and Harry Edwards; James M. Hardie, who has an excellent voice, will sing, and the evening's entertainment will conclude with J. C. Williamson's specialty of "Knock Me Down," in which he, Fred Franks, Edmund Leathes, Miss Harmes, and Maggie Moore will appear.

MISS CAROLINE CHAPMAN'S BENEFIT. — Among the host of volunteers for the benefit of Miss Caroline Chapman, which comes off at the Metropolitan Theatre, this evening, are Charles Wheatleigh, Miss Annette Ince, Miss Rose Evans, Mrs. Judah, Mr. Henry Edwards, and a host of other favorites. The bill for the occasion will be the comedy of "Time Tries All," a brilliant olio, "Twenty Minutes Matchmaking," in which Miss Caroline Chapman will play Mme. Manette, a song and dance by Miss Lulu Wilson, and the Scandal Scene from "The School for Scandal," with Miss Annette Ince as Lady Teazle, Mrs. Judah as Lady Sneerwell, Mrs. Saunders as Mrs Candour, Henry Edwards as Sir Peter Teazle, John Wilson as Joseph, Marlowe as Sir Benjamin, and Mestayer as Oakbree. The bill is a very strong one and the Metropolitan will surely be crowded to-night.

CAPT. BADGER'S CENTRAL PARK, OAKLAND. —There will be a great entertainment at these beautiful new pleasure grounds to-morrow. The great Matthews Family, ten in number, whose wonderful performances have been the great feature of the San Francisco Circus, and to witness which thousands have willingly paid a dollar, will give their drawing room entertainment, occupying an hour and a half, and consisting of the various feats mentioned in the programme on another page. The price of admission to this entertainment and all the amusements in the Park will be but 25 cents. In addition to this, at half-past 2 o'clock, Eugene De Grasse, the champion fe-bambulist of the world, will make an ascension on a rope 300 feet long, to the top of the pavilion. The fare to the Park and back by boat and rail is but 25 cents. Thus four bits will cover all the expense of a trip in the country and admission to a show richly worth a dollar to witness. Extra cars will be put on for the occasion.

CITY GARDENS.—The Annual Picnic of the Emmett Guard will be held at these popular gardens to-morrow. Open Air Concert, competition for prizes for running, shooting and other sports, and dancing, will enliven the picnicers at the City Gardens to-morrow. Tickets 50 cents.

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Miss Eliza Neilson, the popular English actress, late of Drury Lane Theatre, London, is playing farewell engagements in Liverpool and other English cities prior to her departure for America.

Mr. Richard Bateman, brother to Miss Kate Bateman, made his first appearance in Liverpool as Tom Robinson, in "Never Too Late to Mend," on the 29th of April.

Mlle. Beatrice has taken the London Olympic Theatre, which she opened on Monday, May 6 with a new English version of "Nos Intimes" Report speaks highly of several members of the company.

After an absence of two years from the metropolis and a succession of triumphs in all parts of the provinces, Miss Bateman returned to London and made her first appearance at the Lyceum in the character of Leah on the 6th of May.

At the London Crystal Palace on May-day there was a grand festival in celebration of the recovery of the Prince of Wales, which attracted a large and fashionable audience, nearly twenty-seven thousand persons being present. The chief feature of the festival was a concert given in the transept, where a new "Te Deum," expressly composed for the occasion by Mr. Arthur Sullivan, was performed. The solos were sung by M'lle Titiens, Signor Fancelli and Signor Foli. Mr. Sullivan's "Te Deum" is said to be the worthiest work that he has yet given to the world.

The production of "Money" at the Prince of Wales Theatre, the re-appearance of Mr. and Mrs. Bancicault at the Gaiety, and of Mrs. Scott-Siddons at the Queen's, are among the latest theatrical events in London.

Horace Wigan, a well known London actor has written a drama for himself, which is now in rehearsal at the Victoria Theatre, called "Race-Fair."

Victorien Sardou is at present at work upon a tragedy, whose leading character is Robespierre Louis XVI. and Marie Antoinette appear in it. It is considered doubtfull if the police will allow it to be performed in Paris.

Under Mr. Boucicault's management at the Covent Garden during the coming fall, the London public is to enjoy "a new kind of entertainment, which shall contain all that is pleasant and bright in burlesque, but replacing its idiotic grimace by a graceful and cheerful story; its breakdowns, by a first-rate ballet; its music-hall songs by comic ballads, duets, and choruses: its rudeness, by fantastic costumes that will leave something to the imagination.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senats to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served in an unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senats are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. OAKLAND.—There will be great doings at Badger's Central Park to-morrow. The Matthews Family, a whole troupe in themselves, will appear in a performance occupying an hour and a half, and previous to this, Eugene de Grassac, the finambulist of the San Francisco Circus Troupe, will make an ascension on a rope stretched to the summit of the Pavilion, a distance of 300 feet All Oakland will be at the Park and thousands will cross the Bay to see a show for 25 cents which could cost them a dollar in San Francisco. A return ticket costs only 25 cents.

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

The New York Dispatch says:

Mr. R. W. Butler, the capable manager of the Union Square Theatre, withdraws from the management on or about the first of June. He will take the Vokes Family to the Boston Globe Theatre for a time, and then go on a traveling tour with them. We hope that Mr. Butler will not long be absent from the management of a place of amusement in this city, as he has exhibited an enterprise which recommends it to the Union Square, and has furnished variety performances which have been enjoyable and refined.

Miss Carlotta Patti has declined to accept the very liberal offer made her to take part in the Boston Jubilee. The songstress was heard most lately at the San Carlo Theatre in Naples, and the Pungolo newspaper gives the measure of her success in that city by the assurance that "though the Neapolitans had listened at the San Carlo to the celebrities of the world, they never enjoyed such divine singing as that of Patti."

Mr. J. K. Emmett goes to Europe, where he will remain one year, during which time his play of "Fritz" is to be re-written by the arch-plagiarist, Andrew Halliday.

Mr. John E. Owens, the famous comedian, intends shortly to quit the stage and retire to his farm at Townsonton, Maryland, where in the quiet of rural life he will become a veritable "Solon Shingle."

An Italian opera season was commenced on the 16th at the Varieties Theatre, New Orleans, the company including Mme. Mariotti, Mme. Corani and Signor Baccei.

Mr. Arthur Cheney, of the Globe Theatre, Boston, was recently presented with a handsome goblet, valued at $1,500, by his numerous friends and admirers.

New York is dull in the way of amusements at present. The Dramatic News says:

That summer is upon us is plainly evident in the lack of novelty in the programmes of our various places of amusements. The present may, not inappropriately, be termed the tail end of the amusement season. What there is, however, can be witnessed with pleasure, for although we have had a few hot days, the evenings have been cool and enjoyable. The majority of the bill of fare is what may be strict y termed legitimate. At Booth's we have "Richard III.;" at Wallack's, "London Assurance"; at the Fifth Avenue, "Article 47"; and the pantomime at the Olympic can in its own sphere lay claim to being well up in the legitimate scale.

The close of the season at the Fifth Avenue is announced for June 15th..... Albert W. Aiken, in his play of the "Witches of New York," was the attraction at the Bowery Theatre..... The Thirty-fourth Street Theatre was opened on the 18th under the management of Sam Ryan. Mr. E. Eddy, the favorite East Side actor, was the star, and 'Damon and Pythias" the play..... The Vokes Family continue to appear in their specialty of "The Belles of the Kitchen," at the Union Square Theatre. Mrs. James A. Oates Comic Opera Troupe commence an engagement here on June 3d. They were engaged for the summer at Niblo's..... The new faces at the Theatre Comique were Miss Dora Dawson, the double-voiced voiced vocalist, and Austin and Hess, skaters. A burlesque on Daly's play of "Article 47" was the closing piece. The new play and panorama of "Chicago" are definitely announced for June 3d. Charles R. Thorne, Jr., has been engaged for the leading part in it..... W. S. Gilbert's fairy comedy of the "Palace of Truth," mounted in magnificent style, will probably be the opening piece of the new Niblo's Garden in September next. It will most likely be produced under the personal supervision of the author, Mr. Gilbert having been made a very tempting offer to come to this country.

Stuart Robson has just closed an engagement with Mr. Daly, for next season, for the Grand Opera House, New York.

The following pleasing paragraph, appears in the Dramatic News' Boston intelligence:

Dick Carrol performed one week at the Howard Athenæum, and was discharged at noon on Saturday last. Cause—insolence to the manager.

Charley Howard, the jolliest old darkey on the stage, is at the Front-street Theatre, Baltimore.

Aimee commenced a season of five nights at Ford's Opera House, Baltimore, on the 27th.

Joe Murphy is playing "Help," in Chicago.

Ole Bull, the violinist, leaves for Norway on June 9th.

Mr. John McCullough

Has volunteered for Hardie's benefit at the Metropolitan Theatre, Sunday evening.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter beat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
Then 'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream:
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three-hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

"FIGARO" ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

Still we repeat FIGARO'S motto, "Here, there and everywhere." We shall publish extra editions of FIGARO to the number of 100,000 copies to accompany Emerson's California Minstrels and be distributed in every city in the East in which they play—Salt Lake City, Omaha, Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, and others, right through to New York. A limited number of advertisements will be taken for his extra edition. They must be sent in immediately. The first edition will serve as the programme in Sacramento and Virginia City, Nev.

Wicked Waste.

Somebody describing the Woodhull Convention in New York says that at the close "she was in ecstasy, and so was her sister, Miss Claflin. Her face beamed under her high-crowned Neapolitan black hat. She shook hands with the gentlemen enthusiastically. The ladies kissed her and embraced her, kissed each other, and kissed her again. I never before saw so much kissing and hugging in public, nor, for that matter in private either.

Because these ladies believe in free love is no reason why they should waste it. To carry out their principles fully they should bestow their kisses where they are appreciated.

In Prussia, about seventy-two individuals, on an average, are killed by lightning every year.

A Connecticut man rolls in wealth accumulated in the business of manufacturing "genuine relics from the Holy Land."

Supper Parties.

A man eats breakfast because he is hungry; so often he hurries over his dinner, but supper he enjoys. All enjoy a supper at the BIVALVE, 640 Market street, three doors below Kearny. There they find the coolest little private rooms up-stairs, the finest oysters and the best of everything. W. Spreen started the BIVALVE seven years ago, and it is to-day the most popular oyster house in San Francisco.

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel Building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

The "Wheeler & Wilson" Sewing Machine manufactured every minute. The Company's factory covers 14 acres, employing 2,000 persons. Over [600,000 now in use; 100,000 more of "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, make it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely

Family Pets.

We are informed by an exchange that a rhinoceros can be purchased for $10,000, and that a pair of Bengal tigers will cost about $7000. This is an interesting item of news for families in want of pets. If we may be permitted to offer advice to purchasers, we would recommend them to buy the rhinoceros. The price is higher, we know. It seems most expensive; and a rhinoceros playing about on the parlor floor with the children, and running up and down stairs, and frisking about and barking, would be in a certain sense inconvenient if the house was small. The larger portion of the family, we should presume, would find themselves less crowded if they should stand out in the yard and watch the fun through the window. But it is probable that the actual amount of discomfort would be larger, as the ultimate expense would be, if you bought the tigers. The only man that we ever knew who had a tiger in his house associated with that tiger for only eight hours, and the man spent that time roosting upon the chandelier until the animal could be shot. He always regarded that time as wasted. Hired girls have a decided aversion to living in families who encourage tigers; and if you drive your servants off with the accustomed spoons and table-linen, and count in the cost of burying what remains of the baby after the tiger has lunched off of it, and the market value of the chop that will probably be bitten from your own leg, you will see that the rhinoceros is the cheaper.

A Narrow Escape.

During a class-meeting held several years since by the Methodist brethren of a Southern village, Brother Jones went among the colored portion of the congregation. Finding there an old man notorious for his endeavor to serve God on the Sabbath and Satan the rest of the week, he said:—

"Well, Brother Dick, I'm glad to see you here! Haven't stole any turkeys since I saw you last, Brother Dick?"

"No, no, Brudder Jones; no turkeys."

"Nor any chickens, Brother Dick?"

"No, no, Brudder Jones; no chickens."

"Thank the Lord, Brother Dick! That's doing well, my brother!" said Brothor Jones, leaving Brother Dick, who immediately relieved his overburdened conscience by saying to a near neighbor, with an immense sigh of relief: "Ef he'd a said ducks, he'd a had me!"

Always Smoking.

Mount Hood, Oregan, is smoking again. It is proposed that it be called Mount Grant—if Grant is lucky enough to get elected again.

A Lafayette man couldn't light the lamp, though he used every tooth in his wife's hair comb for matches. But there was an explosion next morning that the kerosene wasn't responsible for.

A Virginia paper says: "The Governor is about to commission four hundred colonels of militia, that being the number of Virginians over twenty-one who have no titles already."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
The 'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Clever Little Boy.

A blind musician stood in one of the principal streets performing on his instrument, when a little boy was observed to take up his position by the side of the poor, afflicted mendicant, and, with cap in hand, solicit alms from passers-by. After receiving a few pence, he turned the street corner, and quietly moved off with the money, leaving the musician actively continuing his performance on the cheery flageolet. Such is life.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

The Alhambra.

A great programme has been prepared for to-night by Simmons & Slocum's Minstrels. It comprises a first part of beautiful ballads, choruses, comic songs and original jokes; an olio in which Sheridan & Mack will present their original sketch entitled "Courtship;" the farce of "Micawber's Last Dodge," in which J. Robinson, Lew Simmons, Sam Rickey and Add Ryman will take part; Eddy Fox in his wonderful imitations, Welch and Rice in "Senegambian Gambols." The Ethiopian sketch of "Uncle Eph's Dream; or, Life on the Old Plantation" will be played as an afterpiece.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night the great Maggie Mitchell will appear for the first time in California in her original impersonation of Fanchon. The management announce that in spite of the immense expense of this engagement there will be no advance in prices. The free list must however be entirely abolished with the exception of the Press. Seats may be secured six days in advance. To bring such a star as Maggie Mitchell to California extraordinary inducements had to be offered, but we doubt not that the management will reap the reward of the enterprise they have displayed.

California Theatre.

To-night Lawrence Barrett will make his reappearance at this theatre after an absence of two years. "Hamlet" will be played on this occasion and for one night only. To-morrow "Richelieu" will be presented. "Rosedale," Wednesday and Thursday, and "The Man O'Airlee" on Friday and Saturday. The preparations for the production of "Julius Cæsar" are already commen

Bella Union.

The entertainment given at this pioneer theatre draws crowded houses. The bill for to-night is an excellent one. Miss Josephine, the popular dansense, is reengaged; J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong appear in new Dutch acts; M'lle Marie Gaugain performs a terpsichorean medley which is very attractive; other entertainments are given, and the performance concludes with with the spectacular play of "The Naiad Queen."

American Theatre.

There were gay times at this lively theatre on Saturday night and again last night; the acts of "Nitro-Glycerine," "Black Statue," "Othello and Macbeth," "Plantation Scenes before the War," were rattled off capitally, and "The Classical Statues," under the direction of Miss May Leroy were much admired. The same bill will be presented to-night.

San Francisco Circus.

The Pavilion on Jackson street was thronged on the occasion of the matinee on Saturday, at the evening performance, and again last night. The performances of Jem Mace and his talented assistants, Pooley Mace and Billy Edwards, have created a veritable furore. All will appear to-night in connection with the most varied circus performance ever given in this city. There will be a matinee performance on Wednesday.

City Gardens.

Thousands joined with the Knights of Pythias in their festival on Saturday afternoon and evening, and enjoyed themselves thoroughly. Yesterday a large crowd attended the picnic of the Emmett Guard. Next Saturday, the Caledonian Club will hold their sixth annual games here, and on Sunday and Monday the "Old-time Miners of California" will turn the gardens into a mining district and illustrate of the days '49. A description of their intended doing appear in another column.

Capt. Badger's Grand Central Park, Oakland.

Boats and cars were thronged yesterday with the crowds going to those delightful pleasure grounds A splendid entertainment was given by the Matthews Family. It was preceeded by a thrilling ascension on a rope 300 feet in length, stretched to the top of the Pavilion. The crowd dispersed well pleased with their afternoon's amusement, resolved to pay another visit to Badger's Grand Central Park.

Miss Viola A. Pomeroy's Farewell Concert.

Miss Viola A. Pomeroy will give a farewell concert at Pacific Hall on Tuesday evening, in which she will be assisted by artists, amateurs and friends. Miss Pomeroy intends leaving for the East. Among those who have volunteered for the occasion, are Signora G. Bianchi, Miss Annie McKenzie, Miss Helen Dingeon, Signor E. Bianchi, Signor Carmini Morley, Signor L. Contini and many others, including a full chorus of ladies and gentlemen from the choral societies of San Francisco, under the direction of Signor Carmin Morley.

Stage Grammar.

Away down South, during the war, there was a strolling company of actors doing a certain blood-and-thunder drama in one of the little dead towns then to be found on the line of the main railroad in Georgia. In one of the scenes of a little comedy which preceded the tragedy, the lover pulled a rosebud out of his trousers, and showed it to his hated rival, saying, "I tuck her to the kerridge, I roped her in, and she gin me this as a memento." The effect on the party who heard it was very convulsive. Afterward, though, in the tragedy, this gifted knight of the buskin had occasion, as the "Duke," to be approached by a certain "Lord," and informed of the death of the heroine. Upon being told of his friend's death, he gulped down a sob and said, "I knowed it, my Lord, and when he died I was appointed her gardeen." The effect "may be better imagined than described." An old playgoer who was present swore it was the richest thing he had ever heard in his life."

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURING the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmates.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines; for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, or the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of the rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have replaced the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above —so crowded, indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 80, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 85, 5 machines, viz.: 2 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $30 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary style—"regardless of clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "no transit glories mundi" still for all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading asound us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and grasping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest resulting in the old hearding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune April 23.

THE LATEST INVENTION

THE GREAT

Lightning Ink Eraser

Patented by Mr. J. W. Tallman Jan. 16, 1872.

For the use of lawyers, merchants, bookkeepers, and the writing community in general, is used instead of a knife or scraper for erasing from paper and parchment, in order to correct or rectify a mistake or clean off a blot, without injury whatever to the printer's ink upon printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bill or ruling upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, and leaving the paper of an even smooth surface, and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the use of this valuable and useful article you can rectify a mistake or blot without taking the pen holder from your hand; it is done in an instant, and the writer is ready to write upon again. The old way of scratching the ink not only takes out the ink, but spoils the surface of the paper, and the ink will spread and blot when written over again. Also in case of blot upon any printed form you can erase it off without spoiling your form. It is done with a knife or scraper. It also removes stains made by ink, fruit, iron-rust, etc., from cotton, linen, and the finest laces, without the least injury to any goods that water will not hurt; therefore it is invaluable to all, from a school boy to a bank, for erasing ink from paper and parchment; and to every housewife for cleansing stains from linens and laces. IT IS ENDORSED BY EVERY ONE who sees it.

DIRECTIONS.—To remove ink from paper and parchment, dip the end of the penholder in the bottle and apply, WITHOUT RUBBING, and the ink has disappeared, absorb the fluid with blotter.

When the ink has been written for years, it will be necessary to make two or three applications of the eraser, and each time not failing to absorb the fluid with blotting paper, before applying a fresh supply of the liquid, rapidly evaporates, and for this reason the bottle must be kept corked.

To remove stains from Laces, etc., dip the stained part into the fluid, then rinse in clean water.

For sale by all Stationers and Druggists in town and country. Price 50 cents per bottle.

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER'S PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIFIC COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and then ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from the profession, and spend the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from those suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, where he spent a year with its wards, and introduced himself of all the new methods of treatment in this celebrated institution, and then give a few years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, cor. Jackson and Kearny streets, where for the future he will devote his practice as a SPECIALIST, confining himself in the cure of all cases brought under his notice. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and scientific treatment and moderate charges to all."

Very Sad.

The admirers of Signor Mario, says the Athenæum, will learn with painful interest that he has deemed it necessary to apologize for his engagement at the Zarzuela Opera House at Madrid, in a letter addressed to the Correspondencia. He says that necessity alone has compelled him to remain on the lyric stage: he has incurred large losses by the failure of some firms in Florence, with whom he had deposited his fortune. This is, indeed, a sad ending of his brilliant professional life.

We hope that under these circumstances the public will honor all Signor Mario's notes, and that he will soon earn enough to enable him to enjoy that ease which he has worked so long to earn.

A New Artist.

The following paragraph is going the rounds of the press in California:—

The popular superstition that overturning the salt is unlucky, originated in a picture of the last supper by Leonardo de Ninel, in which Judas Iscariot is represented as overturning the salt.

Leonardo de Ninel is a pretty name, but it is too bad to rob Leonardo da Vinci of his masterpiece.

A Novelty.

An Exchange says:—

Lowell, Mass., has a pretty feminine druggist whose soda-water fountain is exhausted a dozen times a day by the copious libations of the foaming fluid indulged in by the young men doing business in the vicinity.

This druggist, who is pretty feminine, seems to have a pretty masculine class of customers.

Where is that "Kid?"

The Washington Critic says:

California puts forward an infant phenomenon, aged 8, who has learned all of Shakespeare's plays by heart, though he has not learned to read. How he did it is not explained.

We should like to have the address of this infant phenomenon.

Woodward's Garden.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experiences, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

The Company's factory covers 14 acres, employing 2,000 person Over [600,000 now in use; 100,000 more o "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other making the lock-stitch. W. M. Stoddard, General Agent for the Pacific Coast, 427 Montgomery street, San Francisco. O

Hair Jewelry made to Order.

The Arcadian Club.

The disaffected members of the Lotus Club organized a new club on the 14th ult., to be called the "Arcadian," with rooms at No. 52 Union place. The meeting was attended by many eminent representatives of literature, the drama, music and art, as well as by gentlemen of high standing in what is known as the business portion of the community. A constitution was then adopted and an Executive Council of twenty-one persons, as follows: Representatives of the Non-professional Element—Henry G. Stebbins, Albert Weber, G. W. Carleton, Henry Clews, Thomas Hall and T. E. Baker. Representatives of Journalism—Andrew C Wheeler, J. M. Bundy, L. Israels, Parke Godwin, George Howe and Myron A. Cooney. Representatives of Music and the Drama—Edwin Booth, Mark Smith, George Bristow, Lawrence Barrett and J. H. Magonigle. Representatives of the Pictorial Art—Arthur Lumley, J. Q. A. Ward, C. L. Tiffany and E. Moron. The council has power to elect from its members the president, vice-president, corresponding and recording secretaries and treasurer of the club. The members of the Executive Council are elected for a term of five years.

The Style in Which its Done.

It is wonderful what taste and art will accomplish. Some of the most beautiful things in the world are made out of the most inexpensive materials. Instance the linen suits at the White House, which are so fashionable. Can costly silks or gorgeous satins present a more beautiful appearance than these simple yet elegant costumes? So very much depends upon the style in which a dress is made. The White House suits are charming; clumsily made imitations are abominable.

Same Here.

A New York exchange says: "At Naples first-rate opera is as cheap as the circus here." In San Francisco people won't pay a cent more for Italian Opera than they will for circus performances, and grumble because they can't get it first-class at that price.

Dew Tell!

The Alta says that in the play of "Julius Cæsar," to be produced at the California Theatre, "even the forum is to be the size of an ordinary house!" We suppose when "The Merchant of Venice" is produced, the "rialto" will be the size of a church.

Very Impolitic.

It is very indiscreet of Horace Greely now he is running for office, to allow the Tribune to go for the milkmen and expose the adulteration of milk. He should remember that milkmen have votes. Perhaps he doesn't care.

Good Use of the Mitten.

A Charles City, Iowa, youth recently told the object of his affections that if she refused him he would blow his brains out. She kindly gave him the mitten and told him to keep them in the thumb of it.

A middle-sized boy, writing a composition on "Extremes," remarked that we "should endeavor to avoid extremes, especially those of wasps and bees."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Metropolitan Theatre.

A splendid audience was present last night when Miss Maggie Mitchell, who is, perhaps, the most widely-known actress on the American stage, made her first appearance in California. She received a warm greeting on making her entree as the eccentric Fanchon. Miss Maggie Mitchell is the original of this character in America, the part and play having been written for her from Geo. Sand's novel. Her Fanchon owes its charm to being a most natural delineation of a personage not to be found in Geo. Sand's novel, but one that is familiar in some of its characteristics to thousand in the United States. It abounds in those delightful touches of nature which disarm criticism and is adorned by evidences of art which demand the respect of the critic. Nothing could be more effective than some of Miss Maggie Mitchell's poses; they are a series of dramatic pictures. Her simulation of grief, indignation, shame and rage are remarkably fine, and the manner in which she represented Fanchon striving to speak calmly while sobs choked her utterance was wonderfully effective. In the scene at the Maypole where Fanchon turns round on the rabble pursuing her, Miss Maggie Mitchell made a great effect, awakening a rather cold audience to positive enthusiasm. It is well enough, we suppose, to say Miss Maggie Mitchell in this part was past beyond the reach of criticism; it is easy to say, has been said often, and it is untrue. A great deal of the hair business in the first act might be cut—not the hair; that is beautiful—but the waving it about, running the fingers through it, etc., there is somewhat too much of it. Then again Miss Mitchell sometimes speaks too fast and becomes indistinct in her utterance. However, her Fanchon is a most remarkable performance, and every man, woman and child in San Francisco will, we should think visit the Metropolitan Theatre at least once during the brief engagement of one of whom they have heard so much, and who has played Fanchon thousands of times; in almost every city in the United States, and always to delighted audiences. J. W. Coggswell was a very good Landry Barbeaud, and W. Simms gave a capital impersonation of the simpleton, Didier, causing much laughter. John Woodard made a fine old Father Barbeaud, and did some excellent acting in the last scene of the play; Maggie Moore played Madelon very naturally and well, and altogether the characters were well filled. "Fanchon" will be played every night until further notice, and at the matinee on Saturday.

California Theatre.

A large audience assembled last night to welcome Lawrence Barrett back to the stage on which he achieved so many triumphs, and where he first presented that Cassius which has since been pronounced by the critics of the Eastern cities one of the most perfect Shakesperian portraitures of the age. Mr. Barrett's Hamlet, as presented last night, did not differ in any material points from that which he has often before presented to the San Francisco public, though here and there are discernible, a few finishing touches which study and experience have enabled him to add during the past two years. Miss Rose Evans played Ophelia charmingly, a more interesting delineation of this character could scarcely be desired. With this exception the cast was the same as on the occasion when John McCullough last played Hamlet. Mr. Barrett received a call at the end of each act, and at the close of the play came before the curtain, and in a brief speech thanked the audience for their kindly welcome. "Richelieu" will be presented to-night with Mr. Barrett as the Cardinal. Miss Helen Tracy will play Julie de Mortimer. "Divorce" will be produced next week.

The Alhambra.

The new bill performed at the Alhambra Theatre was quite a success, as was proved by the liberal applause bestowed by the audience on all the acts. "Micawber's Last Dodge" is very amusing, and Billy Sweatnam won new laurels by his capital impersonation of Uncle Eph Clawson, in the sketch of "Uncle Eph's Dream; or, Life on the Old Plantation." The same bill will be presented this evening.

Bella Union.

The Vivian Medley Dance, introducing "Ten Thousands Miles Away," and other airs, is a great feature in the bill and M'lle Marie Gangain receives much applause. Miss Jennie Johnson is a great favorite; Mat Kelly and Harry Sinclair do a good act entitled "Canvassing for Horace Greeley;" Miss Ethel Stanley sings "Robert toi que j'aime," splendidly; and J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong are great in Dutch acts, and "The Naiad Queen" terminates a capital performance.

American Theatre.

An immense array of names appears on our first page, and all the popular artists there mentioned will take part in the capital programme prepared for this evening. There is always plenty of fun at the American theatre.

San Francisco Circus.

To-night is the last but two of the engagement of Jem Mace, Pooley Mace and Billy Edwards. The science of self-defense is fully illustrated by the glove fights, and the faces of the contestants are not pounded into a jelly. The Mathews Family and all the other stars will appear. To-morrow there will be a matinee at half-past two. To-night Dorr, Worland, and Master Johnny Cooke will perform one of the most thrilling feats ever accomplished. It was privately rehearsed last night and certainly surpasses anything in the gymnastic line ever before presented. It can scarcely be described; it is a combination of the swinging trapeze and horizontal bar. It will certainly cause a sensation.

Capt. Badger's Grand Central Park, Oakland.

Boats and cars were thronged yesterday with the crowds going to these delightful pleasure grounds A splendid entertainment was given by the Matthews Family. It was preceded by a thrilling ascension on a rope 300 feet in length, stretched to the top of the Pavilion. The crowd dispersed well pleased with their afternoon's amusement, resolved to pay another visit to Badger's Grand Central Park.

City Gardens.

Thousands joined with the Knights of Pythias in their festival on Saturday afternoon and evening, and enjoyed themselves thoroughly. Yesterday a large crowd attended the picnic of the Emmett Guard. Next Saturday, the Caledonian Club will hold their sixth annual games here, and on Sunday and Monday the "Old-time Miners of Stage Illumination.

How dull and dreary the stage appeared in the days when a row of candles furnished the only light, and a "candle-snuffer" was one of the attaches of every theatre! Coal oil is but a sorry substitute for gas, and often gas is of such a bad quality that the light thrown on the stage is yellow and unpleasing. A great improvement was evident in the lighting of the Alhambra Theatre on Saturday night; house and stage were blazing with light and the audience looked round to see if they could discover hidden reflectors, extra "sun-lights," or other illuminating apparatus. The explanation of this brilliant light is very simple, it was furnished by good gas—not smoky, heavy coal gas, but the spirit, the ethereal essence of California petroleum, white, dazzling, and bright as sunlight. The Metropolitan Gas Company, on Friday, put their pipes into this theatre and will henceforth supply the gas. The public can draw comparisons between the light the Metropolitan Gas Company furnish and that of other days—or nights. Maguire's Opera House is now lighted with this new illuminating agent and the effect will be seen when it is opened to the public. Other theatres will doubtless follow the example of those abovementioned on observing the vast improvement in light and calculating the saving in expense consequent on the use of the new gas.

The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURING the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines: for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, or the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price in exchange for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have a chance of a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 89, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in sympathy and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "sic transit glor a mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a ball down on a town and beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly abelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

In spite of the disagreeable weather, a large audience witnessed Miss Maggie Mitchell's second performance of Fanchon. Having got the measure of the house as regards his accoustics, her voice was heard to much better advantage than on the first night. Seats are engaged many nights in advance. "Fanchon" will be played until further notice. Ex Governor Stanford and C. P. R. R. party and ladies were present to witness Miss Maggie Mitchell's wonderful impersonation of Fanchon last evening.

The Alhambra.

Three of the brightest and most amusing acts ever produced will be played this evening after a capital first part performance; they are "Courtship," by Sheridan and Mack; "Micawber's Last Dodge," in which J. Robinson, Lew Simmons, Sam Rickey and Add Ryman will appear, and "Uncle Eph's Dream," by Billy Sweetnam and the whole company. Welch and Rice will appear in their grotesque dances, Eddy Fox in his wonderful violin performance, and, altogether, a great bill will be presented.

California Theatre.

"Richelieu" was performed last night before a good audience, and Lawrence Barrett gave a scholarly de ineation of the character of the King-Cardinal. Miss Helen Tracy was very pleasing as Julie Mortimar; Henry Edwards gave a fine representation of De Baradas; John Wilsen was a good De Maupra, and the other characters were well filled. To night the ever popular play of "Rosedale" will be presented.

Bella Union.

Miss Jennie Johnson in serio-comic songs; Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin in new Dutch acts; M'lle Marie Gaugain in a medley dance; Marie Zoel in song and dance, and many others will appear to-night. "The Naiad Queen" concludes the entertainment.

American Theatre.

Fanny Webster causes much fun by her comic songs; the sweet ballads of Miss Eva Silva are much admired; Clara Starr shines in character songs, and many amusing acts are presented nightly.

San Francisco Circus.

To-night is the seventh of the engagement of Jem Mace, who will appear in his great sparring exhibition. There never was such a circus as that now occupying the lot on Jackson street. Before one sensation has died out, another is presented which equals or even surpasses it. The new mid-air feat by Messrs. Dorr and Worland, is one of the most thrilling exhibitions ever witnessed, and has set the city wild. It eclipses any gymnastic sensation ever before presented, and will crowd the circus for many evenings.

City Gardens.

Picnics are always in order at the City Gardens. The Sunday School children of St. Paul's German Lutheran Church held a picnic there yesterday To-morrow St. Peter's Sunday School will hold their third annual Picnic; Schmidt & Schlott's celebrated band will furnish the music. On Saturday, June 8th, the Caledonia Club will hold their sixth annual games, when David Mitchell, their chief, offers a wonderful programme and upwards of 50 prizes, all of value, will be awarded. The grounds will be specially prepared for these games, which will be conducted in good old Scottish style. On Sunday and Monday, June 9th and 10th, the Pioneer Miner's Association will hold their first annual Festival, when that part of the Gardens used for entertainments will be converted into a genuine mining camp, with log huts, tents, long-toms, rockers, sluicers, and all the paraphernalia for the miner's use. Prizes will be awarded for all kinds of mining, also a large money prize for the best and quickest flap-jack baker, and the miner who cooks the best mess of pork and beans, and another for the one who accomplishes the feat of washing a "biled" shirt in the most artistic manner. This, no doubt, will be the most novel and amusing out-door exhibition that has ever been given in this city, and all who saw the Miner's Association Parade on the Fourth of July last will be satisfied they will be able to get up some thing worth seeing. A miner's cabin, and a miner's store and gambling tent are already in course of construction.

Benefit of Josh Davis.

To-night Josh Davis, who has quite a reputation in social circles as a comic singer, and has more than once appeared in public, will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit at Platt's Hall. Chas. Vivian, Americus, the infant violinist; E. J. Buckley, and other artists will appear. Josh Davis will on this occasion introduce his live donkey, Jeru-sa-lum. After the concert there will be a social dance.

Miss Pomeroy's Farewell Concert.

The complimentary concert given to Miss Viola Pomeroy at Pacific Ball last night was a decided success. The beneficiary won a hearty encore for "Salut a la France;" Miss McKenzie and Signor Morley received much applause for the style in which they sang a duo from "Attila;" Mr. Makin's fine baritone voice was heard to advantage in "The Mountaineer;" Signor Bianchi was in good voice, and all who took part in the concert acquitted themselves well.

Eaton Stone

The veteran equestrian, and for many years the champion bare-back rider of the world, writes to a friend that he will, during the summer, pay a visit to San Francisco, not professionally, as he has permanently retired from the ring, but to pay his respects to an old and valued friend. He will be welcomed by many an old circus patron.

The Circus.

DEAR FIGARO:—Without desiring to trench upon your valuable space, I hope that a veteran amusement seeker may be permitted to express his convictions through the medium of the universally recognized organ of popular entertainments. Time was, when dramatic actors and actresses held a very low place in public estimation; when the laws of England denounced them as "vagabonds" subject to be cast in jail and made amenable to like penalties that are visited upon vagrants in our time; but similar odium was never attached to circus performers, who, from the days of the Olympian games up to the present period have been regarded with popular favor. The glorious Colosseum of Rome was a Circus, and the chariot races and other ring sports of the Greeks were conducted in the same style of action, over which the gods were supposed to preside, the victors were crowned with laurels and oaken chaplets as testimonials of exceeding merit. Virgil, Homer and other classic writers, have given vivid descriptions of circus performances, which were the chosen amusements of kings and emperors. With the subsidence of Greek and Roman mythology the circus underwent a decline, gradually losing caste until rescued from a long period of popular neglect by the genius, enterprise and determination of a few leading minds within the past forty years. It is now once more restored to something like its original popularity and has become a favorite resort for the most intelligent and refined, as well as the less exacting. I have been a frequent visitor to the sterling recreations provided by Welch, Mann, Rockwell, Dan Rice, "Old Reliable" John Robinson, Chiarini, and others of equal note. I remember well when Mons Letort was imported from the Cirque Olympique Paris, to do the first good bareback riding in the United States. I recall with pleasure the graceful acts of Stickney, and have witnessed the performances of the best troupes ever collected on American soil. Therefore I consider myself a good judge of circus talent. The arrival of John Wil son's co mpany naturally excited my curiosity, and a desire to compare it with its predecessors. Wilson is a veteran caterer and a sound judge of arenic talent. His last effort, however, has been his best and most successful. The company now under his direction is by far the most complete that has ever visited the Pacific Coast. The acts are all legitimate—independent of the adventitious aid derived from anacondas, fat women, or skeleton menageries. Mr. Kingsley's bare-back riding is of the first-class rarely equalled in this or any other country. Worland's somersaults, and the one ofer steeds, are really wonderful, suggesting to the spectator the extreme perfection of acrobatic ability to which the human physique can be trained: nor is his wonder lessened upon beholding the surprising feats of Miss Laurina Matthews. With rare good taste the public is treated to the jokes and quips of three profes-ional jesters, all of them good, the lad Willie Matthews, exhibiting much precocity and much natural humor. In fact the whole of that family is talented. In no one feature is the interest permitted to fail. Each performer seems to have been selected with nice judgment, and sustains his or her part with manifest ability. In nine circuses out of ten the spectator is apt to find a few performers of merit are expected to do duty for the whole company; but it is quite otherwise in this case, the performances being even and well sustained throughout. The trapeze and horizontal bar acts are capitally done, the vaulting and tumbling excellent, and even the trick horses do their part with unusual ability, being probably the best in the world. Another notable feature is the care which Wilson has shown for the comfort and convenience of the public. A roomy, well laid and nicely arranged platform has been erected at considerable expense, and provided with commodious chairs so arranged that all can see and hear without difficulty. He has done himself great credit, and has shown a just appreciation of California audiences—the most exacting in the Union—providing them with much the best circus amusements ever offered in the country. That he will succeed, is beyond a peradventure, the large space being filled to repletion every evening.

Yours truly,
SAN FRANCISCO, May 25th, 1872. SPECTATOR.

A Fruitful Woman.

Recently we published the account of a Connecticut woman who gave birth to one child, and six weeks afterward presented her husband with another. This we thought kind of crowding the babies on her husband. But a woman of Michigan takes the rag off her completely. In the town of Kimball a few weeks since the wife of Joseph Boshaw gave birth to a male infant. Within a week or two thereafter she was up attending to her domestic duties, but in 15 days gave birth to a female infant, and both children are alive and doing well. Now if this woman continues keeping up the production at this rate, in one year of 365 days (we put aside the quarter) Mr. Boshaw will be the father of 24½ children. Imagine Mr. Boshaw being a poor man—we do not know his circumstances—how can he possibly support that number of infants? And if he is unable to engage 24 wet nurses, how is he to keep quiet in the household? Unless he is a millionaire he should at once order his wife to cease this sort of thing before it becomes a confirmed habit; otherwise the people of this country will be called upon to assist him as they were to aid the sufferers by the Chicago fire and other calamaties.

Same Here.

A New York exchange says: "At Naples first-rate opera is as cheap as the circus here." In San Francisco people won't pay a cent more for Italian Opera than they will for circus performances, and grumble because they can't get it first-class at that price.

THE PLACE TO BUY.—If any one in city or country contemplates buying furniture and bedding, they can find no better place than at J. A. Shaber's, 707 Market street, near Third San Francisco. They buy and sell only for cash, and their prices are always very low. Y

If You Want

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURing the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has expended money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having the merits of all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is unjustifiable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines; for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, of the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, on easy payments for their machines.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 80, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 2 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$39 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$21 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "c'est transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading asound us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for these double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mass. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or more jovial than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old Bending days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that its owners have based it upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune

UNKNOWN.
It should NOT be unknown that at the Eureka Shirt Store, 124 Kearny street, can be found a nice line of Shirts, Furnishing Goods and Toilet Articles, at prices that cannot fail to suit the most economical. Half the people in the city trade there now, and the balance ought to.

Bought Him Off.

That's a sensible lover out in Montana. He found that "his dearest and best" kind of cast her eyes favorably upon another fellow, and that other fellow wasn't averse. He didn't get mad and pitch into the girl, nor swear revenge—"scathing, terrible, annihilating revenge"—not much; but he got his rival in a quiet corner, and gave him $50 to withold his attentions. And the rival consented. Now the girl wonders why it is that he does'nt drop in once in a while and talk to her as in the days of yore.

Let us Live Like Goats.

A Welch Clergyman, who preached from the text, "Love one another," gave a national turn to the subject by his illustrating it with an anecdote of two goats who met on the middle of the one-plank bridge that crossed the little stream in their parish. "But did they fight and push each other in the water? O, no! but the one laid himself down while the other stepped over him. Here was love! here was friendship! O! my brethern, let us all live like goats!"

Well Enough.

A young Scotch woman, who was thinking of getting married, went to her minister to ask his advice about so important a step. She told him she had an offer of marriage, and wanted his advice. Her minister said he did not know very well what to say to her; but he should remind her of what the the Apostle Paul had said upon that subject: "They that marry do well; but they that marry not do better." "Weel, weel," she said, "I'll awa hame and do weel; let them dae better that like."

"Tell the mistress that I have torn a sheet," said a gentleman lodger to a domestic. "Very well, sir, mistress will put it down as rent."

Woodward's Garden.

Next Sunday, grand production of "La Battaile de Solerino," by fifty musicians, drum corps, buglers, cannon, bombs, musketry and troops. Skating every day.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

A "Wheeler & Wilson" Sewing Machine manufactured every minute. The Company's factory covers 14 acres, employing 2,000 person Over 600,000 now in use; 100,000 more o "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other making the lock-stitch. W. M. Stoddard, General Agent for the Pacific Coast, 427 Montgomery street, San Francisco. G

Whining.

There is a class of people in this world, by no means small, whose prominent peculiarity is whining. They whine because they are poor; or, if rich, because they have no health to enjoy riches; they whine because it is too shiny; they whine because they have "no luck," and others' prosperity exceeds theirs; they whine because some friends have died and they are living; they whine because they have aches and pains; and they whine no one can tell why. Now we would like to say a word to these whining persons. First, stop whining—it is no use, this everlasting complaining, fretting, fault-finding and whining. Why, you are the most deluded set of creatures that ever existed. Do you know that it is a well settled principle of physiology and common sense that these habits are more exhausting to nervous vitality than almost any other violation of physiological law? And do you not know that life is pretty much as you make it? You can make it bright bright and sunshiny, or you can make it dark and shadowy. This life is only meant to discipline us—to fit us for a higher and purer state of being. Then stop whining and fretting, and go on your way rejoicing.

Puck Redivivus.

From the following which we clip from an exchange we learn that another paper called "Puck" has been started. The San Francisco Puck, with its beautiful lithographic engravings by Nahl, wood engravings by Loomis and carricatures by E. Jump is still remembered as one of the brightest comic papers ever started in the United States:—

Puck, a St. Louis paper, comes out with portraits of Greeley with a big pen and Grant with a big sword, accompanied by the conundrum, "Which will prove the mightier the sword or the pen?"

The Next Thing.

A deacon who keeps a grocery store having instructed his clerk, when out of a desired article, to call the attention of the customer to the next nearest thing, was a little astonished when his pastor called and enquired for new molasses, to hear the clerk say, "We have no new molasses, but we have some nice new rum."

Not Wanted.

"I want to buy a sewing machine," said an old lady entering a shop. "Do you wish a machine with a feller?" enquired the shopman. "Goodness, no!" she exclaimed "Don't want any of your fellers about me."

The master of ceremonies at a recent St. Louis funeral announced, "The corpse's cousins will now come forward."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

It is situated on Washington street, No. 536, a few doors below Montgomery. H. "Haven't got much appetite, but could eat something nice?" Then you should go at 12 o'clock to the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, established in 1849. Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

Lawrence Barrett is immensely popular in San Francisco. The public enjoy his Hamlet; the more æsthetic portion of the community delight in his representation of Cassius; but in no character does he give so much pleasure to the majority of our theatre-goers as in that of Elliot Gray in "Rosedale." This play was excellently well performed last night, Mr. Barrett gaining immense applause in the leading role, and being ably supported by Owen Marlowe as Matthew Leigh, Miss Helen Tracy as Rosa Leigh, Mrs. Judah as Tabitha Stork, W. A. Mestayer as Col. May, and others in the many characters of the play. John Wilson excelled in the character of the villain, Miles McKeana, giving a very powerful impersonation of that character, and J. C. Williamson caused much amusement as Bunbury Cobb. The scene in the glen was beautiful as ever, and hearty applause testified the admiration of the audience. "Rosedale" will be played again to-night.

Metropolitan Theatre.

For years the public of San Francisco have longed to see Miss Maggie Mitchell as Fanchon. Now she is with us every one goes to see her, and few who ever go to a theatre will miss the the opportunity of witnessing the performance of one of whom they have heard and read so much. "Fanchon" can only be played for a limited number of nights, as it is the intention of the management to present Miss Maggie Mitchell in as many characters as possible during her brief engagement.

The Alhambra.

The lovers of good vocal music flock to the Alhambra Theatre to enjoy the beautiful solos and choruses in the first part; and those who go for fun are well amused by the performance of E. N. Slocum, Lew Simmons, Billy Sweatnam, Sam Hickey and Add Ryman. Welch and Rice are immense in grotesque dances, Eddy Fox gives a wonderful performance on the violin, and the new acts are all very popular.

Bella Union.

In comparing the entertainment of variety theatres in other cities with that presented by the Bella Union Theatre, San Francisco, we are struck with the superiority of the last-named place of amusement over most others in variety of performance and number of talented artistes engaged. M'lle Marie Gaugain is a star of the first magnitude; J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong can scarcely be excelled in their Dutch acts; John Tuers is hard to equal in burlesque dances, and all are good in their respective specialties. A great bill will be presented to night.

American Theatre.

Among the acts to be performed to-night are the laughable ones of "Nitro-Glycerine," "Othello and Macbeth," and "Plantation Scenes Before the War." The Classical Statues, under the supervision of Miss May Leroy, are a popular feature of the entertainment.

San Francisco Circus.

The new act by Messrs. Dorr, Worland and the Midget may well be termed "the sensation of the 19th century." Nothing like it has ever been seen before; women shudder, and even men feel scared at its desperate daring. This, together with the appearance of Omar Kingsley in the character of Ella Zoyara, in which he mystified the world for ten years, and the other grand performances in the arena, should be and undoubtedly will be sufficiently attractive to crowd the pavilion for many nights to come.

Capt. Badger's Grand Central Park, Oakland.

There will be great attractions at these beautiful grounds on Sunday. Our readers will find them fully set forth in another column. The Lescelles Brothers, famous gymnasts, will appear in a varied performance; Miss May Leslie, Edgar Stanley, Miss Lulu Wilson will perform a programme of songs and dances, and Miss Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin will present some of their much-admired Dutch impersonations. After the performances in the Pavilion there will be a grand flight of balloons, a number of large balloons being sent up at the same time. Four bits covers the covers the expense of a trip by boat and rail, and admission to all the entertainments.

Benefit of Josh Davis.

A large crowd assembled in Platt's Hall last night on the occasion of the complimentary benefit to Josh Davis. The programme was a good one and was well carried out. Vivian sang some of his best songs; others, professionals and amateurs, appeared in various specialties, and the beneficiary caused great amusement with his live donkey. Jerusalem. A pleasant social dance wound up the evening's amusement.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Shameful.

A man in Pittsburgh advertises for "one or two steady girls to help on pantaloons." We need not be surprised at the immoraliiy prevailing in that city when such advertisements are suffered to appear in journals professing to be respectable. For the credit of the sex we trust that no decent girl has been induced to apply for such a degrading situation, hard as times are.

A Long Stop.

A Sheriff who was taking two convicts to the State Prison, when the train stopped at Sing Sing, called out: "Step out, gentlemen; fifteen years for refreshments."

THE PRACTICAL LOVER.

I did not purchase for my bride
Rich jeweled rings and costly fans,
But what I thought would be her pride—
A set complete of pots and pans.

I would not win sweet Jennie's love
By golden gifts of magic power;
If she a proper wife should prove
She would prefer some bags of flour.

I did not play with Jennie's heart,
Nor try to fix it were it fickle,
But sent, mistrusting modern art,
A side of pork for her to pickle.

I did not give her rubies red,
To lend her raven hair relief,
But what would charm when we were wed—
A good supply of potted beef.

I did not wanton with her love,
That pined to nestle on my breast,
Just like a drooping, tired dove,
But sent a couch where it could rest.

I did not, when the moon was bright,
Take Jennie out for tranquil walks;
But took—what would more delight—
A dozen each of knives and forks.

I did not send her flowers bright,
Whose brightness, ah! so quickly wanes,
But sent her, in the darkest night,
A set of sheets and counterpanes.

And so at last our little store
Would furnish well an ivied cot,
But then—I should have said before—
She jilted me, and kept the lot.

A Modern Herod.

The Rev. Mr. H—— has a large family of unruly boys, and one of them did something very wrong, but as none of them would confess it, he declared he would whip them all, and then he would be sure to punish the real culprit. Lisping Jimmy, the youngest, retired to a corner and grumbled. "What is that you say?" asked his father. "I thaid," whimpered Jimmy, "that'th juth the way old Herod did.]] He killed all the children, tho that he would be thure to kill Jethuth."

A Moral Journal.

The Call insists that it is a moral journal and never publishes anything improper to be read in families. In yesterday's issue it had an article headed "Dam Demolition. "The Women Taking the Law into Their "Own Hands." We didn't read the article; we wouldn't read one with such a heading. Another thing is, we don't believe that when women take the law into their own hands they make a "dam demolition" of it, as the Call seems to imply.

If You Want

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURING the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines; for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, of the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate riva ry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 331 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above "so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by persons in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 89, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 98, 6 machines, viz.: 2 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 1 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$26 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "e'e transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading asound us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one remedy for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and sense one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy scatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, whereby nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune

THE LATEST INVENT

THE GREAT

Lightning Ink Eras

Patented by Mr. J. W. Tallma Jan. 16, 1872.

For the use of lawyers, merchants, bookkeepers, clerks, and the writing community in general. Used instead of a lance or scraper for erasing from paper and parchment. In order to instantly rectify a mistake or clean off a blot, without injury whatever to the printer's ink upon printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bill-head, ruling upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, and leaving the paper or instrument clean and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the use of this valuable and useful article you can rectify a mistake or blot without taking the pen holder from your hand; it is done in an instant, and the paper is ready to write upon again. The old way of scratching the ink not only takes out the writing but spoils the surface of the paper, and the ink will spread and blot when written over again. But in case of blot upon any printed form you can easily scratch it off without spoiling your form, as is done with a knife or scraper. It also removes stains made by ink, fruit, iron-rust, etc., from cotton, linen, and the finest laces, without the least injury to any goods that water will not touch; therefore it is invaluable to all, from a school boy to a bank, for erasing ink from paper and parchment; and to every housewife for cleansing stains from linens and laces. IT IS ENDORSED BY EVERY ONE who sees it.

DIRECTIONS.—To remove ink from paper and parchment, dip the end of the penholder in the bottle and apply, WITHOUT RUBBING, until the ink has disappeared. Absorb the fluid with blotter.

When the ink has been written for years, it will be necessary to make two or three applications of the eraser, and each time not failing to absorb the fluid with blotting paper, before applying a fresh, as the vitality of the liquid rapidly evaporates, for this reason the bottle must be kept corked.

To remove stains from Laces, etc., dip the stained part into the fluid, then rinse in clean water.

For sale by all Stationers and Druggists in town and country. Price 50 cents per bottle.

A sheriff's officer is a good-natured fellow after all; he's always happy to serve you.

Marriage makes the husband and wife—one; the query, after three months of it, is, though, which is the one?

The Marchioness of Bute should be very glad to know that if—say accidents—happen by and by, they will all be little Butics.

What is the difference between the hurried reading of a fast young lady of the Period and the painstaking reading of a Blue Stocking? The one reads for pastime and the other for the future.

Mrs. Malaprop, hearing that the Centaur who educated Achilles was half horse and half man, wants to know whether the discentaurs, who are trying their best to make Christian education impossible, are half man and half ass.

A fool cannot draw beer properly—It should be drawn with a head.

To make jam tart—Leave out the sugar when you preserve your plums.

Out of Season.

The Chicago Post says: "We would respectfully advise the five-legged calf, two-headed baby, the wild man, the female pincushion, and our other friends, to retire into the huge cage into which the fortuitous rabbit lures the rural hunter, and rest quietly among the bones and rusty armor invariably found therein, till about the 10th of November next. We really can't find space for them."

Pleasing Amusement.

The Harbor Police have some amusement to cheer them while carrying out their arduous duties. When they find a dead Chinaman in the bay they have great fun with his corpse. It doesn't hurt the Chinaman and it amuses them.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other making the lock-stitch. W. M. Stoddard, General Agent for the Pacific Coast, 427 Montgomery street, San Francisco.

Sour Grapes.

It is a custom in a certain school to read a moral lesson each morning, after which the teacher questions the scholars concerning what has been read. Recently the lesson stated that a teacher had told his class not to touch the fruit which grew in a neighboring orchard, but to wait until it was ripe, and they should all have a share of it. They all disobeyed the command with the exception of a little girl, she alone refraining from touching the fruit. The question asked by the teacher was: "Which did right the little girl or the others of the class? The unanimous answer was, "The little girl." The next question was, "Why did not the little girl also take the fruit?" This appeared to puzzle the class, and for a long time no one was ready to answer. At length a little fellow held up his hand, which was equivalent to saying he could give the answer. He was told to proceed, when he astonished the teacher by exclaiming, "Pleath thir, she wath too little to reach it."

Valuable Notes.

The New York Tribune says:

Mr. Gilmore has certainly magnificent notions of the money value of music. Here we are told, he has offered M'lle Tietjens £4,800 to sing, during the Boston Festival, two pieces of music each day for twelve consecutive days—that is £200, or about $1,000, a song. We have been trying to determine whether any singing by anybody could be worth this—whether this would not be paying too dearly for the whistle, so to speak—whether the highest notes would not be far too high at such a price; but observing that M'lle Tietjens had declined the offer, we have concluded to think no more of the matter.

M'lle Tietjens having declined the offer, settles the question, we should think. Songs, like everything else, are worth exactly what money they will bring, and Mr. Gilmore has not offered M'lle Tietjens enough.

New Industry.

An exchange has the following:

In several parts of the world they are domesticating the ostrich for the sake of their feathers. We grow sheep for their wool, and why not raise ostrich feathers? Our Agricultural Department got us some camels six years ago, but without much profit. There might be more in these birds. Let the experiment be made.

What has the Alta to say about this new industry? If that paper has an editorial on the subject we have hopes of its introduction into this State. We even think that ostrich eggs might be hatched by setting them under Mother Goose.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,

The Stratford Theatre.

The Theatre, at Stratford-on-Avon, Eng., was closed on May 7th, before being pulled down, in order to restore the great garden of Shakspeare to its original form and size. The generosity and energy of Mr. J. O. Halliwell, having secured the purchase of the whole plot of ground once occupied by the poet, the gardens of Shakspeare will hereafter form a public property. The house which Shakspeare bought, and in which he passed the last years of his life, was pulled down by Parson Gastrell about a century ago, and only the foundations remain. The theatre was opened 42 years ago, with "As You Like It," and the closing performance consisted of "Hamlet." Mr. Wybert Rousley enacted the hero; Mrs. Rousley, Ophelia, T. A. Palmer, Polonius, and Hector Mackenzie, Claudius. A special programme was prepared for the occasion, with appropriate quotations from Shakspeare around the margin, and thus the Stratford Theatre passed away, with pleasant remembrances from all who were present, and with fitting rites and obseques as its last curtain fell.

Exchange of Compliments.

Punch calls the following dialogue between two elderly gentlemen (strangers) at an evening party, "gentle overtures toward friendship:"

FIRST STRANGER—I declare, sir, that women are getting more outrageously de coltay every day. Just look over there at that Prodigious Old Porpoise with the eye-glass!

SECOND STRANGER—Hum—ha—yes! I cannot help thinking she's a more festive looking object than that Funereal Old Frump with the fan!

FIRST STRANGER—The Funereal Old Frump is my Wife, Sir.

SECOND STRANGER—The Prodigious Old Porpoise is mine! Let's go and have some tea.

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Bonifaco of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. Easily Pleased.

Professor Goltz, of Konigsburg, in his experiments upon the nervous centre of frogs, finds that if you take out the brain, and then rub a wet finger down the frog's back, the creature will croak as if pleased. Frogs must be easily pleased.

We know of a better use to put frogs to than that. Cut off their heads, never mind their brains, take out their insides, cut them up in small pieces, stew them in a little Madeira, serve them up on toast and eat them. As they pass into your stomach, you will, if you have any taste, smack your lips "as if pleased." We tried this pleasing experiment yesterday at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, between Montgomery and Kearny; it was quite a success.

The Tuolumne Reunion.

The former residents of Tuolumne county will hold their annual reunion on the 17th, at Badger's Grand Central Park, Oakland. Hon. James W. Coffroth, of Sacramento, will deliver an oration, and other distinguished speakers are expected to be present. No doubt exists but it will be a grand time, that of the commingling of the residents of old time-honored Tuolumne.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Removal.

Newell's Parsgon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

A "Wheeler & Wilson" Sewing Machine manufactured every minute. The Company's factory covers 14 acres, employing 2,000 persons. Over 600,000 now in use; 100,000 more of "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other making the lock-stitch. W. M. Stoddard, General Agent for the Pacific Coast, 427 Montgomery street.

"Is Perjury Committed Every Day?"

The above simple query forms the heading to an article in the New York Dispatch, the editor of which innocently observes:

To the quiet, better portion of our readers the caption of this article may sound unusual and startling. If answered in the affirmative, it undoubtedly is so. But our judges, politicians and many business men know that outright, deliberate perjury is committed every day in Courts, before notaries public and notably in Custom Houses.

We know that perjury is committed every day in the San Francisco Courts, and that a portion our population have no other means of gaining a livelihood than perjury. The business is sadly overdone; there is too much competition. A simple perjury, we are told, is only worth about two and a half dollars, in a case where there is not much property at stake, while even a complicated perjury does not bring the price it should. The Dispatch pretends to believe that one cause of perjury is the manner in which the oath is administered. It instances the following occurrence:

Said a novice on emerging from the custom House, after getting goods out of bond, "Why, I thought I had to swear to something in there!" The reply of the expert was simply stunning. "Of course, you were sworn three times." The audible formula, as follows, had been thrice repeated: "Ub-ub sub rub-b-b-b-b-b eh'll'g." In our courts, high and low, the delivery of the formula is little if any better. The result is, that all who are evil disposed commit perjury, in fact, as the interests of their side of the issue demand.

If the employment of talented elocutionists or reverend clergymen to administer the oath in our courts will diminish perjury, by all means let us have them, but we fear that such would not be the case. Perhaps if it were not so easy for any man to become a lawyer in the United States there would not be so much perjury. Every shyster has a gang of perjurers on whom he can depend to help him win a case. "Is perjury committed every day?" We fancy we hear the ejaculation of one of the gentlemen who hang round Merchant street. "Is it! Oh, chuck me in the gutter!"

Horrible.

We take the following unpleasant paragraph from the Marysville Appeal: "Quite a delegation of Smartsville, Sucker Flat and Timbuctoo bugs are in town." We should'nt take any pleasure in Smartsville, Sucker Flat and Timbuctoo bugs, and simply publish this paragraph for the benefit of Harry Edwards, who might like to get some for his collection.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right." I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Large and highly fashionable audiences continue to flock to the Metropolitan Theatre to witness Miss Maggie Mitchell's impersonation of Fanchon. The part of Didier is now taken by A. T. Jackson, who makes it very amusing. Miss Henrietta Osborne plays the character of Fadet capitally, and Mrs. Frank Rea as Mother Barbeau is excellent. There will be a matinee performed to-morrow, when all the children that the Metropolitan Theatre will hold, should be taken to see "Fanchon."

California Theatre.

"Rosedale" is as popular as ever, as the crowded houses and enthusiastic applause sufficiently prove. The acting of Lawrence Barrett as Elliot Gray, the beautiful scenery, thrilling situations and general excellence of style in which the play is produced, are the subjects of general praise. It will be played to-night and also at the matinee to-morrow, and to-morrow night for the last time.

The Alhambra.

Christy's Minstrels in London have been drawing very large and fashionable audiences every night for a number of years, and still continue to do so. A great feature of their performance is the admirable vocal music, and this also is what makes Simmons & Slocum's Minstrels so popular. The audience always assemble early in order that they may enjoy all the first part. There will be a matinee performance to-morrow, when the full programme which has delighted so many during the week will be performed.

Bella Union.

Mlle Marie Gaussin is very popular in her Vivian medley dance, and also appears to advantage as the lovely Oryssa'que in "The Naiad Queen." Miss Jennie Johnson's songs are much applauded; Mat Kelly and Harry Sinclair cause much fun in the act entitled "Canvassing for Horace Greeley;" Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin are great favorites with the public and a capital entertainment is given. A great bill will be presented on Saturday night.

American Theatre.

A very lively and varied entertainment is given here by Miss May Leroy, Geo. H. Foster, Louise Summers, Eva Silva, Harry Howard, Chris Matthews, and a host of other popular favorites.

San Francisco Circus.

The new programme at the Pavilion in Jackson street is a great success. Omar Kingsley draws thunders of applause as Ella Zoyara in a great female equestrian act; the thrilling sensation feat of Messrs. Dorr, Worland and the Midget astonishes and delights everyone; and the performances of Jem Mace, Pooley Mace and Billy Edwards are much admired. To-morrow there will be a grand matinee performance.

City Gardens.

To-morrow the "Caledonian Club" will hold their sixth annual games, when David Mitchell, their chief, offers a wonderful programme and upwards of 50 prizes, all of value, will be awarded. The grounds will be specially prepared for these games, which will be conducted in good old Scottish style. A crowd will be in attendance.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Heald's Business College.

This College bears the reputation of being the only one on the Pacific Coast where bookkeeping is thoroughly and practically taught, and where all other branches of education are instilled into the minds of our rising generation by the most competent masters from the East. It behoves young men who have been debarred from obtaining a knowledge of bookkeeping to consider the great advantage of becoming accurate accountants, as such can always command a lucrative situation in any portion of the civilized world. Many young men in this city spend more money foolishly during three months than would pay for a thorough course of bookkeeping for the same period. The managers of the College invite the public to visit their institution and gain a knowledge of their system of education.

Pleasant Precautions.

This is "taking time by the forelock" in deadly earnest. A man was recently bitten by a dog in Arnold, Mo., that was supposed to be mad. They took the poor fellow, and after muzzling him heavily, they secured him to the floor, so that if he should happen to go mad they would have him secure. Such treatment as that would make almost any man mad, if he had never heard tell of a dog.

FAREWELL.

And you will come some summer eve,
When wheels the white moon on her track
And hear the plaintive night-bird grieve,
And heed the crickets clad in black;
Alone—not far—a little spell,
And say, "Well, yes, he loved me well;"

And sigh, "Well, yes, I mind me now,
None were so bravely true as he:
And yet his love was tame somehow,
It was so truly true to me,
I wish his patient love had less
Of worship and of tenderness;

"I wish it still, for thus alone
There comes a keen reproach or pain,
A feeling I dislike to own;
Half yearning for his voice again,
Half longing for his earnest gaze,
To know him mine always—always."

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURING the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the sewing machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines: for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, of the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 331 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 80, 4 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 83, 6 machines, viz.: 2 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 2 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The extent of it is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "'o transit gloria mundi" while a fine sect of mankind are growing old and fading asound us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy scratches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly mobs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a week resembling one of those heading days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—(New York Tribune April 18.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—The performances of Miss Maggie Mitchell have during the present week, drawn the most fashionable audiences. The dress circle has every evening presented an extremely brilliant appearance, being perfectly thronged with ladies. "Fanchon" will be played at the matinee to-day, and this evening for the last time. To-morrow evening, Miss Maggie Moore will appear as Jack Sheppard, a character which she assumed at short notice some weeks ago, and which she has since studied. On Monday, Miss Maggie Mitchell will appear in "The Pearl of Savoy."

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—Simmon's and Slocum's Minstrel's will give a matinee performance to-day when they will present the programme which has delighted so many during the week. In the evening the same excellent bill will be presented. Billy Sweatnam will present some of his most heart-rending ballads, which the cruel audience will persist in laughing at; Eddy Fox will give his wonderful imitations on the violin; the screaming act of "Micawber's Last Dodge" will be played, and the performance will conclude with Billy Sweatnam's capital Ethiopian sketch, entitled "Uncle Eph's Dream; or, Life on the Old Plantation."

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—"Rosedale" has drawn large audiences. It is splendidly put on the stage and well played throughout. It will be played at the matinee to-day, and this evening for the last time. On Monday evening Augustin Daly's sensation play of "Divorce," which had such a tremendous run in New York, will be produced. It will be put on the stage with the care that characterizes the production of all new plays at the California Theatre.

BELLA UNION.—An extraordinarily attractive performance will delight the Saturday night patrons of this ne plus ultra of variety theatres. The charming dansense, Miss Marie Gaugain, will appear in a shadow dance; Miss Jennie Johnson in new character songs; J. H. Larkin and Miss Carrie Armstrong in "Dot Little Bunch von Carrots;" Mat Kelly and Harry Sinclair in their great "Decapitation Feat;" Miss Josephine with Mat Kelly in a grand Trial Dance, and many others in varied specialties. The extravaganzá entitled "Adam and Eve," with a grand finale of Shoo Fly and illuminated tableaux, will terminate the performance.

NEW AMERICAN THEATRE. —For a Saturday night's entertainment of rollicking fun, good music and pleasing tableaux, many will go to the American Theatre to-night, and all will be well satisfied at the amusement provided for them.

SAN FRANCISCO CIRCUS AND HIPODROME. —There will be a great matinee performance in the Pavilion on Jackson street at half-past two to day. This evening all the attractions of Ella Zoyara, the thrilling sensation feat by Messrs. Dorr, Worland and the Midget, the Matthews Family, Ducrow, the trained horses, and others too numerous too mention will be presented. In addition to all this Jem Mace, who has been tendered a complimentary benefit by the liberal proprietors, will appear in a set-to with Mr. Bennett, of the Olympic Club. There will be no possibility of obtaining a seat after 8 o'clock, and the whole performance is so good that it is a pity to miss any of the acts. To-morrow evening Jem Mace will appear for the last time in his celebrated Grecian Statues.

ALINE LE FAVRE'S VARIETIES.—Maguire's Opera House will be reopened under the above title on Monday evening by Miss Aline Le Favre, the dashing actress and danseuse, who during her first engagement in this city created a veritable furore. It is the fair manageress's intention to inaugurate a new era in variety entertainments in this city, and present something quite original. The ladies, sixteen in number, in the first part will be dressed, one-half of them in rich white satin with gold fringe and braid, and the other half in red satin similarly trimmed. Johnny Manning, who went East to engage talent, has made arrangements for star performers to follow one another in rapid succession. Among them is Miss Annie Adams, the great serio-comic vocalist, who may be expected in the course of three weeks. The Varieties will open with a strong company, including the favorite ethiopian comedian, Lew Rattler, who has lately returned from New York, where he filled a highly successful engagement at the Theatre Comique and Union Square Theatre; "Americus," the child violinist; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coriell, Miss May Leslie, Miss Maude Brandon, and a host of others.

CAPT. BADGER'S CENTRAL PARK, OAKLAND. Those who wish to escape from the hot and dusty city should go across the bay and enjoy themselves amidst the cool groves in the Central Park. There will be great attractions at these beautiful grounds to-morrow. Our readers will find them fully set forth in another column. The Lascelles Brothers, famous gymnasts, will appear in a varied performance; Miss May Leslie, Edgar Stanley, Miss Lulu Wilson will perform a programme of songs and dances, and Miss Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin will present some of their much-admired Dutch impersonations. After the performances in the Pavilion there will be a grand flight of balloons, a number of large balloons being sent up at the same time. Four bits covers the expense of a trip by boat and rail, and admission to all the entertainments.

CITY GARDENS—THE MINERS' FESTIVAL—DAYS OF '49.—To-morrow and Monday, June 9th and 10th, the Pioneer Miners' Association will hold their first annual Festival, when that part of the Gardens used for entertainments will be converted into a genuine mining camp, with log huts, tents long-toms, rockers, sluicers, and all the paraphernalia for the miner's use. Prizes will be awarded for all kinds of mining, also a large money prize for the best and quickest flap-jack baker, and the miner who cooks the best mess of pork and beans, and another for the one who accomplishes the feat of washing a "biled" shirt in the most artistic manner. This, no doubt, will be the most novel and amusing out-door exhibition that has ever been given in this city, and all who saw the Miner's Association Parade on the Fourth of July last will be satisfied they will be able to get up something worth seeing. A miner's cabin, and a miner's store, gambling tent, and other features of a mining camp have been erected, and the Garden presents a vivid realization of the days of '49.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen

THE MIRROR OF CALIFORNIA.—A private rehearsal of an entertainment under the above title was held at the Young Men's Christian Association Hall, Sutter street, on Wednesday evening. It consists of a series of very pretty views of scenes in California and a lecture on the resources of the State. Before it goes East to serve the good purpose of bringing population to the Golden State, the public of San Francisco will have one opportunity of seeing it; it will be exhibited at Platt's Hall, on Monday, for the benefit of the Protestant and Catholic Orphan Asylums.

THE CLIFF HOUSE—During the present heated term a sea breeze is a real luxury. An appetite can always be obtained by driving out to the Cliff House and Captain Foster's dinners are perfection.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Our New York dates of the 27th ult. do not chronicle much novelty at the theatres. The business was as follows: Booth's, Edwin Adams in "Enoch Arden".....At Wallack's, for the last week of the season, Robertson's comedy of "Home" and Sheridan's "Critic" will be given Wats Phillips' drama of "On the Jury" will be the first piece of the summer season.....At the Fifth-Avenue Theatre, "Article 47" still runs. All pieces "run" at this house, whether they bring in money is a question.....Olympic Theatre, "Humpty Dumpty" Fox takes a benefit on the 11th and closes one of the longest runs ever known..... At the Bowery a new sensational drama called California; or, the Heathen Chinee," with O. B. Collins and his trained horse Don Juan, and Chas. Warwick in the leading parts....At the Thirty Fourth Street, Edwin Eddy and Miss Henrietta Irving have appeared in "The Stranger" and "Katharine and Petruchio," supported by a fair stock company. Business was rather light, and is being an experimental season, the house closed on the 25th....The only new appearance at the Theatre Comique was Barney Aaron, in a play written for him by John F. Poole, called "Dan Donnolly; or, the Champion of Ireland." The house closed for a week preparatory to the production of the panorama of Chicago, on June 2d....The new faces at Tony Pastor's during the week were Miss Fontainbleau, in her gymnastic and ceiling walking act; Victoria Reynolds, child vocalist; Neil Reg-Ethiopian comedian, and Pete Connor, Irish vocalist and comedian.

Boston, 20th. Monroe, lightning change man, and "Dark Friday; or, the King and Queen of Erie," which touches upon incidents in the life of the late Fisk. A synopsis of scenery is as follows: The house he gave her; railway leading to Fisk's office; grand panorama; Gen. James Fisk, Jr., and the Ninth Regiment, with band, passing Central Park; the Grand-opera House; killing of private Page; the Grand Central Hotel, Jan. 6th; the steamer Bristol; death bed of Fisk; funeral of Fisk; a Vermont churchyard.

The New York Mercury says of Mrs. John Wood: Audiences have been surfeited for years with burlesques, and "Pocahontas" being old, and "Poll and Partner Joe" indifferent, she has had poor success since arriving in this country. The lady counted on herself being a sufficient attraction.

Aimes and bouffers, Baltimore 25th, for a short period.

Somebody writes that the divorce in Chicago of Levy, the cornet man, on the ground of desertion and incompatibility of temper, will not render his approaching marriage in Hamburg legal in New York State or England, although it would be respected in Russia and Continental Europe.

The New York Mercury in its San Francisco news pays the following compliment to Miss Maggie Moore. We endorse it most heartily:

The Zavistowski Sisters are in their second week at the Metropolitan, playing to light business in old burlesques that have long been worn threadbare, and singing "Shoo Fly" and songs of that ilk. There is in the stock of this theatre a young lady named Maggie Moore, who evinces so much talent, and acts, sings, and dances, with so much vim, that she completely throws the stars of the house into the shade. Miss Moore's superiority to the Zavistowskie, even in the latter's own specialties, is so apparent that the stars suffer greatly by the comparison.

Mrs. Howard Paul has been engaged by Daly for the Grand Opera next season. George Clarke and W. J. Florence will also form a part of the company.

Charlotte Thompson, who starred some years ago round the Union, and who reappeared recently at New Orleans, has been for a long time leading a quiet married life as Mrs. Loraine Rogers.

In addition to the several engagements by Daly already enumerated for the stock of the Grand Opera House is "Le Roi Carlotte" are Rose Hersee and Mrs. John Wood.

Vestvalli, who made her appearance in New York in 1853, and was then styled "the magnificent," is again about to visit us. She was a splendid contralto, with a matchless physique. She is announced as a manager of concerts.

"Article 47" was not successful at the Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia.

Mr. Joseph Murphy is at the Academy of Music, Chicago.

The receipts from the several benefits given in aid of the sufferers by the burning of Niblo's, it is understood will reach about $3,000.

Our Society says:

The popular young tragedian, Mr. Edwin Adams began an engagement at Booth's Theatre on Monday evening. He played the title role in Mme. Julie Marguerite's dramatic version of Tenyson's charming poem, "Enoch Arden." Of the play itself, little in way of commendation can be said. The incidents which the poet laureate wrought into a beautiful poetic structure, are adhered to with great fidelity in the drama. But the plot is loosely developed, the events poorly strung together, and the dialogue, most of which is of necessity original, decidedly inappropriate to the subject.

Our Society is right, Mr. Adams' "Enoch Arden" is an abominably bad play.

At the National, Cincinnati, Walter Bray, Ethiopian, and Lizzie Warren. The great ventriloquist, S. D. Davies, has been re-engaged for an additional two weeks.

Harry Spriggs is stage manager of the Metropolitan Theatre, St. Joseph, Mo., where also is Frank Jones, the Lively Moke. Miss Susie Starr is the leading attraction at present.

At the Race-street Varieties, Cincinnati, Mortimer Williams, who dances upon the rim of a peck measure after dancing upon its bottom, while inverted. Lucy Adams also appeared in character changes, and Corney King in Hibernianisms.

The wife of Gangero, of the Yeddo Japanese troupe, died 18th, in Philadelphia, and the company did not appear in Richmond, 20th, as announced. Mrs. Gangero was prematurely delivered of a child in her dressing-room.

Ella Wesner, who is now with Tony Pastor's Troupe, runs with Helen Josephine Mansfield.

The Atlantic Garden is now the only variety show in New Orleans. There is a state performance every evening to free admission. Refreshments are announced as served by "polite attendants."

W. W. Seguin, late treasurer for the Carl Rosa Troupe, announces a season of English Opera commencing on June 3d. The company comprises Miss Emma Howson, Mrs. Zelda Seguin,

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Miss Kellogg appeared with the Drury Lane Italian Opera Company in London, on the 11th, to a good house, and with applause. The opera was "Linda da Chamounix." She contemplates returning to this country in July. Santley is expected here next Fall, with one of the two Italian opera companies to arrive.

Lucca, who will shine in our Eastern operatic firmament next season, seems now to be attracting more attention than ever in Europe. Her reappearance in London was a very great success. She sang in "Fra Diavolo." "Six seasons have passed," says the London Telegraph, "since the character of Zerlina, found in Madame Lucca a representation so charming, piquante and attractive, that no one has since ventured to dispute the role with her, and as time comes round Madame Lucca's appearance as Zerlina is regarded by the subscribers as one of the greatest treats that can be provided for them."

A London clergyman recently lectured on "The Drama and its Influence," and gave expression to one idea that merits record. He thought the conduct of playrights in making Jove, the god of the Athenians, talk slang and make puns, as he does in "Ixion," will be visited upon Englishmen two thousand years hence by Athenians, who will, in their turn, burlesque the Christian religion. It is to be hoped that Byron, Burnand and Gilbert will profit by this terrible warning.

Madame Rossini, widow of the great composer, has recovered damages from M. Michotte, for producing some of her late husband's unpublished pieces.

MM. Meilhac and Halevy have written a grand spectacular drama of American life, entitled "Jonathan," for the Chatelet Theatre, Paris.

Miss Rose Hersee is running an opera troupe in England.

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. THE GREAT

Lightning Ink Erase

Patented by Mr. J. W. Tallmad

Jan. 16, 1872.

For the use of lawyers, merchants, bookkee clerks, and the writing community in general; used instead of a lance or scraper for erasing from paper and parcement. In order to instantly rectify a mistake or clean off a blot, without injury whatever to the printers ink upon printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bill-heading upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, and leaving the paper or parchment clean and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the aid of this valuable and useful article you can instantly rectify a mistake or clean off a blot, without injury whatever to the printers ink upon printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bill-heading upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, and leaving the paper or parchment clean and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the aid of this valuable and useful article you can instantly rectify a mistake or clean off a blot, without injury whatever to the printers ink upon printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bill-heading upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, and leaving the paper or parchment clean and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the aid of this valuable and useful article you can instantly rectify a mistake or blot without taking the penholder from your hand; it is done in an instant, and the ink is ready to write upon again. The old way of scratching the ink not only takes out the ink but spoils the surface of the paper, and the ink will spread and blot when written over again; in case of blot upon any printed form you can by a scratch it off without spoiling your form, if done with a knife or scraper. It also removes stains made by ink, fruit, iron-rust, etc., from cotton, linen, and the finest laces, without the least injury to any goods that water will not injure; therefore it is invaluable to all, from a school boy to a bank, for erasing ink from paper and parchment; and to every housewife for cleansing stains from linens and laces. IT IS INDORSED BY EVERY ONE who sees it.

DIRECTIONS.—To remove ink from paper and parchment, dip the end of the penholder in the bottle and apply. WHITHOUT RUBBING. When the ink has disappeared, absorb the fluid with blotter.

When the ink has been written for years, it will be necessary to make two or three applications of the eraser, and each time not failing to absorb the fluid with blotting paper, before applying afresh, as the vitality of the liquid rapidly evaporates and for this reason the bottle must be kept corked.

To remove stains from laces, etc., dip the stained part into the fluid, then rinse in clean water.

For sale by all Stationers and Druggists in town and country. Price 50 cents per bottle.

UNKNOWN.

It should NOT be unknown that at the Eureka Shirt Store, 124 Kearny street, can be found a nice line of Shirts, Furnishing Goods and Toilet Articles, at prices that cannot fail to suit the most economical. Half the people in the city trade there now, and the balance ought to.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

OAKLAND.—Performance at Badger's Grand Central Park to-morrow. The Lascelles Brothers, famous gymnasts, will appear in their wonderful entertainment; an attractive programme of song and dance will be presented by Miss May Leslie, Miss Lulu Wilson, Edgar Stanley, and others, and the favorite Dutch character actors, J. H. Larkin and Miss Carrie Armstrong, will present their entertainment of impersonations in costume.

MARYSVILLE.—The "Crystal Palace Circus," a pick-up company of variety performers and monkeys, exhibited themselves Thursday afternoon and evening. An advertisement in the Appeal says "the company numbers several of the best performers in the sawdust arena on the coast," but wisely refrains from mentioning the name of a single member of it, though it launches out in the following extensive manner in regard to the stars of the concern:

The performing dogs and monkeys are marvels of sagacity and training, and their antics are alone worth the price of admission. Let those who wish to enjoy the most laughable entertainment imaginable attend the circus and witness the grave performing of the monkeys.

What kind of a circus is this "Crystal Palace Circus?".....The opera performances by Miss Wadsworth and others which were to take place this week have been postponed until Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week, in consequence of the illness of Geo. T. Evans, the conductor.

SNELLING.—The Forrestell's Troupe performed at the Town Hall two evenings last week, to good houses.

SAN JOSE.—The Mercury of the 5th says: "By far the most enjoyable entertainment that we have attended in San Jose for years was that of the Berger Family, given at the Opera House last evening. The audience was small but appreciative, and we are convinced that with the good report which last night's attendance will give, the house will be crowded to-night." But it wasn't. What sort of entertainment can wake up these San Jose people?

RED BLUFF.—The Sentinel of the 1st inst. says:

Morrell's Comedy Troupe, formerly of the best theatres of San Francisco, will give one of their inimical and unique performances to the good people of Red Bluff on Monday evening next, in Roley's Hall.

We don't remember when Morrell's Comedy Company performed at the Metropolitan or California Theatre, but dare say they gave the Red Bluffites a very good "inimical" show. We don't have "inimical" performances down here; the law forbids them.

STOCKTON.—The Berger Family and Sol Smith Russell gave their delightful entertainment at the Theatre on Thursday evening, and again last night. There will be a matinee performance to-day, and this evening they will appear for the last time.

WINNEMUCCA, NEV.—We find the following in the Humboldt Register of the 1st:

Tom Paine's Grand Panorama of the Northwest, gave an exhibition in this place last Thursday evening. The Panorama consists of views of this Coast from Alaska to Panama.

The pictures are said to be very good, but we would advise the exhibitor to change his name. Church people would be frightened at the idea of a show given by "Tom Payne."

PIOCHE.—A correspondent of the San Jose Reporter in Pioche says:

The Theatre of which John Flord, of Almaden, is the present proprietor, is opposite our door. It is not as fine, of course, nor as large as the San Jose Opera House, but it makes as much money.

We should think that very likely, as it is open every night and the San Jose Opera House is nearly always closed.

VIRGINIA CITY, NEV.—In consequence of bad weather—rain, hail and snow—Emerson's Minstrels failed to draw as large crowds to their summer theatre as they would have done had the weather been fair. All who attended enjoyed the entertainment thoroughly. The minstrels closed on Wednesday and went to Reno.....Mr and Mrs. F. M. Bates close their engagement at Piper's Opera House to-night.

SALT LAKE.—"The Palace of Truth," with the Majiltons, was played three nights, closing on the 29th inst. On the following nights Signor and Signora Galiotti gave an operatic concert at the Theatre, and on Friday and Saturday, May 31st and June 1st, Mac Evoy's Hibernicon exhibited. The Theatre, which was lighted with coal oil lamps, is to be lighted with gas.

PORTLAND, O.—The Oregonian of the 1st says: "The first concert of the series was given last evening at the new Masonic Hall by Miss Mehlig, assisted by Messrs. DePrans, Nesfield, Miss Jennie Rosenheim, and the singing section of the Portland Turners. The capacious hall was crowded with ladies and gentlemen. We have scarcely ever witnessed a more refined and fashionable audience than was present to greet the debut of this celebrated pianiste. The programme offered was one of the most attractive ever presented to a Portland audience." Miss Mehlig gave her second concert on the 4th inst.

ALBANY, O.—The Taylor Family recently gave two entertainments at Parish Hall.

THE METROPOLITAN GAS COMPANY is furnishing its Gas, made from

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Jack Sheppard" was presented last night with Miss Maggie Moore in the title role. Maggie made a natty little Jack and the play was altogether better performed than on a previous occasion. To-night the five-act drama of "The Pearl of Savoy" will be presented, and Miss Maggie Mitchell will appear in her favorite role of Marie. She will be ably supported by W. J. Cogswell, T. E. Jackson Miss Henriette Osborne, Miss Maggie Moore and others.

The Alhambra.

To-night Add Ryman's tragi-comic burlesque of "Hamlet" will be produced with an immense cast, which appears on our first page. It will be preceded by a splendid first part and a brilliant interlude, in which Welch and Rice will appear in "I Really Shall Expire;" Lew Simmons in original banjo solos, and Justin Robinson, Billy Sweetnam, Joseph Norrie, and John Rice in the screaming act of "The Kearny Street Milliner."

California Theatre.

To-night Augustin Daly's sensational drama entitled "Divorce," which accomplished a run of two hundred nights in New York, and was highly successful in Boston and other cities in the East, will be produced at the California Theatre, with the following cast: Alfred Adriance, Lawrence Barrett; DeWolf Dewitt, Henry Edwards; Capt. Lynde, W. A. Mestayer; Templeton Jitt, J. C. Williamson; Mr. Burritt, John Wilson; Judge Kemp, Walter Leman; Dr. Lang, Stephen Leach; Jim, Fred Franks; Mrs. Harry Duncan, E. Plympton; Miss Fanny Ten Eyck, Miss Rose Evans; Mrs. Ten Eyck, Mrs. Sophie Edwin, Miss Lu Ten Eyck, Miss Helen Tracy; Grace, Miss Minnie Walton; Mrs. Kemp, Mrs. Judah; Molly, Miss Chambers; Flora Penfield, Miss Lou Harmes; Alfred, Miss Tillie Darling.

Bella Union.

The new bill presented at this theatre on Saturday night and again last night proved an immense hit. M'lle Marie Gaugain won great applause for her shadow dance; Miss Jennie Johnson's new comic songs were encored; Harry Sinclair, Kelly and Johnny Tuers set the house in a roar with their great conjuring tricks; J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong were warmly encored in their new Dutch act, "Bot Leetle Bunch von Carrots;" Tommy Barton and Susie Robison were very funny in "The Nerves;" Johnny Tuers sent the audience into fits of laughing by his eccentricties, and the original extravaganza entitled "Adam and Eve", wound up one of the best bills of the season. The same entertainment will be given to-night.

Le Favre's Varieties.

Maguire's Opera House will henceforth be known as Le Favre's Varieties, and will be opened to-night with a full company of performers, with the ever-popular Aline Le Favre at their head. The Child Americus Troupe have been engaged and will appear in their specialties. The company as at present constituted comprises the following favorite artists: Aline Le Favre, Johnny Manning the Child Americus, Lew Rattler, (his first appearance in San Francisco since his return from New York) Mrs. Chas. Coriell, May Leslie, Alice Clifton, Maggie Kelly, Miss Maud, Amy Pearl, Emma Goodwin, Bertie Vance, Maggie Brewer, Miss Marcella, Josie Abecoo, Charles Coriell, J. Campbell, Harry Thompson, C. Nickerson, J. Rourke, E. Stanley, and a full and efficient corps de ballet. The full programme appears on our first page. It is a very attractive melange of songs, dances and acts, concluding with "Abon Hassan," which will be presented with a strong cast and beautiful scenery. The theatre has been decorated for the opening night, and the first part, with the ladies of the company in gorgeous costumes, will present a splendid appearance. There will be an immense rush to-night. Seats can be secured from 10 A. M., till 4 P. M., to-day.

San Francisco Circus.

To-night John Wilson, the Napoleon of Circus managers, who has so admirably catered to the public amusement during the present and many preceeding seasons, will be the recipient of a grand complimentary benefit. Extraordinary attractions will be presented on this occasion. Since the arrival of Jem Mace, the champion of Eng'and, and the other stars of the fistic ring, there has been great anxiety to see in the ring Tommy Chandler, our California champion, and handsome offers were made to induce him to appear. By correspondence which may be seen by referring to another column it will be observed that on this one occasion, the benefit of John Wilson, Tommy Chandler has consented to appear and engage in a set-to with Billy Edwards, the champion of light weights of America. Jem Mace will make his last appearance to-night. Charles Vivian has volunteered for the occasion and will sing "Ten Thousand Miles Away," and altogether a great entertainment will be given.

City Gardens.

There was a splendid attendance at these gardens on Saturday, and all present enjoyed the exhibition of Scottish games given by the Caledonia Club. Yesterday, not less than 20,000 persons went to see the old time miner's high holiday and recall the days of '49. From morning till night the gardens were crowded. The officers of the Hertha were present, having been invited to a collation by the proprietor of the gardens, M. V. Stevens. The new hall presented a most brilliant appearance, ornamented with the flags of all nations. A large number of the crew of the Hertha were present, and wandered around the gardens, enjoying the novel scene. The mining works and domestic arrangements of the miners were most faithfully represented, and excited much interest. As the crowd will be somewhat less to-day, the mining operations may be observed with comfort. An excellent programme has been arranged and in the afternoon the prizes will be awarded. At night there will be a miner's ball. Altogether the Miner's Festival is one of the greatest successes ever known and those who do not visit the City Gardens to-day will have cause for regret.

Capt. Badger's Grand Central Park, Oakland.

Boats and cars were crowded yesterday with pleasure seekers on their way to this favorite Sunday resort. A capital entertainment was given in the Pavilion by the Lascelles Brothers, wonderfully clever gymnasts; the charming little Lulu Wilson, Miss May Leslie, the accomplished balladist; Edgar Stanley, the favorite tenor, and J. H. Larkin and Miss Carrie Armstrong whose Dutch impersonations were applauded until the

American Theatre.

To-night an entirely new bill will be presented here. Miss Emma Forrestelle, the great female contortionist, will make her first appearance in her wonderful feats; three new acts, "The Two Rivals," "Twenty Years Ago," and "The Haunted House," will be produced for the first time here, with Foster, Matthews, Devoy, and Howard in the casts; interspersed with beautiful ballads, comic ditties, duets and dances, by the female members of the company. The American keeps up with the times, and Manager Dopson is proving himself to be an active and competent manager.

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURING the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate.

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines for the mastery, each of them has strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines: for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, or the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use.

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 391 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 86, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $8 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant enemy. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "sic transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly seated, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what preceded up to it, a final verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the en-

THE LATEST INVENTI

THE GREAT

Lightning Ink Erase

Patented by Mr. J. W. Tallma
Jan. 16, 1872.

For the use of lawyers, merchants, bookkeepers, clerks, and the writing community in general. It is used instead of a lance or scraper for erasing from paper and parchment, in order to insert or rectify a mistake or clean off a blot, without injury whatever to the printed ink upon the printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bill-head, ruling upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, and leaving the paper or parchment clean and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the use of this valuable and useful article you can correct a mistake or blot without taking the penholder out of your hand; it is done in an instant, and the writing is ready to write upon again. The old way of scratching the ink not only takes out the writing, but spoils the surface of the paper, and the ink will spread and blot when written over again. Also, in case of blot upon any printed form you can erase it off without spoiling your form, if done with a knife or scraper. It also removes stains made by ink, fruit, iron-rust, etc., from cotton, linen, and the finest laces, without the least injury to any goods that water will not injure; therefore it is invaluable to all, from a school boy to a bank, for erasing ink from paper and parchment; and to every housewife for cleansing stains from linens and laces. IT IS INDORSED BY EVERY ONE who sees it.

DIRECTIONS.—To remove ink from paper and parchment, dip the end of the penholder into the bottle and apply, WITHOUT RUBBING, when the ink has disappeared, absorb the fluid with blotter.

When the ink has been written for years, it will be necessary to make two or three applications of the eraser, and each time not failing to absorb the fluid with blotting paper, before applying a fresh, the vitality of the liquid rapidly evaporates, for this reason the bottle must be kept corked.

To remove stains from Laces, etc., dip the stained part into the fluid, then rinse in clean water.

☞ For sale by all Stationers and Druggists in town and country. Price 50 cents per bottle.

$500 Reward for the arrest and conviction of any person or persons infringing upon this patent. Manufactured by Billy Emerson.

The last number of the New York Clipper contains a likeness of Billy Emerson and a biography, from which we make the following extract:

The subject of our sketch was born in Belfast, Ireland, 1846, and came to America in 1847, when some 12 months old. He made his first appearance with Joe Sweeney's Minstrels., in 1857, being then only ten years of age, as balladist and jig dancer. He made rapid progress in his profession, and when the specialty known as song and dance was first introduced, Mr. Emerson at once achieved great success therein. In St. Louis, Mo., in 1868, he was presented with a gold medal valued at $175 for excellence in that line.

An Enthusiastic Partizan.

For a red-hot Grant paper commend us to the Chronicle. It does not roost on a fence like some other papers so as to fall over on the safe side. Not a bit of it. Last week it said, "The nation might be subjected to a greater calamity than to continue four years more under his wise and prudent administration." There's praise for you. Grant's administration has been wise and prudent, but a calamity—still there might be greater calamities.

A Hint.

Ancient Mariner (to credulous Yachtsman)—"A'miral Lord Nelson! Bless yer, I knowed him; served under him. Many's the time I've as'ed for a bit o' 'bacco, as I might be a astin' o' you, and says he, 'Well, I aint got no 'bacco,' jest as you might say to me; 'but here's a shillin' for yer,' says he."

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

Over 600,000 now in use; 100,000 more of "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. 'Apologetic."

On Saturday, June 1st, a scurrilous sheet in this city published two blackguard articles against Mr. J. Gashwiler. The News-Letter in its last issue very properly reprobates this action, as follows:

In our last number we unwittingly admitted into our columns two articles, in reference to the private business relations and legal controversies between Mr. M. Jasper McDonald and Mr. Gashwiler, reflecting on the business and private character of the former. We are authorized by a person intimate with the affairs of the parties to say that the articles referred to were a tissue of ill-natured, unjust and untrue aspersions on Mr. M. McDonald. The business differences, if any there be, between Mr. McDonald and Mr. Gashwiler we do not regard as the proper subject of newspaper comment, and we are assured that the obtrusive officiousness which prompted our informant is very properly regretted by Mr. Gashwiler. Mr. McDonald has been too long and well established in this community as an honorable gentleman to be injured by assaults of this character, and they require no specific refutation. We desire to say, however, that the insinuation, that in an answer in a suit where a certain individual was a party, McDonald swore to what was untrue, is without the least foundation.

We quite sympathize with the News-Letter in its indignation, and admire it for its expression of sentiment. "The business differences, if any there be, beween Gashwiler and Mc Donald, we do not regard as the proper subject of newspaper comment."

We hope the News-Letter will be more circumspect after the scoring inflicted on it by—the News Letter. Isn't humble pie a nice dish? Isn't dirt nourishing? Isn't a cowhide painful? Ichabod!

Lieut. Spangler's Hen.

The Baltimore Bulletin says:

Lieut. Spangler, of the Western police station, is the proud owner of a hen which knows as much about the political lay as almost the Lieutenant himself. The other morning he laid for this political pullet, deeming from divers indications that an egg had been laid. So there had; and his surprise can be better imagined than described when he found on the end of it, raised on the shell, a perfect letter "G." In this instance, G stands for Greeley, although the same hen did the same thing in 1869, when everybody said she meant to go for Grant. One thing, however, is certain: since the Cincinnati Convention, all the hens, the minute they have laid an egg, go around the premises, hallooing, "Chap—chap—chap—chap—a—qua," while the cocks that crow in the morn chant, "Give us Gratz Brown-n-n!"

A Complicated Machine.

Some wags were watching around an agricultural implement store, and they chanced to see in the rear a dressed hog hanging by a hook to the wall. "Ha! ha!" cried the "smartest," one among them to the young man in attendance, "what sort of an agricultural implement do you call that?" "That," replied the attendant, "is a patent combined root-grubber, corn-sheller, apple-grinder, gate-lifter, double-action, back-spring sod-plow; but I guess you won't want one, for it takes a mighty intelligent man to manage 'em:"

Nothing Like Leather.

The nominees of the Philadelphia Convention for President and Vice President, are sure to work into one another's hands, one having been a tanner and the other a shoemaker.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

An Old Landmark.

The Verandah Cigar Store, at the N.E. corner of Kearny and Washington streets, kept by Henry Schmidt, has been famous for the last eleven years for keeping the best Havana cigars,

He Couldn't "Laff."

The following note, says the Danbury News, was picked up on the streets of that town, a short time since. It is surely a manly explanation of what might have been construed into a personal affront:

DEAR JANE:—I hope you ain't mad because I didn't laff at you when you laft at me last evening at the post offis. I ain't prowd, dear Jane, but I have got a bile under my arm, and I can't laff as I used to, as Heaven is my judge.
Yours truly, HENRY.

A Danbury woman was so frightened at the sight of a spider that she kicked her husband down stairs. So says a Connecticut paper, but it cannot make us believe that spiders have any such effect. It is "too thin."

It is Perfectly Astonishing

How beautifully and quickly they do washing at the What Cheer Laundry. Clothes received before 8 A.M. returned the same evening if desired. X

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

The Hotels, Boarding Houses and Business Firms burning this Gas find a Reduction of 33 per cent in the amount of Gas burned, and yet obtain a light of marked superiority to that given by the Gas of any other Company. In one case the reduction was 12,000 cubic feet a week, that is from 34,000 to 22,000, while the light is unanimously allowed by disinterested spectators to greatly exceed that from Coal Gas.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Last night, the domestic drama of "The Pearl of Savoy" taken from Donizetti's beautiful opera of "Linda di Chamounix," was produced with Miss Maggie Mitchell in her great impersonation of Marie. The usual fashionable audience was in attendance, Miss Maggie Mitchell's engagement has been remarkable for drawing the very best portion of our citizens to the theatre, many who seldom patronize the drama flocking to the Metropolitan Theatre now. The effect of Miss Mitchell's acting in the role of Marie last night was remarkable, and the hackneyed phrase "there was not a dry eye in the house," might have been used with some truth. W. J. Cogswell was excellent in the role of Lantelot; Samuel Piercy played Arthur very well indeed; T. E. Jackson was very amusing as Pierrot; Miss Henrietta Osborne played the part of Margaret with much feeling; Miss Maggie Moore caused considerable amusement as Chonchon, and the play went off smoothly. All who have seen Miss Maggie Mitchell in "Fanchon," should see her also in her great character of Marie in "The Pearl of Savoy," in which she will appear to-night. The thrilling drama of "Jane Eyre," in which Miss Maggie Mitchell has achieved so much success, is in active preparation.

The Alhambra.

A more lively bill than that now being presented by Simmons & Slocums' champion band of minstrels it would be hard to imagine. Beautiful songs and choruses and plenty of fun in the first part; eccentric dances by Welch and Rice in the interlude; an original banjo solo by Lew Simmons, and a screaming act in the interlude, and as afterpiece, that most amusing burlesque, Add Ryman's new reading of "Hamlet." This kept the audience in a constant roar of laughter last night and will draw large houses for many nights to come.

California Theatre.

This theatre was thronged last night, when Augustin Daly's drama of 'Divorce" was presented for the first time in San Francisco. There has been a cry for some time that there is no American dramatist and we have no American drama. All who see "Divorce" must confess that Augustin Daly has proved himself worthy of the title of an American dramatist and has succeeded in writing a purely American drama. If he is at all indebted to the French for any of the incidents of "Divorce," he has "conveyed" and adapted so cleverly that he has not yet been detected. "Divorce" is really a brilliant play, with well managed plot finely drawn and well sustained characters and good situations. After seeing it we do not wonder at its having achieved a run of 200 nights in New York. It was in good hands last night, every part having full justice done it. Lawrence Barrett as Alfred Adrianse, the jealous husband, played that part in a manner which quite justified his wife (Miss Rose Evans) in going away with her mother; he gave a clever illustration of the horrible effect of jealousy on a man, and how thoroughly unbearable he is when he gives way to it. Miss Rose Evans was delightful as Miss Fanny Ten Eyck, and carried the sympathy of the audience with her throughout the play. Miss Helen Tracy played Miss Lue Ten Eyck, married to DeWitt (Harry Edwards), the best of husbands, and still dissatisfied and petulant, very well, causing much amusement by her frequent ebullitions of temper.

Edwards as De Wolf De Witt gave one of Henry [illegible] enjoyable portraitures of a the most thoro[illegible] presented on any stage, genial, good man, ever [illegible] the author as and one that would have delighted [illegible] W. A. being a full realization of his conception. [illegible] Meetayer as Captain Lynde, the gay young [illegible] flirt, who will make love to other men's wives, and make them needlessly jealous, played the character very well; J. C. Williamson did some capital charteter acting as Templeton Jitt, Esq., the divorce lawyer, and John Wilson was very amusing as Mr. Burrett, the detective; Mrs. Judah gave a delightful impersonation of genial old Mrs. Kemp who has enjoyed forty years of married life with her husband, Judge Kemp (most pleasingly played by Walter Leman,) and never quarrelled yet; Mrs. Edwin as the much-troubled mother of Fanny and Sue, played her part admirably; Miss Minnie Walton in the part of Grace found one which suited her exactly, and no one could play it better than she did last night; the same may be said of Eben Plympton as the Rev. Harry Duncan, with whom Grace is in love. He was a model young clergyman, playing the part with taste and discretion; Fred Franks was good as Jim, the coachman, and Miss M. Chambers acted the part of Molly, the good-hearted Irish servant splendidly, making her points quietly and presenting a natural character instead of the stage Irish girl. Stephen Leach as Dr. Land, Miss Tilbe Darling as Alfred, Miss Louise Harmes as Flora Penfield, John Torrence and O Reed all played their parts well. "Divorce" is a success and will have proportionately as long a run here as it had in New York.

Bella Union.

The entertainment given at this house is hard to beat. M'lle Marie Gaugain is a terpsichorean star of the first magnitude, and her beautiful shadow dance is much applauded; J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong are great in Dutch characters; Miss Josephine and Mat Kelly have made a hit in their trial dance; Minnie Fillmore, Fanny Garretson and Ida Fisk sing sweet ballads; Marie Zoel appears in a neat clog dance; Tommy Barton in comic songs; Johnny Tuers in original eccentricities, and the extravaganza of "Adam and Eve" terminates the evening's amusement. To-morrow night the famous Reynolds Brothers, late of the Emerson Minstrels, will make their appearance at this theatre.

San Francisco Circus.

John Wilson had, as he richly deserved, a bumper benefit last night, and a splendid performance was given. Tommy Chandler on making his appearance in the ring was greeted with the utmost enthusiasm, and acquitted himself well in a set-to with Billy Edwards. Vivian, who was to have appeared, and who the Alta says did appear and "gave one or two of his inimitable character songs," sent a note asking to be excused for the reason that "he was a little hoarse." We cannot see for the life of us why his being a little hoarse should interfere with his appearance in the circus ring. A great bill has been prepared for this evening, including the fearfully thrilling feat of Messrs. Darr, Worland and the Midget, and "Dick Turpin's Ride to York," in addition to the ring performance. "Cinderella" will be produced at the matinee to-morrow.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most

Le Favre's Varieties.

This place of amusement was opened last night. The parquette and orchestra were crowded and in the dress-circle was a fair sprinkling of ladies and children, though not as many as there would have been had the character of the entertainment been rightly understood. The Varieties in New Orleans is the resort of the fashionable people and there was not a joke, song or act in the performance given last night at Le Favre's Varieties that could offend the most fastidious. On the curtain rising a beautiful spectacle met the eye; the stage was a perfect bower of roses, festoons hanging from the ceiling and fastened to pillars, surmounted by globes illuminated with gas. Seventeen performers appeared in the first part, eleven of whom were ladies. These were dressed in beautiful costumes of red satin and white satin with gold trimming. The ballads and comic songs by Miss May Leslie, Charley Nickerson, J. H. Stout and Mrs. Charles Coriell were much applauded, and the beautiful finale in which Alice Le Favre appeared looking radiant as the Goddess of Liberty, brought down the house. The choruses were finely sung, and Lew Rattler and Charley Nickerson on their respective ends caused much amusement. After this Johnny Manning appeared in a graceful and daring trapeze act; Miss May Leslie and Edgar Stanley sang a serio-comic duet in capital style; Charley Nickerson caused much amusement in the act of "The African Dwarf." Tommy Bourke did a song and dance; Lew Rattler, Charley Nickerson and Johnny Campbell sent the audience into fits of laughter in "Bad Dickey," and Stewart and Kelly were great in a medley clog dance. Next appeared the Child American Troupe, Mrs. Charles Coriell sang "Il Bacio" very well indeed; Charles Coriell performed a bone solo splendidly; J. H. Stout sang a ballad well, and Master James Speight delighted the audience with his wonderful performance on the violin. The entertainment concluded with the extravaganza of Abon Hassan, in which Alice Le Favre looked magnificient as Hassan; Miss Maude made a charming Guinare; Harry Thompson was excellent as Haroun al Raschid, and all the other characters were generally well filled. The brilliant lighting of the theatre, was the subject of general remark, and the Metropolitan Gas Company were pronounced to have achieved another triumph.

American Theatre.

A capital entertainment was given at this house last night. The really wonderful feats of Emma Forrestelle, the female contortionist, were much applauded. Fanny Webster, May Leroy, George Foster, and many others appeared in a very varied programme. The same bill will be presented to-night. A burlesque on "Divorce" is in preparation.

Healthy Exercise.

The Alta, in a review of a book by Dr. Dio Lewis entitled "Our Digestion," says:

He has great faith in pounding as a cure for many diseases, and in brown bread as a preventive of many others.

Jem Mace thinks that one may push a belief in pounding too far.

Stokes is now designated as the man who was present when Fisk fell down stairs and killed himself.

FOR THE OLD LOVE'S SAKE.

And have you forgotten me quite, dear,
Or say, do you sometimes dream
What life might have been if we wandered still Together by wood and stream?
Do you think of days when my love was all
The world could give or take,
And say with a sigh, "they were happy days,"
Just for the old love's sake,
Just for old love's sake, sweetheart,
Just for the old love's sake?

Do you ever sit in the twilight, dear,
And think of that wintry day
When we met and parted and journeyed forth,
Each on our separate way?
I turned and stood for a moment, dear,
And looked in your face, to take
Its memory far on my way through life,
Just for the old love's sake:
Just for the old love's sake, sweetheart,
Just for the old love's sake.

Do you ever think they were bitter words?
Their memory haunts me yet,
Do you wonder how you could say them all,
And wonder if I forget?
Yes, dear, my heart has forgotten them long,
Though I thought at first 'twould break;
And whenever I think, it is kindly still,
Just for the old love's sake;
Just for the old love's sake, sweetheart,
Just for the old love's sake.

Anonymous Letters.

A writer says: "Perhaps of all the actions into which the evil passions of humanity are led, there is none more base than that of writing an anonymous letter. It is a moral assassination, committed by a masked murderer—a lie without an author—the mean-spirited act of the disreputable coward, in whose heart gall has replaced the wholesome blood, and whose malice, jealousy and revenge vent themselves in slander. I would as soon trust my purse with a thief, my friendship with the hangman, take a serpent in my hand, or a liar to my heart, as hold communion of love, friendship or interest with the writer of an anonymous letter."

The jolly local of a paper in Boone Co., says: "Come where my love lies dreaming and see how she looks without any paint on her face."

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmsgundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. B

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has them, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experiences, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents., and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. THE GREAT

Lightning Ink Erase

Patented by Mr. J. W. Tallmadg
Jan. 16, 1872.

For the use of lawyers, merchants, bookkeepers, clerks, and the writing community in general; to be used instead of a lancet or scraper for erasures from paper and parchment, in order to instantly rectify a mistake or clean off a blot, without injury whatever to the printer's ink upon printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bill-head, ruling upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, and leaving the paper or parchment clean and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the aid of this valuable and useful article you rectify a mistake or blot without taking the penholder from your hand; it is done in an instant, and the paper is ready to write upon again. The old way of scratching the ink not only takes out the ruling, but spoils the surface of the paper, and the ink will spread and blot when written over again; and in case of blot upon any printed form you can scratch it off without spoiling your form, if well done with a knife or scraper. It also removes stains made by ink, fruit, iron-rust, etc., from cotton, linen, and the finest laces, without the least injury to any goods that water will not injure, therefore it is invaluable to all, from a school boy to a bank, for erasing ink from paper and parchment; and to every housewife for cleansing stains from linens and laces. IT IS INDORSED BY EVERY ONE who sees it.

DIRECTIONS.—To remove ink from paper and parchment, dip the end of the penholder in the bottle and apply, WITHOUT RUBBING. When the ink has disappeared, absorb the fluid with blotter.

When the ink has been written for years, it will be necessary to make two or three applications therewith, and each time not failing to absorb the fluid with blotting paper, before applying afresh, the vitality of the liquid rapidly evaporates; this reason the bottle must be kept corked.

To remove stains from Laces, etc., dip the stained part into the fluid, then rinse in clean water.

For sale by all Stationers and Druggists in town and country. Price 50 cents per bottle.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco, HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in the celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST rested in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

Amateur Minstrels.

The San Jose Reporter hearing that some of the musical and dramatic "talent" of the city intend to organize a band of minstrels, says:

There is certainly talent enough in our city to present a very pleasing entertainment of this kind, far superior to the performances of many of the travelling troupes who come here and take considerable money out of the city. Good musicians, good vocalists and several good delineators of the negro character may be found in our midst and a minstrel troupe may certainly be made a success.

That's right. Have your home-made minstrel troupe and caterwaul to your content. Let your counter jumpers and barber's apprentices and sucking barristers black their faces and cut up monkey shines on the stage in order that professional companies of talent may not take "considerable money" out of the city. They take such a precious lot of money away when they visit San Jose, don't they? The experience of first-class companies visiting San Jose is somewhat similar to that of a minister who sent around his hat among a congregation for contributions, and on receiving it back without a cent in it grasped it eagerly and exclaimed fervently, "Thank God!" The deacon who took the hat round said, "I don't see that you have much to be thankful for." "Yes, indeed I have," replied the clergyman, "I thank God I've got my hat back." So if a troupe get out of San Jose with the money they brought into town, they have reason to be thankful. Go ahead with your amateur nigger show and stop offering inducements to good companies to visit your dead and alive, preached-to-death town.

Easy Enough.

An exchange says:

The man with the iron jaw lives in Taunton. He takes a thick, heavy flint glass tumbler and bites large pieces out of it with perfect ease, and chews them to powder.

There is no great feat in this. Glass chews up nearly as easy as biscuit, and may may be swallowed when reduced to powder without any ill effects. On the contrary we think it is rather good for dyspepsia. Many things appear difficult until you try them.

Baltimore has completed and opened one of the largest hotels on the Continent, called the Carrollton, after the proprietor of Carroll Manor. It is on the site of the old Fountain Hotel, where Lafayette and Washington lodged.

"I will preach from dat portion ob de scripture dis ebenin'," said a colored divine, "where de 'Postle Paul pints his 'Pistle at de 'Phesians."

They have "Dolly Varden" chills in Georgia. The sufferer turns all sorts of colors, and is terribly humped up.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. M

A "Wheeler & Wilson" Sewing Machine manufactured every minute. The Company's factory covers 14 acres, employing 2,000 persons. Over 600,000 now in use; 100,000 more of "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other making the lock-stitch. W. M. Stoddard, General Agent for the Pacific Coast, 427 Montgomery street, San Francisco. 6

A Kansas Story.

The Kansas City Bulletin of May 24th publishes the following story, the truth of which we were inclined to doubt:

A story came to our ears yesterday of a tragedy at Baxter Springs. Night before last, while Dan Rice's circus was showing at that place, Marshal Taylor proceeded with a warrant to arrest an employee of the circus, engaged in selling candy, for peddling without a license. Spaulding, one of the proprietors, resisted the arrest, and in the melee that ensued the Marshal received three wounds, one under each shoulder-blade, and one in the calf of his right leg. After all these wanton provocations the Marshal appears to have lost his temper, and drawing his revolver, shot one of his assailants, Spaulding, the manager of the show, in the forehead, wounding him fatally. The difficulty appears then to have quieted, and Mr. Rice sent one of his carriages to convey the wounded officer home, at the same time expressing his deep regret at the unfortunate occurrence, and stating that the whole affair was without his knowledge or consent. Marshal Taylor was placed under arrest, but released almost immediately, an impromptu investigation showing that he did the killing in self-defense.

This story would seem to be confirmed by the Lawrence (Kansas) Tribune, which has a detailed account of the occurrence received from a correspondent, who closes his letter in the following cool style:

In talking the matter over after being taken to the hotel, Spaulding stated that he had very often bluffed city marshals and policemen, and expected to do so in that case. Now it was unfortunate for him that he did not know more about Baxter and its City Marshal. Bluff is not the game there, nor Taylor the one to try it on. The latter is an easy, cool, careless young man, always in good humor, and when making an arrest or in a row, always keeps his eye on the defendant, and when occasion demands his old pistol comes out and the bullets slide into a person as easy as ice cream into the mouth of a country girl.

We Don't Believe It.

The San Joaquin Valley Argus, published at Snelling, claims that Mrs. Partington lives there. It says:—

A loquacious lady of this place, while entertaining a number of lady and gentlemen friends one evening of the present week, remarked that Mrs. Grant and Miss Nellie, the wife and daughter of the President, were "making a tower of Europe, and when last heard from were giving exe-cu-tive receptions to illustrated people of extinction at Paris, the capital of London, and are the honored jests of the King and Queen of France.

We think the Argus man drew a little on his memory for that story.

New York Theatres.

The complete seating capacity of the New York theatres is as follows: Booth's, 1765; Wallack's, 1610; Fifth Avenue, 801; Olympic 1394; Niblo's, was 1822; Steinway Hall, 1908; French Theatre, 1576. The largest crowds ever assembled in these places range from 800 to 1000 above their seating capacity. Steinway Hall, for instance, has held 3000 people.

A correspondent of a Baltimore paper wants to know why marriage and death notices should be paid for? For the best of reasons; one is an advertisement of copartnership, and the other is a notice of dissolution. Business is business.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless fest, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's cesseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam sand crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Big Cities.

The Call on Sunday showed that San Francisco contained a population equal in number to the inhabitants of the 32 next largest cities in the State. A London journal claims that that city is itself a nation—nay, even a world. Its population is four times that of New York or St. Petersburgh, double that of Constantinople, two-thirds greater than that of Paris, and one-fourth greater than that of Pekin. It has double the population of Denmark, and three times that of Greece. Its sanitary condition is favorably reported, notwithstanding its immense size. A child is born during every five minutes on an average, and a person dies every ten minutes.

A Tennessee woman's paper has terms thus singularly graduated: "Three dollars a year to men; $1 60 to unmarried workingmen; 75 cents to women with lazy husbands to support."

TABLEWARE AND HOUSEHOLD GOODS of every description from which the silver is worn, can be re-plated in the finest and most durable manner at the SAN FRANCISCO GOLD

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURing the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled. Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complication incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson, or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines: for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, these prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, or the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 321 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the best of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one at a time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 89, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $10 for balance of the lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $9 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$30 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 92, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Elliptic, 1 Weed—$23 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dust at the chariot-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "tout vient a qui sait attendre" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and gain a melancholy glamour of enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some one or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as it passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine, has delivered, in this sale and what has led up to it, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that such courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX & GIBBS machine, will always be ahead in the onward march of improvement.—[New York Tribune

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

Another large audience witnessed the performance of Augustin Daly's admirable play of "Divorce" last night. Seats are engaged many nights in advance and the piece will have a run. It plays much closer than it did on the first night and is now over at 11 o'clock.

The Alhambra.

Add Ryman's burlesque of "Hamlet" is full of fun and forms a most amusing termination to an excellent performance comprising a first-class programme of songs and choruses, amusing acts, banjo solos, by Lew Simmons, and songs and dances by Welch and Rice. The "Kearny Street Milliner," in which Justin Robinson, Billy Sweatnam' Joseph Norrie and John Rice appear, is received nightly with shouts of laughter.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Marie in "The Pearl of Savoy" is one of Miss Maggie Mitchell's greatest impersonations and affords even more scope for the display of her peculiar talent than Fanchon. Her support is good. T. E. Jackson does some very pleasing acting in the character of Pierrot, and the fun of Miss Maggie Moore as Chonchon, relieves the piece, which is generally of a pathetic character.

Bella Union.

To-night, in addition to all the attractions of dances by M'lle Gangain, Dutch acts by J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong, ballads by Minnie Fillmore, Ida Fisk and others, acts by Johnny Tuers, Kelly and Sinclair, and the startling extravaganza of "Adam and Eve," the ever-popular Reynolds Brothers, two of the most talented and original double song and dance men in the profession, will make their reappearance.

American Theatre.

Crowds go every night to the American Theatre to marvel at the wonderful feats of M'lle Forrestelle, the female contortionist; enjoy the sweet ballads of Eva Silva, Louise Summers and others; and laugh at the amusing acts of George Foster, Harry Hunt, Chris Matthews and others. To night the American's version of "Divorce." will be produced.

Le Favre's Varieties.

Another capital performance was given at this house last night and was thoroughly enjoyed. The singing in the first part was much admired, the fine voices of Mrs. Charles Cordell and J. H. Stout being the subject of general commendation. Lew Rattler is funnier than ever since his trip to New York. The extravaganza of "Abon Hassan," which dragged somewhat on the first night, went much more smoothly last night, and altogether the entertainment was a very pleasing one. An original burlesque on "Divorce" is underlined for immediate production.

San Francisco Circus.

This week is the last of the Circus, so the public must enjoy it while they can. The programme is entirely new. To-day there will be a matinee performance, when the fairy spectacle of "Cinderella" will be produced by a troupe of juvenile artists led by the children of the Matthews Family and Miss Lulu Wilson, who has been engaged for the occasion. To-night a great bill will be presented, concluding with "Turpin's Ride to York," with Omar Kingsley as Dick Turpin.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Thoughtless Man.

A Connecticut man undertook to shoot a cat which stole his chickens, but forgot to ram down the charge in his pistol, which burst, and a portion of the barrel struck him in the face, and rendered his insensible. Then a good man ran and told the poor fellow's wife that he had shot himself, and she fainted, and the children screamed, and there was a grand time generally. And the cat continues to delight the neighborhood with its melodious music nightly.

Ladies' Hats.

The latest thing in Spring hats for young ladies is to have the rim so crumpled and bent as to be strongly suggestive of a late supper, an over portion of champagne, and a lively little tussle in the carriage the night before. Jaunty, but not judicious.

Rather Sharp.

A Western paper, speaking of an official of imbiblical habits, and who was called a bonhomme by a supporter, says he is a "Bour-bon-homme."

Oyster Palace Restaurant.

London and Paris can boast of their Crystal Palaces, but it remained for Messrs. Thompson & Senatz to inaugurate the "Oyster Palace," where succulent oysters, and full meals with wine at 50 cents, and every good thing in market, are served up in unequalled style of cuisine excellence. The locality of this desideratum is in the California Theatre Building, adjoining the main entrance to the theatre, on the west. Mr. Thompson, who will be remembered as the former popular Boniface of the saloon under the Odd Fellows' Hall on Montgomery street, and Mr. Senatz are both experienced caterers, and the public can rely upon finding everything served in unapproachable style, at reasonable charges, at the Oyster Palace Restaurant. Curious Song of a Lover to his Sweetheart.

Your face,	your tongue,	your wit,
So fair,	so sweet,	so sharp,
First bent,	then drew,	then hit
Mine eye,	mine ear,	mine heart.
Mine eye,	mine ear,	mine heart,
To talk,	to learn,	to love,
Your face,	your tongue,	your wit,
Doth lead,	doth teach,	doth move.
Your face,	your tongue,	your wit,
With beams,	with sound,	with art,
Doth blind,	doth charm	doth rule,
Mine eye,	mine ear,	mine heart.
Mine eye,	mine ear,	mine heart,
With life,	with hope,	with skill,
Your face,	your tongue,	your wit,
Doth feed,	doth feast,	doth fill.
O face!	O tongue!	O wit!
With frown,	with check,	with smart,
Wrong not,	vex not,	wound not,
Mine eye,	mine ear,	mine heart.
This eye,	this ear,	this heart,
Shall joy,	shall bend,	shall swear,
Your face,	your tongue,	your wit,
To serve,	to trust,	to fear.

The lines may be read from either left to right, or from above downwards. They may also be read in various directions.

Simple-minded Old Party!

A nice old lady, apparently just arrived on a train from the country, entered one of the refreshment rooms of the Springfield (Mass.) railroad station the other day, and said that she had left her parasol on the settee. A general search commenced and lasted for some time. Finally one of the waiters asked the old dame when she had left it, to which she answered, after counting upon her fingers, "Well, it was just three years ago last Fourth of July." There was a general roar, much to the astonishment of the old lady, who went away with a very puzzled look upon her countenance.

Gone Home.

A Boston paper is evidently afflicted by a relative of the wretched Italian who grinds out misery on Geary street every evening. It says:

A hand organist comes round to our office every day and plaintively grinds out about "Come home, dear father, come home." He is informed that he need not come here again. The old man went home yesterday.

Candid Little Boy.

"Be you good?" asked a bright little chap of Miss Bud, his Sunday School teacher, the other day. "Oh! no," was the becoming reply. "You ain't! Well, I knew you wasn't pretty, but I always thought you was good."

Pleasant.

"Hair manure" is what a young lady in quired for in one of the Keokuk drug stores last week when she wanted a bottle of hair renewer.

Sailor suits for the seaside are shown ready-made for misses and little girls, at the East.

Thermometers are placed at the top of the the new style of parasols.

Claret-colored coats are ultra Dublin fashion.

Supper Parties.

A man eats breakfast because he is hungry; oo often he hurries over his dinner, but supper he enjoys. All enjoy a supper at the BIVALVE, 540 Market street, three doors below Kearny. There they find the cosiest little private rooms up-stairs, the finest oysters and the best of everything. W. Spreen started the BIVALVE seven years ogo, and it is to-day the most popular oyster house in San Francisco.

The Greeley Hat.

A large invoice of the Greeley Hats, as well as other hats of the latest styles has just been received at THE HAT STORE, 647 Washington street, the second hat store below Kearny. Each hat is sold at a dollar less than is charged at any other store. B

FACT.

Our race is run: the Norman Knight
Is distanced by the engineer;
The cotton spinner beats us quite,
When all the battle is to clear
A hundred thousand pounds a year;
That is the glory of our age,
Six figures on the ledger's page—
And no bad glory either, dear,
As glory goes among saint and sage.

Our life is all a poor illusion,
And nothing is that seems to be;
Our knowledge only breeds confusion,
Our love is moonshine on the sea;
Our faith is but the shadow we
Cast on the cloud that bounds our view;
And to be virtuous and true
Is trouble, plague and misery,
If we have not the funds when the bills come due.

Magnificent Cranium.

At Mobile recently a shell exploded, and piece struck one of our colored fellow-citizens on the head. He flew around like a girl with a grasshopper up her trowsers leg, and finally asked, "who had been pulling his hair." The head was uninjured, but the shell was bursted all to pieces.

Baggy.

You cannot wear anything this season that will not be called stylish, provided it has ruffles enough to make you look like a demoralized rag-baby, and is bunched together sufficiently to look as if you were wearing your whole wardrobe at once.

Whisky distilled from sawdust is the latest Wisconsin enterprise.

New-fashioned rings are made very wide.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that.
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has these, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experiences, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Lightning Ink Eraser

Patented by Mr. J. W. Tallmadge Jan. 16, 1872.

For the use of lawyers, merchants, bookkeepers, clerks, and the writing community in general; to be used instead of a lancet or scraper for erasing ink from paper and parchment, in order to instantly rectify a mistake or clean off a blot, without injury whatever to the printers ink upon a printed form, such as deed, mortgage, bill-head, or ruling upon the paper; saving the time and labor of scratching, and leaving the paper or parchment clean and good to write upon as it was before the mistake or blot was made. With the aid of this valuable and useful article you rectify a mistake or blot without taking the penholder from your hand; it is done in an instant, and the paper is ready to write upon again. The old way of scratching the ink not only takes out the ruling, but spoils the surface of the paper, and the ink will spread and blot when written over again; and in case of blot upon any printed form you can easily scratch it off without spoiling your form, if it is done with a knife or scraper. It also removes stains made by ink, fruit, iron-rust, etc., from cotton, linen, and the finest laces, without the least injury to any goods that water will not injure, therefore it is invaluable to all, from a school boy to a bank, for erasing ink from paper and parchment; and to every housewife for cleansing stains from linens and laces. IT IS ENDORSED BY EVERY ONE who sees it.

DIRECTIONS.—To remove ink from paper and parchment, dip the end of the penholder in the bottle and apply, WITHOUT RUBBING. When the ink has disappeared, absorb the fluid with blotter.

When the ink has been written for years, it will be necessary to make two or three applications of the eraser, and each time not failing to absorb the fluid with blotting paper, before applying afresh, as the vitality of the liquid rapidly evaporates; for this reason the bottle must be kept corked.

To remove stains from Laces, etc., dip the stained part into the fluid, then rinse in clean water.

☞ For sale by all Stationers and Druggists in town and country. Price 50 cents per bottle.

Eloquent Editors.

For geniality of sentiment and dignity of expression, the press of the South surpasses all the papers published in the English language. In a recent number of a Louisiana paper we find the following flattering notice of another editor. The two must love each other with a love surpassing that of man for women:

In a two-column editorial the sneaking cur who edits that lying, incendiary, piratical, blackguard, loathsome sheet known (to only a few) as the Atakapas Register, howls over the imaginary crimes of the good people of Franklin in a manner like the incoherent ravings of a madman, or the demoniacal bellowing of an imp of Satan, the phosphorescent gleam of whose bloated carcass furnishes him with the only light his rheumy eyes are likely to have this side of the lurid flames of his predestined residence in perdition.

It is stated that this editor is so bloodthirsty that he always uses red ink. He has a private cemetery of his own where he buries all the people he kills.

An Old Habit.

A Boston bride, whose groom remonstrated with her at the wedding for indulging in rather indiscriminate bestowal of her maiden kisses on her male friends, remarked with natural naivete that the gentleman in question had been in the habit of kissing her all her life and she did'nt see why they should stop now.

Woman's Judgment Needed.

The London Spectator is in favor of a woman's university in England, on the ground that the judgment of educated women is needed on many of the most important questions of the day.

A Queer Lawyer.

Texas has a lawyer, aged 43, who never drank a drop of liquor, never swore an oath and belongs to no church. We should like to know what sort of a lawyer and what sort of a Texan he calls himself with such characteristics as those.

Ancient Euchre.

An Archæological correspondent adduces as evidence of the antiquity of the game of euchre the passage in the New Testament which relates how the priest and the Levite "passed," and the good Samaritan "assisted."

The Tribune lately has cleared $160,000 a year, which is given as strong reason by the Greeleyites that Greeley would make an honest President and will not be bought by presents.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

Removal.

Newell's Paragon Shirt Bazaar has been doing an immense business for the past year though hidden away up two flights of stairs. Now it has come out in full view of everyone and is established at 136 Montgomery street, Occidental Hotel building, and is now fast monopolizing all the fashionable custom of the city. This Bazaar has become famous for perfect fitting shirts at low prices, and Newell's shirts cover the manly breasts of our best citizens. H

A "Wheeler & Wilson" Sewing Machine manufactured every minute. The Company's factory covers 14 acres, employing 2,000 persons. Over 600,000 now in use; 100,800 more of "Wheeler & Wilson's" sold for family use than of any other make. The "new draw feed," a recent improvement, makes it almost silent, and it moves so regularly, evenly and squarely that a child can run it. It has less than one-half the machinery of any other making the lock-stitch. W. M. Stoddard, General Agent for the Pacific Coast, 427 Montgomery street, San Francisco.

How to Tell.

The Fat Contributor thus discourses: I know when I have made a success without being told. The committee bring their wives up to the platform and introduce them to me. Some of the influential citizens introduce themselves. The editor takes me warmly by the hand, and wants to know where the next number of his paper will reach me.

If I stay over night with my friend, the Association President, he invites in some of the neighbors and there is a social time in the parlor. Or, if I am at the hotel the boys call around and invite me out to eat oysters, and it is difficult to get away from them sometimes to go to bed. There are people to see me off in the morning, and I hear it stated over and above board that if I come to that town again the hall would not be large enough to hold the people. Little boys on the street are respectful.

But when I fail nobody is introduced. The editor, who in the afternoon said he must be sure to see me after the lecture, slips off home, His paper doesn't reach me either (unless it reaches me under the fifth rib.) The secretary hands me the stipulated amount with frigid politeness and departs. As I pass along the sidewalk, on my way to the hotel, I hear some little boy shout "humbug" in a voice of startling shrillness.

The landlord surveys me with a look of pity as I enter—he has heard all about it—and I sneak off to bed as soon as possible. No one attends me to the depot in the morning, and I hear a rude fellow tell another on the platform, as I am about to get on the cars, "If that fraud comes to town again he'll get a head put on him."

"Holladay" Times in Oregon.

The Salem Farmer gives the following picture of the Oregon Legislature:

It was the shame of this city, and the disgrace to the majority of the Legislature, that Holladay and his satellites held high carnival in Starkey's Block, with wine, whisky, women, and feasts, to which were added, not infrequently, midnight revelings and drunkenness. Easy-going members of the Legislature were wined, dined, made drunk and put to bed, to wake up supple tools of the great Holladay. Those of a financial turn of mind were enabled to start ranches, and saloons, buy elegant homesteads, pay off old debts, and even have $2,000 checks to bet on poker, albeit they came to this city as poor as church mice, to serve the people at three dollars a day.

Played Out.

Anna Brewster writes from Rome of a Nova Scotian visiting that city, and inquiring if the amphitheatre was running. When told that it was in ruins, he exclaimed, "O, I see, it's played out," and proceeded to draw consolation from his cigar.

Poor Dogites.

The Dogites (that is, the inhabitants of the city of Prairie du Chien) are inconsolable. The new liquor law of Illinois has closed the saloons. Even a foaming glass of mild lager cannot be had—nothing, in fact, but soda water, ginger beer, sarsaparilla, ice water and "sich."

Ferocious Mosquitos.

Two New York sparrows were sacrificed by a New Jersey landlord, who had heard that they would kill mosquitos. He turned the poor birds loose in his house, and next morning only a few feathers and bones remained of them, while the mosquitos buzzed a cheery song of triumph.

Jem Mace and party are sparring their way over to Virginia City.

Treasure in Heaven.

The Catholic World for June, in a notice of Longfellow's "Divine Tragedy," says of it:

It is a beautiful offering to Christ from a place where he has received many insults, and we trust He may give the best of all rewards to the one who made it.

Isn't that just a little officious, suggesting that a suitable acknowledgment will be made to Mr. Longfellow? However, as the book is not likely to bring in a very large sum of money, its sale being slow, it is a comfort to Mr. Longfellow that the Catholic World has hinted that something handsome will be done for him by and by.

SEWING MACHINES.

Their Influence on Trade and Social Life.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TWISTED LOOP-STITCH.

GREAT AUCTION SALE ON BROADWAY YESTERDAY.

WILLCOX & GIBBS TRIUMPHANT

THE INFLUENCE EXERTED DURing the past fifteen or twenty years upon social and commercial life by the Sewing-machine is of a character almost unparalleled Within half an ordinary life-time the work of the needle has been almost entirely revolutionized. A magnificent trade has been developed, calling into activity the best energies of tens and hundreds of thousands. A stimulus has been imparted to all kinds of manufacturing industry. The condition of millions of working people has been vastly improved, both in a material and moral sense. A branch of foreign trade of no mean dimensions has sprung up; while in almost every family of the land the influence of this invention is felt in the diminution of female drudgery, and the increased comfort of the inmate

An active contest has been going on during all these years, between the manufacturers of different machines as to which of them has the strongest claims upon public patronage. Nearly all the machines of leading make use two threads, and form what is termed the lock-stitch; and it is between the double-thread companies, and the manufacturers of the twisted loop-stitch machine, or the WILLCOX & GIBBS, that the main contest as to the principles of construction are now going on.

The above statements will appear pertinent and interesting to the reader, in the light of a circumstance which occurred yesterday, and which has a very important bearing on the Sewing-machine contest, and indirectly upon the comfort of every family.

The WILLCOX & GIBBS COMPANY, which owns the exclusive patent of the twisted loop-stitch, has devoted money without stint to the perfecting of their machine, the idea of the inventor being that by means partly of his invention of the twisted loop, and partly by the ingenuity of other mechanical details, he could produce a machine having substantially all the excellencies of the double-thread machine, with many besides, and at the same time avoid the defects and drawbacks arising from the complications incidental to all machines using two threads. The lock-stitch men on the other hand, making the most of their name "lock"-stitch, were a little too ready to class the Willcox & Gibbs machine, which only uses one thread, with the crowd of cheap chain-stitch machines, most of which are practically worthless. This was hardly fair to the Willcox & Gibbs, except on the principal that in love and war every stratagem is allowable. The Willcox & Gibbs men, with growing confidence in their invention, took every possible means, through the Press and otherwise to explain to the public that with a small amount of care and attention in learning to operate their machine, they could secure all the benefits of the lock-stitch, and a great many advantages besides. But not content with thus standing on the defensive, they adopted a system of business tactics which carried the warfare right into the enemy's camp. Their plan was to offer the use of the Willcox & Gibbs machine for a limited period gratis to any respectable family, on the sole condition that the parties would personally test its merits. They were all the better pleased if they could get their machine into a family side by side with a Singer or a Howe, a Wheeler & Wilson or a Grover & Baker, or any other of the best double-thread machines: for they feel absolutely certain that, however strong the prejudices of the owners of those machines might be, those prejudices must in the majority of cases give way before practical demonstration of the superior merits, on the whole, or the Willcox & Gibbs. Meanwhile, the company signified its readiness to take any machine at a fair price, as part payment for their machine.

It is easy to see that with such a hand-to-hand warfare as this no quarter would be given or taken and nothing but sheer superiority could carry the day. If they had only a half confidence in their machine the Willcox & Gibbs people would have shunned so close a contest with, at any rate, the newest makes of the double-thread machines, and would have contented themselves with such a triumph as they could snatch from the old worn out machines of their rivals. But such a course the very nature of their tactics rendered impossible, for their adversaries were quite alive to their mode of proceedure, which was patent to all the world through advertisement and otherwise, and nothing would have been simpler for them than to have placed the newest lock-stitch machines in immediate rivalry with the Willcox & Gibbs, and have borne away the latter in triumph, provided the lock-stitch machines were really best adapted for family use

This kind of sewing machine warfare has been going on for several years, the Willcox & Gibbs annually carrying off many thousands of trophies in the shape of discarded Singers, Howes, Grover & Bakers, Wheeler & Wilsons, Weeds, Florences, and other machines of that class.

Yesterday the public were invited to pay a visit to No. 371 Broadway, a large wholesale store, rented temporarily for the purpose, to witness the sale of from ten to twelve hundred second-hand double-thread machines, received in part payment by the Willcox & Gibbs Company during the last two or three months, in the vicinity of New York. Two large floors were crowded with double-thread machines of all the leading makes, as described above—so crowded indeed, as to make it difficult for persons attending the sale to find standing room. The machines, instead of looking like discarded machines, were apparently in excellent condition, the marks on some of the plates showing that they were among the latest of the several kinds manufactured. The sale was attended by dealers in large numbers, and there was a fair amount of competition. The machines were arranged in lots, generally of sixes and tens, and were sold one lot at time with the privilege of the lot. Each machine was ticketed and numbered separately in the catalogue which formed a pamphlet of twenty-six pages. The following is a fair sample of the prices fetched:—

Lot No. 80, 4 machines, viz: 1 Singer, 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic—$25 for 1 Wheeler & Wilson, and $18 for balance of lot.

Lot No. 88, 5 machines, viz.: 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker, cabinet, 1 Empire—$21 for the Grover & Baker, $21 each for 2 Wheeler & Wilsons, and $8 each for the 2 not-so-good.

Lot No. 90, 5 machines, viz.: 1 Empire, cabinet, 3 Wheeler & Wilson, 1 Grover & Baker—$38 for the Empire, and $20 50 each for balance of lot.

Lot No. 93, 10 machines, viz.: 1 Singer, 1 American Button Hole, 1 Howe, 1 Florence, 1 Grover & Baker, 3 Wheeler & Wilsons, 1 Eliptic, 1 Weed—$22 50 each for Singer and American Button Hole, and $10 50 each for balance of lot.

The event itself is felt by the sewing-machine trade to be very significant, and other Sewing-machine Companies can hardly let it pass in silence. It is all very well for the Willcox & Gibbs Company to be knocking down rival machines in this summary way "to effect a clearance," but it must have been humiliating and galling to other Companies to see their beautiful and favorite machines thus dragged in the dirt at the not-wheels of a triumphant adversary. It was not an improving spectacle for any of the double-thread companies to see machines which they are selling every day for seventy and a hundred dollars or more, put up ignominiously in a crowd and sold at auction. It will probably take a good strong dose of philosophy to console them under the circumstances. It is all very well to say "sic transit gloria mundi" while all the rest of mankind are growing old and fading around us, but to be growing decrepit and worn-out while our rivals are increasing their strength and renewing their youth is rather tantalizing and trying to the temper. There is only one consolation for the double-thread companies; there are enough of them to form a goodly mess. Like a half dozen or a dozen old beaux who have each paid an unsuccessful suit to a sprightly maiden, but who find themselves quietly shelved, while the object of their adoration walks off with a handsome and strapping young fellow, they can afford to forget their mutual jealousies and dislikes in a common antipathy and aversion for their rival. They can smoke the pipe of peace and spend melancholy enjoyment in recounting their past hopes and successes, and some ons or two more daring or wicked than the rest, may possibly deceive themselves into the fancy that they shall still enjoy snatches of confidence and moments of stolen intimacy. But in a fair fight they have all been overcome, and Public Favor, which loves nothing like success, mercilessly snubs them as she passes them by leaning on the arm of her beloved.

Meanwhile the public, which is solely interested in having the best machine has delivered in this sale and what has it up to, a signal verdict in favor of the Willcox & Gibbs machine. It will be ready to discard the Willcox & Gibbs should a superior machine be introduced, but it is not expecting too much to suppose that the courage and daring which could venture upon so close a contest, where nothing but sheer strength and merit could win—a contest reminding one of the old boarding days when the brave tars, despising long ranges, pushed their ships close alongside and grappled with their adversary on the very bulwarks—it is not too much to suppose that this courage is founded upon a just confidence in their cause, and that the inventive talent which produced the WILLCOX &
